TAKE INSULL OFF SHIP TODAY

END CWA TODAY; 121,500 TO LOSE JOBS IN ILLINOIS

State Will Take Over Work Monday.

The federal government's national reemployment program of the Civil Works administration comes to a close today after one billion dollars in wages has been paid to more than four million persons since its institution last Nov. 29.

In Illinois today 121,500 CWA employés will lose their jobs. But on Monday 35,000 former CWA workers who were on the Cook county relief rolls when the civil works army was mobilized will go back to work here under the Illinois Emergency Relief commission's work relief program. Before the week is ended at least 80,000 other workers in Cook county and in the 101 downstate counties are expected to qualify for work relief and be placed on the pay rolls of the state commission.

8 Million April Cost.

Costs of the new program are expected to approach $8,000,000 in Illinois for the month of April, it was stated yesterday by commission officials. Wilfred F. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, said he estimated 1,058,000 individuals would be receiving aid from the state during the month.

These totals compare with an expenditure of $6,583,897 for relief during the month of October, 1933, the last month the commission operated prior to the beginning of CWA operations. During that month there were 216,295 "cases"—individuals or families—or 950,000 persons receiving the state aid.

Spent 5 Millions a Month.

The records of the Illinois relief commission show an average of $5,200,000 a month has been spent on direct relief during the four months the CWA has been in operation. This amount was distributed despite the fact that 100,000 of the state's relief "cases" were given CWA jobs, and despite the total CWA expenditures of $61,000,000 for wages and materials during the same months in this state.

Mr. Reynolds last night said the increased estimates for April expenditures were in anticipation of the return to the relief rolls of many of those who formerly had received aid and the slight additions of many families which hitherto had remained off the relief rolls but now have reached the end of their resources.

State and Federal Funds.

"Many of these families found it possible to avoid applying for relief during the existence of the CWA, but now again find themselves destitute. Since last December, in fact, there have been slight net gains in the number of families on relief. These probably will gain in volume," said Reynolds.

The funds to be spent by the commission will be drawn from both state and federal sources. The CWA was operating during its final weeks on money drawn from the 950 million dollar appropriation voted by congress for both CWA and relief purposes. Wages paid under the work relief program may be drawn from the same fund, and in addition the commission also possesses a 30 million dollar bond issue voted by the state legislature.

35,000 Go Back Monday.

Plans as made by the relief commission yesterday call for a brief hiatus between the termination of the CWA and the beginning of the work relief program in all counties save Cook. The 35,000 men and women who will go back to work here Monday will be the only ones who are taken directly from the CWA rolls to the work relief rolls, and all of these, Secretary Reynolds said, have been found to be destitute.

In the downstate counties all CWA workers or individuals who would seek state aid must apply for it to the commission and undergo investigation by case workers. In most of the other counties this work is quickly done, he said, and at least 115,000 persons are expected to be at work by the close of the first seven days.

CWA Aim Explained.

The change which will take place today, the relief authorities explained, becomes clear when it is known that the CWA was in no wise a relief program. It was designed to put men and women to work quickly and to spread wages over as large as possible a group of the country's population. Another intention of the CWA's proponents was to lift a portion of the load which state relief organizations were beginning to find a crushing one as winter months approached.

Any jobless person was eligible for a CWA job. Salaries were paid at the prevailing wage scale for the various classes of labor which was hired on the thousands of projects.

The work relief program, however,

Army Air Mail Flyer Dies in Crash

TWELFTH KILLED SINCE PRIVATE LINES LOST JOB

Latest Victim Flies Into Rainstorm.

Clinton, Ia., March 30.—[Special.]—Lieut. T. A. Wood, United States army air mail pilot, was killed tonight when his single seater plane, containing twenty-three sacks of mail, crashed into a field near Elvira, 12½ miles northwest of here.

He was the twelfth army flyer to be killed since the war department took over transportation of the mail less than five weeks ago, but only the fifth to die while actually carrying mail.

Lieut. Wood was outbound from Chicago for Omaha when the accident occurred. He had left Chicago at 7:15 and was making normal progress along the intermediate points when he ran into bad weather—heavy rain and poor visibility—near Clinton. He had flown the route a number of times and was more or less familiar with it.

Aviator Apparently Confused.

Apparently, however, Lieut. Wood either tried to turn back or he became confused on striking the rain, for when he crashed he was east bound—in reverse to his previous direction. If he had meant to turn back he could have landed at any one of numerous emergency landing fields within a 50 mile radius.

The ship crashed on the farm field of William Mommsen. The impact was so terrific that the nose of the plane was buried four feet in the earth. The twenty-three mail bags were scattered. However, they were not destroyed because Lieut. Wood had shut off the ignition of his motor, thereby preventing a possible fire.

Farmer Hears Motor.

All the mail was picked up intact after a brief search, and was to be forwarded to Omaha by another army mail plane from Davenport, Ia.

Leonard McGuire, a farmer, who heard the crash and was the first person to reach the scene, said that he had heard Lieut. Wood's ship a few moments earlier, and that it appeared to be flying low but with the motor in good condition.

Lieut. Wood was 27 years old.

FROM GARNER'S HOME TOWN.

Lieut. Wood, who resided at the Southmoor hotel, 6646 Stony Island avenue, when in Chicago, had been married a year. He had no children. His widow is a resident of San Antonio, Tex., and is there now. Lieut. Wood comes from Uvalde, Tex., home town of Vice President John N. Garner. He was a graduate of Kelly field since February, 1933. He had finished one year of active duty for the government and was assigned to Brook field, San Antonio, Tex. He was attached to the 12th observation group of the 22d squadron.

Col. Horace Hickam, in charge of the central zone of the army air mail, said that this was the first mishap of any kind in his zone since inauguration of the army air mail. He said his zone had flown a mail distance of 282,000 miles since the army began carrying the mail.

List of Flyers Killed.

Lieut. D. O. Lowry at Deshler, O., Feb. 22.

Lieut. Fred I. Patrick at Denison, Tex., Feb. 22.

Guard Sullivan Sentencing 5 Stone Officials

Government secret service men yesterday stood guard over Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan as he resentenced five former officials of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate concern, who had been convicted of using the mails to defraud.

The guard was established after Judge Sullivan received a rambling letter, unsigned, which threatened him with violent death because the writer felt that the short terms given the Stone officials constituted "a travesty on justice."

Violent Threats in Letter.

"I am thankful for having two guns," the letter said. "Your judging days will soon be over. I am going to fill you full of holes the first chance I get. Then I don't care what happens. I will see you in hell some day."

The writer declared that he was now past 60 years old and almost penniless since he lost his savings of more than $10,000 in the Stone financial crash. He added that the sentence meted out to the former officials after their first trial—twenty years and a fine of $15,000 each—should have been repeated.

A second trial, ended on March 16, resulted in sentences of three years each for Henry F. Norcott, Harold D. Bennett, W. Scott Carroll, and Charles P. Packer Jr. Leslie A. Needham, counsel for the company, was ordered to serve a year and a day in prison.

Acts on Jail Plea.

All were duly sentenced, but pleaded that they be allowed to serve the time of punishment in jails or other correctional institutions rather than in a federal penitentiary. It was on this motion that Judge Sullivan acted yesterday.

After vacating the previous sentence in the second trial he ordered that the four executives of the firm, all but Needham, serve terms of one year on each of three counts, the terms to run consecutively. Under federal law a sentence of one year or less is served in institutions other than penitentiaries, the place to be chosen by the attorney general. Norcott, Bennett, Carroll, and Packer all specified that they would not appeal the new sentence.

Needham to Appeal.

To make Needham also eligible for the same treatment his sentence was reduced from a year and a day to a year. He announced, however, that he would appeal. All are scheduled to be taken into custody by the United States marshal next Thursday.

MANY COLLEGE GROUPS RACKETS, DEAN CHARGES

Many intercollegiate honorary societies were characterized as rackets yesterday by Dean J. A. Park of the Ohio State university in an address before the conference of the National Association of Deans and Advisers of Men at Northwestern university. The meeting will close today.

Dean Park estimated that each of these societies take an average of $500 annually from the college where it is situated. The total contributed each year for the upkeep of honorary societies, he said, reaches $279,000. There are 33 honorary societies in special fields and 96 professional societies, Dean Park declared.

"The men in various parts of the country have founded intercollegiate organizations nominally to advance some worthy cause," he said. "Unfortunately they line their own pockets and take expensive free trips about the country for installation and inspection." He declared that 80 to 90 per cent of the dues collected from the students goes to the national headquarters and all the member gets is a certificate or badge.

SWEET TOOTH PLAYS BANDIT A SOUR TRICK

Jerry Skrivanek's sweet tooth played him a sour trick last night. Skrivanek, a well dressed youth of 20 years, of 1615 Blue Island avenue, stepped into the Dutch Mill candy shop at 138 North Dearborn street.

He pointed what was later found to be a toy pistol at Miss Catherine Brinkman, 3367 Archer avenue; Miss Helen Lee, 4548 North Ashland avenue, and Miss Eva Chesney, 4518 Sheridan road, and demanded the store money. Miss Brinkman turned over $11.

"I like candy," said Skrivanek after pocketing the money. "Wrap me up a box of it." While one of the girls proceeded nervously to wrap up a box, Skrivanek waited. This wait proved his undoing, for it gave Trafic Policeman Stanley O'Sullivan, summoned by a passerby, time to get to the store and nab Skrivanek just as he was fleeing. Skrivanek at first gave the name of Joseph Robinson.

Snatches Policewoman's Purse; Her Bullets Miss

Policewoman Alice McCarthy of the south park police force has a special assignment, and that is to catch purse snatchers who have been molesting women on the south side recently. Last night a young Negro, about 17 years old, snatched her purse while she was standing at Oakwood boulevard and Vincennes avenue. Policewoman McCarthy fired several shots at him, but he got away with her purse.

Faith in Red Russia Voiced by Brookhart

Dr. Wirt's Stand

Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary educator, took another shot yesterday at Washington "brain trusters" when he intimated that Democratic congressmen are trying to put him "on the spot." Dr. Wirt asserted that he will refuse to be limited in his congressional testimony and will insist on elaborating in his own way on the activity of the "brain trust." Details on page 8.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—Some fifty guests came away from a swank private dinner in Washington last night with a fine mellow glow and measurable exhilaration.

For one thing, instead of the usual vacuous boredom of such an event, they had tasted a bit of real excitement and drama in hearing one distinguished guest verbally trounce another in most thoroughgoing fashion. This transformed the after dinner speeches from the customary deadliness of such efforts into a sideshow far outshining, for example, the United States senate.

For another, the diners had heard an official of the Roosevelt administration not only extol the glories of soviet Russia and the great joys of all the Russians but actually advocate that the United States follow in the same path of communism and, by that token, some of the guests came away feeling they had possibly solved the mystery of which member of the Roosevelt brain trust had done all that talking to Dr. Wirt of Gary.

Two Senatorial Guests.

The dinner was given at the Racquet club in honor of a Chicagoan, Thomas H. McInerney, president of the National Dairy Products corporation. Mr. McInerney has just completed three months as a member of the NRA industrial advisory board, and some of his friends were toasting him at a farewell dinner before his return to Chicago and his business affairs.

Among the guests were United States Senator Josiah W. Bailey, a stanch and conservative Democrat from North Carolina, and a former United States senator, Smith Wildman Brookhart of Iowa.

Mr. Brookhart, who with various members of his immediate family has rarely failed to enjoy the bounty of federal pay rolls, is now an assistant administrator of the AAA under Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and his duties have been to participate in the administration's efforts to stimulate trade between the United States and Russia.

Iowan Launches Bravely.

After a satisfying meal had been served and the coffee was poured and cigars lit it was made known that speeches were in order and despite sighs here and there the speeches began.

Ex-Senator Brookhart, who once toured Russia and has since become expert on the subject, "authoring" various papers and books about it, broke at once into his favorite theme.

As the tale is told by several eyewitnesses, Mr. Brookhart outdid himself on this occasion. He produced charts and diagrams to show that the Russian people, under the soviets, are much better off than Americans and

Bandit Slain, Girl Shot in Store Holdup

An unidentified bandit was shot and killed and a woman patron was seriously wounded in a gun fight between the robber and Detective Edward Lynn early today in the Ucitel drug store at 3800 Madison street, in the Midwest Athletic club building. The woman wounded was Miss Nell Sbarbaro, 32 years old, 3833 Washington boulevard.

The gunman, poorly dressed and about 28 years old, entered the pharmacy shortly after midnight. He forced Harry Forgan, 1220 South Harding avenue, the manager, and Miss Anna Stein, 4429 Lake Park avenue, the cashier, to surrender about $50.

Lined Up Against Wall.

Then he lined the manager and cashier up against a rear wall with several patrons whom he had previously cowed. The latter were Miss Sbarbaro, Dr. Edward Ponzer, 6 North Hamlin avenue, and Irwin Lodwick, 3856 Gladys avenue.

Meantime a passerby had witnessed the robbery. As he started to call police he met Detective Lynn and Detective Larry McElligott of the Fillmore street station and notified them of the holdup.

Five Bullets Kill Robber.

Detective McElligott ran to the front door and Lynn entered through a side door. As Lynn commanded the bandit to surrender the robber wheeled and fired once at him. Lynn pumped six bullets into him at close range. All took effect. Five struck the robber in the body, killing him.

The sixth pierced his hand and is believed to be the bullet that struck Miss Sbarbaro. She was standing in the back of the bandit at the time.

BABY SUCKED INTO 30 INCH WATER PIPE; RESCUED

HAMILTON, Ont., March 30.—(AP)—Sucked into a thirty inch culvert pipe by swirling water, a two year old baby was swept fifty feet under a road today and rescued from a creek on the other side.

With her sister near by, Margaret Scott fell into a creek near the culvert pipe and was drawn into it. The sister cried for help and ran across the road, where the child appeared in a few seconds.

A man whose name was not learned rushed into the creek. Battling waist deep in a strong current, he seized the child within a short distance of a cascade that drops down the side of a mountain onto jagged rocks.

TURKISH COURT MAY GIVE HIM UP TO U. S. NOW

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 30.—(AP)—The announcement that the Turkish government believes it can legally turn Samuel Insull over to American authorities brought to a climax tonight the 74 year old fugitive's long battle against extradition to the United States.

Insull himself, weary and sick from court fights in Greece and his subsequent dash toward the Black sea, was reported to have attempted suicide by trying to jump into the Bosporus. He was restrained, however, and placed under a heavy police guard.

The government, acting on an American request for the arrest of the former Chicago utilities operator, decided that his case comes under a provision of the penal code making possible his arrest for American authorities.

Insull Virtually a Prisoner.

FIRST—His removal from the dirty Greek tramp steamer Maiotis, which brought him here two days ago after his flight from Greece, to a hotel or hospital under a heavy guard of officers.

SECOND—Verification by the Istanbul penal court that accusations against him are neither political nor military, and that the Turkish government therefore has a legal right to turn him over to American authorities.

THIRD—The Turkish government's exercise of that right.

Possibility that the three-point drama might drag over for a long period, however, rested in intimations that the court procedure might be extended.

The Maiotis was given the freedom of Istanbul harbor—this change from a transit status making it easier for the Turkish government to exercise jurisdiction—and Insull tonight was held a virtual prisoner.

Fugitive Expresses "Thanks."

Despite his continually harassed state, Insull sent word ashore that he wanted to thank the Turkish police for their courteous attitude. He was especially grateful that they refrained from waking him up when they first boarded the Maiotis upon its arrival at 6 a. m. yesterday.

"Sleep is now my only solace," Insull was reported to have muttered.

The government's decision to arrest Insull is based on article nine of the Turkish civil code, which, as one of President Mustapha Kemal Pasha's reforms, was adopted by the republic and modeled after the Italian code. Article nine reads:

"In case a foreign government asks that an inculpated person be handed over, the government handed the documents to a court in the city where the inculpated person is, and this court studies the documents with the purpose of determining if the inculpated person committed a political or military crime.

"If the tribunal determines that the inculpated person's crime is not of this nature and that the inculpated person is of foreign nationality, then the government is free to hand over the inculpated person to the requesting government."

Capture an Accident.

A desire for fresh vegetables and other provisions may have led Insull into the trap which it now appears will lead to his return to Chicago. Fearing scurvy, the fugitive was said to have decided to stop here for supplies.

If he had not stopped the American government's request for his arrest by Turkey might not have arrived before the dingy tramp steamer had passed through the Bosporus into the Black sea.

Upon the Maiotis' arrival here two days ago its captain did not expect to remain more than three hours, but Turkey's sudden and swiftly executed order to detain the boat, following American Ambassador Robert P. Skinner's representations, kept him here.

Violation of Turkish transit regulations may also have had something to do with the detaining of the Maiotis, it was said. According to these regulations, boats signaling a transit passage at Chanak castle, official outpost on the Dardanelles, must make the 130 mile run from there to Istanbul in not more than 14 hours. The Maiotis took more than 24 hours.

Complications Are Feared.

There is a possibility that international law may inject complications into the Insull situation. The Bosporus may be considered an international river, like the Danube, and the matter of Turkey's jurisdiction be considered subject to treaty stipulations.

These points plus the effect the arrest of Insull aboard a Greek ship may have on Turko-Greek relations have been occupying the attention of government officials.

Text books on international law supply numerous cases of jurisdiction involving arrests on foreign vessels in another nation's ports. None, however, has exactly similar facts. In cases cited in different text books authorities hold divergent views on the general question of arrests on a vessel flying a flag of another nation than the country in which the vessel is anchored.

Meanwhile, ten policemen, comprising the harbor control force, remained aboard the decrepit and 45 year old Maiotis, which was anchored beneath the shadow of the famous Seraglio palace.

The director of the harbor police refused all requests for permission to board the vessel. He is normally qualified to give such permission, and no reason was given for his refusal.

Crew Kept Aboard Ship.

He said the crew of the Maiotis was free to land, but the captain did not allow the sailors to go ashore since, it was said, Insull gave strict orders that the ship must be ready at all times to leave if the detaining order should be lifted.

The aged fugitive was said to be prepared to protest his arrest. He sent wireless messages in all directions, presumably to advisers.

American documents listing the charges against Insull—which Ambassador Skinner gave Foreign Minister Bey yesterday—were sent today to Attorney General Kennan Bey. The attorney general forwarded them to the penal court, which will consider the Insull case.

The decision of the government that it has jurisdiction to hand Insull over to the United States under the penal code removes one source of uncertainty. It had been feared the absence of a Turkish-American extradition treaty might cause difficulties. Such an extradition treaty has been negotiated and ratified by the United States, but Turkey has not yet ratified it. The Turkish national council will meet tomorrow and may ratify the pact then.

Hold "Insull Parley" in Athens.

ATHENS, Greece, March 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Samuel Insull, Mme. Helen Kouryoumjoglou, her friend and companion; Insull lawyers and the owner of the freighter Maiotis held a long secret conference tonight in the Hotel Grande Bretagne. Afterwards Mme. Kouryoumjoglou checked out of the hotel and left for an unrevealed destination.

It was believed fear of imminent complications at Istanbul caused the secret moves of the fugitive's wife and their advisers.

Mrs. Insull probably will remain in Greece, it was believed, though the American legation issued a statement that her passport was in proper condition.

U. S. Confident of Success.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—While they rushed papers for Samuel Insull's extradition to Turkey, where the fugitive utilities promoter is now a captive, federal officials today were grimly confident that they will soon have Insull back in this country and standing trial before a Chicago court.

Only the decision of a Turkish court today stood between the United States and the colorful industrialist whom it has pursued half way around the world. Cooped up in the Turkish port of Istanbul, Insull, once more faced with return to America, was reported near collapse while frantic efforts are being made on his behalf to extricate him.

Turks Willing to Coöperate.

Renewed optimism within the government over the success of the sensational Insull chase appeared to be based on two factors.

FIRST—The fact that the Turkish extradition treaty, which Turkey is expected to ratify, is more ironclad than the Greek treaty through which Insull slipped.

SECOND—The evident desire of the Turkish government to coöperate.

Quietly elated, state and justice department officials were bending every effort to hurry the necessary papers to Ankara, the Turkish capital. This work was started late last night when Ambassador Robert P. Skinner flashed the word that the Turkish government was willing to arrest Insull.

A copy of the warant for the fugitive's arrest was immediately cabled to Ankara. At the request of the Turkish authorities the state department is also arranging for a copy of the indictment to reach Ankara tomorrow or the next day. Records of the court cases against Insull are to be forwarded in addition.

Debate Method of Return.

All these documents are to be presented to a Turkish court. It must finally decide whether Insull can be detained under Turkish laws and whether he can be extradited. This court action is the next step.

This procedure is similar to that carried out in Athens when the United States tried unsuccessfully to seize Insull there.

The Turkish extradition treaty was one of those rushed through the United States senate on Feb. 21 in an effort to close up all possible avenues of escape to Insull in the near east.

Justice department officials began considering methods for bringing Insull back to the United States if the Turks decide to hand him over after the court trial. Any one of a number of methods is open to this country, the justice department said.

A member of the diplomatic corps in Turkey could be assigned to return Insull. Turkey itself may contract to deliver him safely to the United States or the United States may send a special agent to Turkey.

DELAY STEPS HERE ON SAMUEL INSULL CASE PENDING U. S. DECISION

Federal authorities in Chicago are waiting for instructions from the attorney general's office in Washington before taking any action in regard to Samuel Insull, District Attorney Dwight H. Green said yesterday. No record of the Insull cases will be prepared until a study has been made of the Turkish treaty and it is decided just what the record should include.

"Whether or not a man will go from Chicago to Turkey as was done while Insull was in Greece has not yet been decided," Green said. "It all depends on the clauses in the treaty. It may be that the sending of such a representative will not be necessary. There is a chance that the record prepared for the Greek hearing may be used before the Turkish officials. We are waiting developments."

Martin Insull, brother of the fugitive utility magnate, is still in the Hotel Sherman quarters retained by his son-in-law, Maj. William Rafferty. Present plans are for him to go to Maj. Rafferty's farm near Morocco, Ind., some time today. However, according to his attorney, John Northup, Insull will be in and out of Chicago until his arraignment April 6 on charges of embezzling $364,720 of Middle West Utilities company funds.

ADMIRAL BYRD READY TO BEGIN LONE POLAR VIGIL

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, March 30.—(AP)—[By Mackay Radio.]—Work at the advance base on the Ross ice barrier has been completed and Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd prepared to start his lone vigil there, it was stated today in a radio message from the commander of the expedition.

Admiral Byrd said that the seven men who have been helping him to set up the base were ready to return to Little America immediately. As soon as they leave the admiral will start his winter observations. He expects to live at the base for seven months or more by himself.

Expedition members expected that his stay there would be a continual struggle for existence and an unrelaxing fight against fire, cold and illness.

The admiral will live in a shack 13 feet long, 9 feet wide and 7 feet high. A single kerosene stove will provide heat. He has plenty of equipment and food supplies on hand.

MRS. BLACKLIDGE WEEPS AS SHE IS FREED FROM JAIL

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, who didn't shed a tear when a jury in the Superior court on Jan. 24 pronounced her guilty of stealing the love of Policeman Norman E. Nottingham from his wife, Susanne, broke down and wept yesterday when she was freed from the county jail.

She had been a prisoner since March 21, having been sent to jail on Mrs. Nottingham's insistence because she failed to pay the $7,500 awarded to the policeman's wife to pay for "the malicious theft" of Nottingham's affections. Inasmuch as the judgment contained a malice count, Mrs. Nottingham was able to force Mrs. Blacklidge to go to jail by promising to pay her board during the period of her incarceration.

After various delays Judge Joseph B. David of the Superior court late yesterday accepted a $2,500 real estate bond posted by Aaron Anderson, Negro tailor, of 531 East 41st street, and released Mrs. Blacklidge from the custody of the sherif pending the outcome of her appeal on a habeas corpus ruling by Judge David.

Judge Suggests Test of Law.

Mrs. Blacklidge's attorneys went before Judge David several days ago with a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Judge David denied it and suggested that they test the law which permits incarceration of persons who fail to pay judgments when "the gist of the action is malice" by petitioning Judge Edmund K. Jarecki to free her under the insolvent debtor law.

This was done, and Judge Jarecki's ruling in denying the petition will be appealed. Mrs. Blacklidge's attorneys then filed notice for appeal from Judge David's ruling on the habeas corpus petition, and Judge David said he would release her on a cash bond of $1,500 or a real estate bond of $2,500.

"It takes something like this to realize how you've lost all your friends, except those friends who've lost all they had," said Mrs. Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue, as she munched a sandwich at noon in the sherif's office, and frantically telephoned to friends to ask them if they could put up property for a bond.

Property Rejected for Bond.

Earlier in the day it had been discovered that taxes had not been paid on a piece of property offered by a Negro woman, friend of W. G. Anderson, Negro attorney, who joined Mrs. Blacklidge's counsel to make a test case of the law governing debtors. Mrs. Blacklidge failed to reach any one who would put up property, and did not know until 2 o'clock that Attorney Anderson had induced his cousin to put up his property to free Mrs. Blacklidge.

"I had an $18 a week job cinched when Mrs. Nottingham sent me to jail," said Mrs. Blacklidge. "Now that's out. I'm going to try to get work as a seamstress. This dress I have on [a black satin dress she wore throughout her many court appearances] I made out of two old ones. I haven't money or prestige any more, but I still can sew."

Yesterday was Mrs. Blacklidge's birthday, but she would not tell how old she was. Mrs. Blacklidge said she intended to live with her stepson, Howard, at 5639 South Marshfield avenue.

New York, March 30.—(AP)—U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio and Mrs. Helen Graham Robbins of Lindsay, Ontario, will be married tomorrow at 4 p. m. in the chapel of Grace Episcopal church.

The Rev. W. Russell Bowie will officiate in the presence of a few relatives. Dr. Bowie and Senator Bulkley were in Harvard at the same time.

Mrs. Robbins is the widow of Henry S. Robbins of Chicago, who died two years ago. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. George H. Graham of Lindsay.

At the ceremony will be Senator Bulkley's son, Robert J. Bulkley Jr., and his daughter, Katharine. Mrs. Robbins' brother, George H. Graham Jr., also will be present.

The couple will reside in Washington.

Senator Bulkley, a Democrat, is 53 years old. He served two terms in the house, from 1911 to 1915, and was elected to the senate in 1930 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Theodore E. Burton. He was reelected in 1932 for a full term. His first wife, the former Katharine Pope of Helena, Mont., died two years ago.

BRITAIN TO RENEW WORK ON LINER; IDLE TO GET JOBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 30.—Thousands of unemployed Clydeside shipworkers received their biggest Easter gift in years today in the form of an announcement that work on the giant new Cunard liner No. 534 will be resumed next Tuesday. Construction of the vessel was halted Nov. 12, 1931, owing to the financial crisis and the glut of tonnage.

The resumption of work is made possible by the British government's decision to provide $15,000,000 needed to complete the liner. About 3,800 men directly employed and 10,000 others engaged in subsidiary contracts were thrown out of work when construction ceased. It is anticipated that most of these workers will get their jobs back as construction proceeds.

According to Sir Thomas Bell, managing director of John Brown & Co., Ltd., shipbuilders, the vessel with which Britain hopes to regain the Atlantic record from the German liner Bremen probably will be launched in late autumn.

MILTON BUILDS UP A REPUTATION AS A SHERLOCK

And His Lawyer Tells U.S. Court All About It.

Mr. Milton Werling, the Circuit court clerk of Adams county, Indiana, has always wanted to be a secret service man.

Last November he conceived the idea of getting friendly with some counterfeiters and capturing them. He had two reasons for this. First, he was running for reëlection, and the publicity would be good. Second, there probably would be a good reward.

It might have worked, but the capturing was done in Chicago by police, Mr. Werling was caught in the net, and yesterday started the task of proving to Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan that he is not a counterfeiter himself.

His Attorney Explains.

Attorney Leo Klein, conducting the defense of Mr. Werling, explained the situation in his opening statement.

"Mr. Werling is an amateur detective of some reputation and standing," he said. "Not long ago he chased some kidnapers and nearly caught them."

Then Mr. Werling produced his card, which read:

"I sneak in where others peep."

Attorney Klein described how Mr. Werling went to his cousin, Clarence Kintz, a café owner, who had been in the penitentiary for liquor law violations, and consequently knew about counterfeiters.

Kintz introduced him to William McKinlay Van Pelt, a paroled convict and a counterfeiter in good standing. A trip to Chicago was arranged and Mr. Werling felt that this was "inside stuff." But in Chicago the police, who were looking for Dillinger and were suspicious of all Indiana cars, stopped and searched them.

Taken on Counterfeit Charge.

In the car was $500 in counterfeit bills, and, to Mr. Werling's horror, he and his cousin and Van Pelt were all charged with possession of bogus money, buying bogus money, and conspiracy. Maximum penalties would total thirty-two years. Van Pelt was sent back to prison.

As the defense of Kintz and Mr. Werling opened Attorney Klein produced almost all the political office holders in Adams county as character witnesses for Mr. Werling. They told of his "Sherlock Holmes" desires and how he was always the first one at the scene of a crime, looking over things with a magnifying glass and applying finger print powder.

In fact, there was testimony that Mr. Werling had actually caught a robber at one time and obtained a $250 reward.

AMERICAN EMPLOYES IN PARIS ARE ASSURED MONEY TO PAY RENT

PARIS, March 30.—(AP)—One hundred and fifty employés of the American embassy today showed their landlords copies of a cablegram from the state department.

The slips of paper, in lieu of money, became the employés security that they would pay their rents, due April 1 for the second three months of 1934.

The message from Washington told them it was expected that congress would soon pass an appropriation bill compensating them for their decrease in salaries due to the declins of the value of the dollar abroad.

I WILL NOT LET WORLD DICTATE TO ME—HITLER

Chancellor Reveals Aims of Nazi Germany.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

BERLIN, March 30.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler declines to surround himself with "zeros" even at the risk of having occasional squabbles in his political family.

This he said today in a fifty minute chat. His attitude was explained in answer to this question:

"Herr Reichskanzler, it is sometimes said with reference to the men most closely associated with you that they are contriving to take your place?

Hint of Friction.

"Of one of your most prominent colleagues, for instance, it is sometimes claimed that he tries to thwart your purposes?"

"I know you are asking this question for the sake of clarifying my relation with my co-workers, and not because you yourself doubt their fidelity," Hitler replied. "For it would be nothing short of an insult to think any men who has stood with me year after year are being animated by any desire to supplant me.

Calls Aids "Four Square."

"The reason, perhaps, that such stories arise lies in the fact that I have associated myself not with zeros but with real men.

"Zeros are round, hence they are the first to begin to roll and tumble when adversity comes. The men about me are four square and upstanding men—each of them of a powerful personality, each of them a man with will and ambition.

"If they had no ambition they would not be where they are today. I welcome ambition. When you have a group of powerful personalities it is inevitable that occasionally friction is produced.

"But never yet have any men who follow my leadership sought to impose their will upon mine. On the contrary, they have adapted themselves marvelously to my every desire."

Then the chancellor, clad in the simple brown uniform of a Nazi storm trooper, spoke of his objective—"a greater, better, happier Germany"—the "unflinching tenacity" with which he said he will pursue his ideal, the frankness with which he deals in international and domestic affairs, his desire for criticism.

Speaks on World Relations.

On international relations Hitler said:

"The antiquated diplomatic method of exchanging notes finds a telling condemnation in the fact that, despite the efforts of diplomats, the nations in 1914 slipped into the most gigantic war in history, although I am convinced the diplomats themselves were the most surprised when the war broke out.

"I believe heartily in the man to man discussions of responsible statesmen. One thing that every representative of a foreign power will find in dealing with me is that I speak with absolute frankness and never place my demands higher with the idea of compromising for less.

"I declare only just what Germany is prepared to do. When I state we need an army of 300,000 men I don't propose afterward to come down to 250,000. I want Germany's signature to mean something again.

"Will Not Be Dictated To."

"And under no circumstances—under no circumstances—(he repeated the words with emotion, his index finger pointing straight at the correspondent) will I submit to dictation!

"When I am convinced that a certain course is the only one and the right one for my nation I intend to pursue it, come what may.

"I will do what I do openly."

"I will not, for example, pretend outwardly to accept 150,000 men as a basis for our army and then secretly arm another 150,000."

With crisp, precise words he explained why.

"We want to put our resources to productive purposes. We want to get our jobless back to work. Next, we want to raise the living standards of everybody.

"We want to drain our swamps and improve our unproductive lands. Try and make our nation self-sustaining, enable the farmer to get the maximum out of his land and the manufacturer and industrial worker the maximum out of his industry, devise artificial means for supplying what our country may lack in the way of raw materials.

Points to Construction Tasks.

"When we build roads, when we dig canals, when we drain swamps, erect dikes, and construct locks, we are doing things which are constructive, things which may well absorb all our energy.

"But, as one responsible for the welfare of my country, I cannot have Germany exposed to the possibility that some neighbor may invade us or drop bombs over our industrial plants or embark upon a so-called preventive war just to distract attention from troubles at home.

"It is for this purpose, and for this purpose only, that we want an army adequate for self-defense."

The chancellor was asked whether, in trying to give work to all he would be content to spread out employment so that everybody would have at least a minimum income and nobody would get a large income.

"Quite the contrary," he replied emphatically.

"As the first step, I must avoid the scourge of unemployment. But, once the people are back at work, their purchasing power will naturally increase.

Approves American Idea.

"From there it is but another step to improving the living standards.

"I approve the American idea of not equalizing everybody but graduating life as if it were like a ladder. There must be a possibility, however, for everybody to climb that ladder."

A question, "What is your attitude toward criticism, both individual and of the press?" brought the answer that Hitler has about him a staf of economic, social, and political experts whose only purpose is to criticize, that these men must not be merely "yes men," and "that I won't want the press merely and solely to take from above what is handed out."

He added:

"I won't stand for a press that exists exclusively to destroy what we are trying to build up. If editors approach our régime with a view to imposing their intolerant world philosophy I tell them I then propose to use the modern power of the press just as efficaciously to fight them.

"I most heartily welcome the presence of any foreign journalist who reports objectively, without bias, what he sees and hears in Germany.

Welcomes Criticism.

"While on the one hand I welcome criticism, yet I also insist that those who work for the public weal must know that a period of quiet is ahead of them.

"I told the men who took over the government with me, even those who did not belong to my party, that they could be assured of the stability of their jobs.

Speaks of His Followers.

"Our organization reaches down into the smallest hamlet and village; from everywhere, my followers come to Berlin and drop in on me. Over my lunch table upstairs they then tell me about their worries and their troubles."

He said, however, that he was careful to keep the main purposes in mind.

"We have great aims and purposes. To realize them slowly but methodically is my chief concern. I need four years for realizing what we put forward as the first part of our program; then I will need another four years for the next section, and so on.

GERMANY OPENS FIRST TRAINING CAMP FOR NAZI JOURNALISTS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 30.—Germany's first training camp for newspaper men is now in full swing at Wiesbaden. It is attended by 250 Nazi editors and press leaders of the Nazi organization in Hesse. They are spending Easter in the camp with the approval of Reich Press Leader Dietrich.

The camp is described as the first attempt to organize the work of German journalists on new practical lines, to consolidate the relations of the Nazi party and the press, and to educate the rising generation in the spirit of new German journalism.

The new "vacation course for journalists" will consist of mutual exchange of ideas with lectures and composition of short essays. Later the camp will be attended by students of journalism in the labor service camps and Hitler youth organizations. Successful participants in the course will receive preferential consideration for future appointments as editors and reporters.

Czechoslovakia Seizes 42 Communists as Spies

DOUG SILENT ON NEW REPORT HE'LL MEET MARY PICKFORD SOON

BARCELONA, Spain, March 30.—(AP)—Karl K. Kitchen, former New York world war correspondent, came here today to visit his old friend, Douglas Fairbanks Sr., in the midst of rumors regarding the motion picture actor's personal affairs. Fairbanks himself met these rumors with a blanket refusal to discuss any private matters.

"Karl is a long time friend associated with me in our English company," said Fairbanks. "He came down to spend a few days and see a couple of bullfights and we are returning directly to London for my new picture. I will not discuss private affairs in any way."

Rumors regarding Kitchen's visit ranged from the report that he had a letter of reconciliation from Mary Pickford, Fairbanks' wife, to the rumor that he may take Fairbanks back with him to meet Miss Pickford in England where, it was reported, she plans to make a bicycle tour.

Doug Jr. is with his father. The British actress, Gertrude Lawrence, came here from Majorca with the Fairbanks' party. She and Doug Jr. will soon return to England to rehearse a new stage play in which they will play the parts of wife and husband.

SECRET COURT ACTION NAMES MARY PICKFORD

New York, March 30.—(AP)—A Supreme court action against Mary Pickford has been started by J. Raymond Cornell of Wellesley, Mass., it was disclosed today. But there was no indication of its nature.

Justice Albert Cohn signed an order requiring Cornell to post a $250 bond to cover possible costs, because he lives outside the court's jurisdiction.

Delaney and Miles, Cornell's attorneys, declined to reveal the nature of the action. Counsel for Miss Pickford said they did not know, having been served only with a summons which gave no details.

Police were requested yesterday to aid in identifying a woman, whose body was recovered from the canal at Lockport Thursday. The woman was described as about 55 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall, and weighing about 115 pounds. She was dressed in a blue dress, a heavy coat with a fur collar, and wore an expensive scarf.

CATHOLIC BISHOP DENOUNCES NAZI CREDO AS SINFUL

Assails Books Stressing Racial Theories.

BERLIN, March 30.—(AP)—A ringing denunciation of recent Nazi publications stressing radical racial theories was made by Bishop Nicholas Bares today in a Good Friday sermon.

"Is it too much to say these Godless and heathenish books were conceived by sin and sold in iniquity?" he demanded of his hearers who filled St. Hedwigh's Roman Catholic cathedral and much of the square outside.

"There can be no compromise between Christ and Satan. The antichrist comes as a spirit of lies and bloodlust, but be of good cheer, for even as the Christ was persecuted so will the church be persecuted.

Bishop Sounds Warning.

He did not name specifically the books he meant, but his attack was directed at literature about an "entirely German" religion which some have described as wanting to substitute pagan philosophy for church doctrines.

Dr. Bares, the new bishop of Berlin, warned that if the blessing of the church should be rejected darkness and destruction would fall upon the land.

"May the human institutions be crushed with an iron hand," he declared emphatically. "The church will triumph in the end, for whosoever opposes God shall be damned forever."

Last of Series of Sermons.

His sermon was the last and most impressive of a series delivered since Palm Sunday by Catholic priests in this diocese. All have dealt with the relationship between the church and the state.

They have been received with unusual interest particularly in view of tension between the Catholic church and state in Germany.

In conclusion Bishop Bares cited the deathbed confession of the Irish hero, Daniel O'Connell, as an example of pious devotion worthy of emulation.

This confession read: "My soul belongs to heaven; my body to Ireland; my heart to Rome."

Then the great congregation, within and without the cathedral, sank to their knees and recited the credo, deeply moved.

Hitler Youth at Attention.

By the bishop's orders no flags or uniformed organizations were in evidence.

One lone brown shirted Hitler youth stood stiffly at attention, presumably in obedience to superior orders.

In Catholic circles it was understood that negotiations are under way between the Vatican and the Nazi government with a view to arriving at a compromise on the problem of the youth organizations in return for absolute freedom of religious instruction.

[Many church young people's groups have been ordered disbanded and incorporated into the Hitler nonsectarian youth bodies.]

JEWS REBEL AGAINST ANTI-SEMITIC POLICY OF DOLLFUSS REGIME

VIENNA, March 30.—(AP)—A Jewish revolt against anti-Semitic tendencies in the new "Christian-German" régime of Chancellor Dollfuss daily is becoming more outspoken.

The Zionist organ, Neuefeldt, in a front page editorial to Austrian Jews today urged them to speak out boldly for their rights unless they are willing "to lose them forever."

The newspaper has launched a campaign for building up "the Jewish Peoples' party," devoted to protection of the rights of the Jewish minority, ignoring the fact that the basic principle of "New Austria" is abolition of all parties.

ITALY SEIZES 20 ANTI-FASCISTS; SEE WAR ON JEWS

Group Is Accused of Opposing Duce.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 30.—Whether the movement against Jews had spread from Germany to Italy seemed to be a question here tonight. A government communique announced that twenty anti-Fascists had been arrested in Turin and that eighteen of them were Jews.

The band of twenty was charged with attempting to spread propaganda against voting "yes" for Premier Mussolini's hand picked chamber of deputies last Sunday.

The arrests were made on March 11, but were kept secret until today. They were announced simultaneously with the announcement of the official certified figures on last Sunday's plebiscite, in which the "yes man" chamber won by an overwhelming vote.

Seize Anti-Fascist Literature.

According to today's communique from the ministry of interior, on March 11 two Italian Jews, Sion Segre of Turin and Mario Levy of Ivrea, crossed the Italian frontier from Switzerland at Ponte Tresa. Their car was searched by frontier police and a large quantity of anti-Fascist printed matter was found. It was to have been distributed before the election was held.

Levy, according to the communique, managed to get away and dashed back across the frontier to Switzerland from where he is alleged to have insulted the entire Italian nation by shouting, "You cowardly Italian dogs."

Segre was arrested and questioned. On the basis of what he said and documents discovered in a search made later in his home, many other people were arrested whom police say were leaders of an anti-Fascist band which was operating to overthrow the government of Mussolini under the directions of exiled anti-Fascists in Paris.

Spies Unearth Evidence.

Among the others arrested in Turin and Ivrea were Leon Ginsburg, Ivaldi Mussa, Carlo Vercelli, Barbara Allason, Guiliana Segre, Mark Segre, Joseph Levy, Carlo Levy, Richard Levy, Gino Levy, and Leo Levy. Several other arrests were made as the result of inquiries and information turned up by OVRA [the volunteer organization for the repression of anti-Fascism]. This body is a secret spying outfit which penetrates all Italian society and corresponds to similar soviet organizations to hunt down political enemies.

Those who saw in Mussolini's recent preelection speech a gesture to mollify German opinion after the Austro-German clash over Nazism in Austria see also another gesture to mollify Hitlerian opinion in the arrest of Jews in Italy.

AUTO THEFTS CUT 43 PER CENT BY COURTNEY DRIVE

Judge Reports on First 3 Months of Campaign.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 28; recovered, 39; stripped, 8 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Thursday].

The campaign against auto thefts started by State's Attorney Courtney at the beginning of the year has resulted in a 43 per cent reduction of thefts during the first quarter of 1934, as compared with the same period last year. Judge Joseph Graber, who has presided over a special automobile court, established in compliance with the prosecutor's policy, made public yesterday the statistics showing the decrease in thefts, as well as a 66 per cent decrease in stripped automobiles for the same period.

In announcing the effectiveness of the campaign Judge Graber suggested that the automobile theft insurance rates, which are said to be higher in the Chicago area than any other community, should be reduced in proportion to the reduction in thefts. State's Attorney Courtney joined in this suggestion, and at the same time pledged himself to keep up the campaign, which, he hopes, will further decrease thefts and stripping of automobiles.

Once Heard in Boys' Court.

Before the establishment of the special automobile court most of the auto theft cases were heard in the Boys' court, because most of the thievery was committed by youths. Few of the cases were ever sent to the grand jury for disposition, but were disposed of in the Municipal court by probation or light sentences.

With the opening of the new court Prosecutor Courtney broadcast a warning to parents that automobile thievery would not longer be looked on by the authorities as a prank, but would be punished as provided by statute with a 1 to 20 year sentence in the penitentiary. Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court and his associate judges have imposed punishment in many cases since the campaign was started, but as yet no statistics are available on the number of sentences.

Fewer Boys in Court.

"The effectiveness of the campaign can be seen by observing the ages of the defendants brought before me," said Judge Graber yesterday. "At the outset the defendants in a majority of cases were mere boys. In the last few weeks it has been the unusual rather than the usual thing to have what might be called a boy as a defendant in this court. It is rare that a defendant comes into this court now who is 20 years of age."

The newly passed automobile laws and strict enforcement of them have virtually put the "fence" out of business, the judge said, and the thieves have no place to dispose of the accessories usually stripped from stolen automobiles. Many second hand dealers, most of them in reality fences, who failed to obtain the proper licenses or register accessories purchased, have been fined and imprisoned by the new court, Judge Graber asserted.

Compared With Last Year.

THEFTS.	1933.	1934.
January	2,451	1,584
February	1,723	1,098
March	2,677	1,247
CARS RECOVERED.	1933.	1934.
January	2,322	1,653
February	1,573	883
March	2,414	1,240
	6,309	3,776
CARS STRIPPED.	1933.	1934.
January	473	220
February	330	98
March	519	129
	1,322	447

Judge Graber cited the actual savings to the insurance companies as a result of the reduction of stripped automobiles as an argument for lower theft insurance. He said that an insurance official informed him that stripped automobiles cost insurance companies an average of $100 a car for replacements. In the first three months of this year, the judge estimated, insurance companies saved $87,500 alone on replacements on stripped automobiles. The statistics show that a total of 447 cars were stripped in 1934, as compared with 1,322 in 1933.

Points to Saving on Claims.

Not only have the insurance companies saved in payments for stripped automobiles, but the claims for stolen cars not recovered have been greatly reduced, the judge pointed out. The 43 per cent cut in thefts for the first quarter of 1934 has resulted in savings even greater than in the stripped automobile field, the judge pointed out.

RUSSIA TO EXPORT AUTOS IN VIOLATION OF PACT WITH FORD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, March 30.—Ford automobiles manufactured in Russia will shortly be sold in Latvia and other Baltic states, according to the plan of the soviet commissariat of trade, whose representatives in these countries are appointing agents.

The Russian made cars are being purchased at the Gorkygrad auto plant, which the soviet government erected on credits obtained from Ford and on an agreement which Moscow signed in which it was specified that Ford cars manufactured in Russia would not be sold abroad.

The local Ford agent, who was offered exceptional inducements to handle the agency for soviet autos, refused. He said the models which the Russians proposed to sell were three years old and constructed of inferior materials. They will be sold $250 cheaper than the cars produced in the Copenhagen plant of the Ford company. The first shipment of soviet Fords are expected to arrive in Riga the coming week-end.

FIRST LIQUOR REGULATION IS ISSUED BY STATE

The state department of finance issued its first regulation yesterday in relation to the liquor control law, providing that rectifiers, blenders, and bottlers of alcoholic liquors are to be considered manufacturers. As such they must be licensed.

J. M. Braude, associate director of finance, explained state liquor revenue stamps must be affixed either to the caps or corks of all bottles in such a way as to insure their destruction or defacement at the time the bottles are opened. In cases where it is impossible to place these stamps on the corks or caps the stamps may then be placed on the bottle labels.

The state finance department also ordered those who import alcoholic liquors from other states or from foreign countries for use in blending, rectifying, or bottling must, in addition to having a manufacturer's license, also obtain an importing distributor's license.

FIND MUSICIAN FROM CHICAGO AND WIFE SLAIN

Greensboro, N. C., March 30.—(AP)—Victor Nelson, a radio musician who came here two weeks ago from Chicago, and Mrs. Nelson were found shot to death in their apartment here tonight.

Police said a 25 caliber automatic pistol lay under Mrs. Nelson's right hand. She had a bullet hole through her right temple while her husband had been shot in the head and near the heart.

The couple had been dead for several hours, Coroner W. W. Harvey said, and officers were working on a theory of murder and suicide.

R. H. Floyd, who employed Nelson for work at a local radio station, said the couple's home was in Erie, Pa.

KILLED BY AUTO FUMES.

U. S. INVITES AIR MAIL BIDS; BARS OLD COMPANIES

All Contracts Will Be on Temporary Basis.

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(AP)—Moving back toward private transportation of the air mail, the postoffice department today invited bids for temporary air mail contracts over twenty-one routes covering 1,800 miles.

Reiterating that companies whose contracts were annulled could not bid and that such companies as were represented at the 1930 "spoils" conference must expel those who represented them at that gathering, Postmaster General Farley's advertisment reëstablished the 45 cent maximum rate of pay per airplane mile which operated prior to the cancelation. The maximum range is from 41 to 45 cents.

Basis of Pay Rate.

In calculating the rate of pay the department used definite weight spaces per airplane mile as the base, 1 cubic foot being computed as the equivalent of 9 pounds of mail.

Variable rates of compensation which formerly allowed a contractor to be paid at a higher rate for a given route if he had certain additional equipment were not reëstablished.

Requirements for passenger equipment are more liberal than formerly. Under the old plan exact seating arrangement and other requirements were often included, but now the phrase "passenger equipment" is the most stringent used. The minimum speed provision now is 110 miles an hour, as contrasted with the 100 mile an hour provision formerly laid down.

Demand Termed "Enormous."

Aviation men withheld comment on the specifications but postoffice officials said the demand for air mail business appeared "enormous." Washington aviation company agents paced the department building impatiently this morning waiting for the specifications, which were issued at noon.

The bids are returnable April 19 and are to be opened at noon on April 20. The twenty-one routes for which bids were asked include the fifteen announced earlier in the week. Some of the fifteen were broken up for bidding purposes.

U. S. AND IRELAND GIVE REASONS FOR ENVOY'S ACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 30.—The manner of presentation and reception of credentials of Minister W. W. McDowell of the United States in Dublin was the subject tonight of official communiques between the Irish Free State government and the American legation.

"Until last autumn the governor general [the king's agent] received foreign ministers," the Free State government explained. "It was then decided that ministers in the future should present their letters of credence to the president of the executive council. In November arrangements to bring about this change were made in the customary constitutional manner. The British government has nothing whatever to do with such matters."

The note from the American legation said:

"The legation wishes to dissipate any misconceptions which may have arisen in connection with the presentation by the minister of his letters of credence. The legation was fully aware of the change in procedure and desires to state that there was not the slightest discourtesy towards the minister on the part of the Free State."

TRACE $15,000 BROKER ACCOUNT OF SLAIN GOETZ

Police searching for the hidden fortune of Fred Goetz, college educated hoodlum shot to death in Cicero March 19 while carrying a $1,000 bill in his pocket, yesterday were on the trail of a brokerage account in his name supposedly amounting to $15,000.

Already police have found $2,400 credited to Goetz in an account under the alias of George B. Seibert with J. F. Clark & Co., brokers, at 231 South La Salle street. It was learned there Goetz had dabbled heavily in distillery stock.

Police said yesterday Goetz, under the names of Seibert and J. George Zeigler, another alias, maintained an account with Ettinger & Brand, a brokerage firm, now moved to the east. They said that on Monday they would question a William Seigel, formerly with Ettinger & Brand, and now with the Clark company, and ask him if he had ever opened any large accounts for Goetz.

Another development was the sending of notice to Lieut. Frank Johnson of the state's attorney's office that Goetz's automobile, an expensive coupé purchased this year, had been found Saturday at 79th street and Cottage Grove avenue. The license was issued to J. George Zeigler, 40 Chicago avenue, Oak Park. It is believed the car was abandoned by Goetz's widow, Irene, who is being sought.

Mrs. Jane Martin Ties Up Husband's Fortune.

An injunction to restrain the First National bank from turning over a $10,000 quarterly payment to Samuel K. Martin III., grandson of the late Otto Young, Chicago millionaire, was granted yesterday to Mrs. Jane Catherine Martin.

The restraining order was directed against the bank as trustee of a trust fund which comprises Martin's share of the $20,000,000 Young estate, and which yields Martin an annual income of from $100,000 to $125,000 a year, according to the wife.

Judge Roman Posanski of Calumet City, sitting in the Circuit court, issued the injunction. He said that a full hearing would be had on the wife's demand that the $10,000 be turned over to her, in accordance with a contract she and her husband signed last Dec. 27.

Asks Separate Maintenance.

Mrs. Martin, in her petition which asks separate maintenance, declared that Martin, who is 27 years old, has been addicted, ever since their marriage, to strong drink, and that he has been friendly with other women.

While on their honeymoon in Paris, after their marriage in 1929, she declared, Martin, under the influence of liquor, engaged in a battle with French gendarmes and spent four days in jail.

When they returned to the United States he built a 32 room mansion, at a cost of $500,000, in Montgomery county, Md., 13 miles from Washington, where they kept seven servants and "numerous ground attendants."

Last December, she said, Martin signed an agreement that 40 per cent of his income should be turned over to her to pay household expenses and support their son, Samuel K. Martin IV., 3½ years old. She charges that he failed to live up to the contract, and declined to give her money. In consequence, the gas company threatened to shut off the gas in their mansion, and the grocer declined to give them credit.

Describes Trip to Florida.

Her petition describes a trip to Florida last winter, where they rented a luxurious home. There they quarreled, she said, and he deserted her.

Mrs. Martin, before her marriage, was known on the stage as Mary Jane. She was a star of the New York show, "Whoopee." She is 24 years old.

In the spring of 1927 Martin was a member of an expedition under the leadership of Commander George M. Dyott, which searched the wilds of Brazil for Col. P. H. Fawcett, British explorer. The disappearance of Col. Fawcett is still unsolved. Commander Dyott's expedition was one of several sent out to search for him.

Miss Chiniquy is the daughter of William F. Chiniquy, head of a hat manufacturing company, and Mr. Conlon is the son of Walter J. Conlon, washing machine manufacturer. The engagement of the couple was announced last April.

IDLE THREATEN TO BALK EVICTION; HOUSE GUARDED

A squad of Elmwood Park policemen last night were standing guard over a four room house at 2517 North 75th avenue, from which Michael Kirisuk and his family had been evicted during the day. Surrounding the place were more than 50 members of the unemployed council of the village, who shouted threats to carry back the furniture of the ousted family.

Kirisuk, who had lived in the house for twelve years, said that he owed $1,500 on a mortgage and was unable to pay interest. He added that he had gone to the Home Owners' Loan corporation and asked for help, but was informed his case was "all washed up" and nothing could be done for him.

"I telegraphed to President Roosevelt on Thursday," he said, "and got an answer that the matter had been referred back to the HOLC."

Thomas Carey, president of the village of Elmwood Park, said that it was apparent that the incident was being used to stir up discontent. He said that he had offered to haul Kirisuk's belongings to another house and to pay his rent for two months, but that the householder refused any compromise and demanded to stay in his own home, although he had paid nothing on his debt for two years.

MISS VANDERBILT TO SUE HUSBAND FOR PARIS DECREE

Heiress Asks Permission to File Suit.

PARIS, March 30.—(AP)—John Francis Amherst Cecil and his wife, who as the former Cornelia Vanderbilt was one of the most wealthy American heiresses, let it be known through an acquaintance today that they have instituted "friendly" divorce proceedings.

The marriage of Mr. Cecil, son of Lord William Cecil of London, and Miss Vanderbilt, daughter of the late George W. Vanderbilt, in Biltmore, N. C., April 29, 1924, attracted the attention of international society.

To Share Custody of Children.

Papers seeking permission to begin the suit, Mrs. Cecil's attorney said, have been filed, and conditions have been fully agreed upon. These will be submitted to a court as soon as the proceedings reach a final stage, probably in July.

A financial arrangement has been concluded and the Cecils have agreed to share equally the custody of their two children.

They established residence in Paris to comply with the French law, and no difficulty is anticipated, the lawyer said, in getting a decree.

After the preliminary step of "permission to file suit," the case itself will be filed. The judge will then summon the husband and wife for a "reconciliation."

Held Post in British Embassy.

Upon their refusal to be reconciled the case will be heard. If both parties agree on terms which the judge thinks reasonable he usually approves the divorce.

Cecil was once the secretary to the British embassy in Washington. He resigned that post to take over the management of the Vanderbilt estate near Asheville, said to be one of the most magnificent in the United States.

The Vanderbilt children are George Henry Vanderbilt Cecil, 8, and William Amherst Vanderbilt Cecil, 5. It was agreed that they should spend half their time at the Vanderbilt estate at Biltmore and the other half with their father in England.

DOCTOR DENIES BOOZE HARDENS THE ARTERIES

TORONTO, March 30.—(AP)—Alcohol and tobacco have no positive effect in producing hardening of the arteries, said Dr. Oscar Klotz of Toronto at concluding sessions of the annual meeting of the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists today.

Dr. Klotz said research had discarded the theory that advancing age, liquor and smoking were inevitably or necessarily to be regarded as contributing to arteriosclerosis.

He said infections of various kinds and in some cases faulty diet and lack of vitamins brought on the disease.

Changes Mind After Court Order.

New York, March 30.—[Special.]—Miss Betty Bueschel of Long Beach, who apparently was willing to have her own and her 2 year old daughter Marian's blood tested in order to prove that Jacob Manowitz, wealthy and elderly Long Beach real estate man, is the child's father, has changed her mind, it was revealed today in the appellate division of the Supreme court.

The order directing Miss Bueschel and her daughter to submit to a blood test was signed by Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink in Brooklyn on Jan. 8 last on motion of counsel for Manowitz, who is a grandfather.

The order specified that the blood test was to be made tomorrow at the Jewish hospital in Brooklyn. Sidney I. Prager, counsel for Miss Bueschel, appeared today before Justice Edward Lazansky, presiding justice of the appellate division, for a stay of Justice Steinbrink's order.

Justice Lazansky denied the motion for a stay without prejudice to the application. He explained his action by saying that the petition for a stay should be made in the special term of the Supreme court for motions.

Acting Judge Leone D. Howell of the Children's court in Mineola has declared Manowitz the father of Miss Bueschel's child and has directed him to pay for its support.

Bomb Explosion Causes $100 Loss to Beauty Shop

Damage of $100 was done early today to Carrie's beauty shop at 2867 Archer avenue by a bomb explosion at the front entrance. Mrs. Carrie Ryan, who operates the shop; her husband, John Ryan, and their children, John Jr., 10 years old, and Isabelle, 12, who were asleep in the rear, were aroused by the blast. Mrs. Ryan recently moved to the shop from another location. She said she knew of no reason for the bombing.

Ex-Countess Cathcart Sues Rich Ship Owner for Divorce

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 31 [Saturday].—Lady Hodge, formerly Vera, Countess Cathcart, has instituted divorce proceedings against her husband, Sir Rowland Hodge, millionaire shipowner, according to this morning's Daily Express. It is understood Sir Rowland will fight the suit.

Sir Rowland married Countess Cathcart in the London registry office in October, 1930. He was 71 years old at the time.

Her Third Husband.

Lady Hodge has been married three times. Her first husband was Capt. de Grey Warter of the 4th Dragoon guards. They were married in 1910. Capt. Warter was killed in the world war. In 1919 Capt. Warter's widow married the late Earl Cathcart in London. Three years later Lord Cathcart obtained a divorce. He cited the earl of Craven as co-respondent.

Sir Rowland Hodge was chairman of Eltringhams, Ltd., famous Tyne shipbuilders, and is chairman and director of various companies. He was created a baronet in 1921. The first Lady Hodge died in 1923.

STOPPED AT ELLIS ISLE.

In 1926 Vera, Countess Cathcart, caused a sensation in the United States. Arriving on the liner Carmania in New York in February, she was asked by an immigration inspector if she had been divorced. She replied in the affirmative. She was detained at Ellis Island and denied admission to the United States on the grounds of "admission of moral turpitude," growing out of her affair with the earl of Craven.

When she complained that the earl of Craven was in the United States and was being entertained by New York society, the earl was questioned by immigration officials. On his admission of guilt, Commissioner of Immigration Henry H. Curran telegraphed to Washington for a warrant for his arrest. The earl thereupon fled to Montreal.

Permitted to Remain.

Ordered deported as an undesirable alien, Countess Cathcart appealed to the department of labor, but former Secretary of Labor Davis affirmed the decision. On March 5 Federal Judge William Bondy of New York sustained a writ of habeas corpus which had freed the countess and permitted her to remain in the United States.

The countess then appeared in her own play, "Ashes of Love." It opened in Washington under the management of Earl Carroll. It proved to be a failure. After a week on Broadway the countess repurchased the rights to the play from Carroll. Shortly after she departed for England. Her funds were exhausted and she was forced to borrow money to pay her passage.

3 VEIL DANCERS WIN DELAY AFTER RAID BY YARROW

The case against "Fatima of the Seven Veils," whose dance was interrupted by a police raid on a room adjoining the grand ballroom of Hotel Sherman, where she was entertaining a meeting of 800 cigaret salesmen, was continued yesterday by Judge Harold P. O'Connell in the Women's court to April 4.

At the detective bureau the dancer said she was Fatima Jones, 30 years old, of 4728 Drexel boulevard. Two other scantily clad girls arrested with her gave their names as Nyra Lou Joseph, 21 years old, of 1559 North Clark street, and Dorothy Wahl, 24 years old, of 2246 North Clark street. The girls are at liberty under bonds of $50 each which were raised by the cigaret salesmen.

Police raided the meeting early yesterday on complaint of the Rev. Philip Yarrow of the Illinois Vigilance association. The women were taken to the detective bureau, where they were booked on charges of indecent exposure.

CWA ENDS TODAY; 121,500 TO LOSE JOBS IN ILLINOIS

State Will Take Over All Work Monday.

is intended to take the place of the old direct relief which is being discontinued in as many cases as possible. Work relief clients are to be paid in cash for work performed under direction of the commission's engineers. Only those families who do not have an able bodied member or those individuals who are unable to work will receive rations, coal, and clothing in the manner these necessities were distributed in the past.

Budget Each Case.

Wages which averaged $15 a week under the CWA will not be paid under the work relief program. Trained social workers will calculate the weekly budget of each "case." The worker under the relief program will then be allowed to earn only the amount of the budget. If the "case" has resources which only partially fulfill necessities the worker will be allowed to earn enough to complete the budget.

Primarily the work relief program is intended to reduce the costs which under the CWA program ran as high as $16,856,000 a month. Under work relief the destitute will be cared for at only a fraction of this sum. It is hoped by relief officials that most of those who were on the CWA rolls will be absorbed by business and industry, but in making estimates for April they apparently have not anticipated fulfillment of their hopes.

BILLION IS SPENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—The New Deal's Civil Works administration will be laid at rest tomorrow after having spent a billion dollars of the taxpayers' money where it is admitted half a billion of direct relief funds would have sufficed.

In place of the CWA, Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief and civil works head, explained today, will arise the "Works Division of the Federal Relief Administration," an emaciated copy of the CWA, which will go on sucking 15 or 20 million dollars a week out of the treasury instead of the 50 millions weekly demanded by the civil works program.

Calls It Good Job.

Looking back over the roads, playgrounds, schools, swimming pools, scandals, and frauds which have sprung up where the CWA sowed the taxpayers' billion dollars, Mr. Hopkins today called it a good job well done. He said he was satisfied.

Today and tomorrow will be the last pay day for the 2,133,000 recruits still in the CWA army. On April 1 two million of them will shift over into the various regional branches of the "works" division, according to Mr. Hopkins.

For the CWA workers in large cities like Chicago this shift will be almost meaningless. Their work will continue to be the same. In rural areas where projects acceptable to the new works division are somewhat harder to find there may be a temporary slackening, Mr. Hopkins admitted.

How long the works division will go on furnishing federal salaries for the unemployed Mr. Hopkins was unable to predict today. He has 600 million dollars left to spend, enough to run seven or eight months, and he merely says, "You never can tell what you will be into six months from now."

Already, however, the new dealers have other plans afoot. One of the most prominent, which is being drafted into shape by the National Emergency council with Mr. Hopkins' support, calls for a drive to spend 2 billion dollars of federal and private money on housing developments and rehabilitation. Many of the unemployed on relief or the CWA might be soaked up in this program, which, it is hoped, would also help the laggard heavy industries along the road to recovery.

Mr. Hopkins admitted today that he is receiving a flood of protests over its discontinuance. And besides there is the legacy of graft investigations left over from the sensational CWA exposures of a few weeks ago.

Sums Up Achievements.

To Mr. Hopkins, however, these troubles have, in view of the whole billion dollar program, sunk into insignificance. Running over the achievements of the CWA he summed them up today as follows:

"When we started we were told by our friends and others that we couldn't put four million men to work. Then we were told by our friends and others that we couldn't demobilize them. We have put the four million men to work and we have demobilized them.

"I think it is a grand thing. I think it is entirely successful. These millions of men did excellent work, they worked hard, and they earned their money. It has all resulted in works of social benefit. In one state (Mississippi), for instance, we spent more on rural schools than had been spent in the last twenty years. The questions of graft and politics and inefficiencies were all relatively unimportant."

Has Spent Billion.

Mr. Hopkins estimated that the CWA has spent 750 million dollars in wages and 250 million dollars on the purchase of materials, a total of a billion dollars. Its weekly pay roll between Dec. 1 and April 1, he estimated, would average about 50 million dollars, and the average weekly employment on CWA projects he set at three million workers.

To support this same average of three million people over these same seventeen weeks would have cost not more thai $10 per week per person, Mr. Hopkins admitted, or a grand total of 510 million dollars, as compared with the billion spent by CWA. He said there were other "realistic" factors which made up for this excess of expenditures.

U. S. Steel, General Electric Announce 10% Pay Rises

New York, March 30.—[Special.]—Two great industrial units, the United States Steel corporation and the General Electric company, today announced wage increases of 10 per cent.

The General Electric's increase, effective on April 1, applies to all full time salaried employés receiving $2,600 a year or less and to all hourly rates of pay. Gerard Swope, president of the company, had no comment to make on the board's action.

Between 30,000 and 40,000 employés will benefit by the new General Electric increase, and the extra pay will total between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000 annually.

United States Steel announced an increase of approximately 10 per cent for employés in its various manufacturing companies. The increase was agreed upon after meetings with representatives of the employés.

Other Companies Act.

The increase, announced after a number of individual companies had taken similar action during the last few days, will have the effect of spreading higher wages throughout virtually the entire steel industry. Approximately 140,000 wage earners are affected by the increase granted by the United States Steel corporation's subsidiaries, making a total of about 350,000 employés in the industry to be affected by pay rises so far.

The increase also is to apply to all lesser salaried employés of United States Steel's companies, it was announced.

The company's announcement was made at its offices here after several of its subsidiaries had made individual announcement of increases to be effective on April 1.

Steel's Formal Announcement.

The formal announcement stated:

"The United States Steel corporation announces that its various manufacturing companies, after meetings with their employé representative groups, have agreed upon an advance of approximately 10 per cent in wages, subject to such readjustment as may be found desirable and mutually satisfactory.

"In addition, all the lesser salaried employés will be advanced 10 per cent."

The salaried employés of the corporation during the last few years received two reductions in pay, one ranging from 10 per cent to 15 per cent, the other 15 per cent flat. In addition, a part time work schedule was put into effect.

Over 190,000 Employed.

The pay raises in the United States Steel's companies, climaxing advances made by other steel companies, will increase purchasing power among wage earners by millions of dollars. United States Steel employs more than 190,000 wage earners and salaried men. It represents about 40 per cent of the nation's steel production capacity.

Pay increases throughout the entire steel industry, it is estimated, would total between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000 annually.

The companies and subsidiaries which had previously announced pay increases include Bethlehem Steel, Carnegie Steel [which is a subsidiary of United States Steel], Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Republic Steel, Inland Steel, Tennessee Coal and Railroad company, Mahoning Valley Steel, Sharon Steel Hoop, National Tube, American Steel and Wire, Jones & Laughlin, National Steel, Gulf States Steel, Continental Steel, American Rolling Mill, Acme Steel, and Houde Engineering.

In January the number of workers on hourly piece work or tonnage pay rolls totaled 355,292. They received an average of 58.3 cents per hour. Their pay per hour would be raised to about 64.1 cents under the new scale.

Millers Order Increases.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 30.—(AP)—A ten per cent increase in hourly wage rates for approximately 450 mill workers was announced here today by Washburn-Crosby, Inc.. The announcement said about 250 workers in the company's Chicago mill also would be affected.

Miners Get Wage Boost.

Duluth, Minn., March 30.—(AP)—A ten per cent wage increase was announced today by Pickards-Mather company, a large operator on the Lake Superior iron ore ranges.

The Oliver Iron Mining company, ore subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, also announced a ten per cent wage increase for mine workers, low salaried officials and office employés.

THOUSANDS AFFECTED.

While United States Steel corporation officials here declined to estimate the number of men in the Chicago area affected by the wage boost, it is said between 30,000 and 35,000 employés will be benefited.

TELLS SENATORS WAGNER BILL IS VIOLENCE THREAT

Chicagoan Voices Protest Against Measure.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—A grave warning that rioting and violence will result from passage of the Wagner labor disputes bill was delivered today to the senate labor committee by a group of Illinois manufacturers.

Led by James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, members of the delegation united in adding their protests to the storm of objections from employers which have greeted the Wagner measure.

The act is designed to outlaw the company union and compel employers to deal with the American Federation of Labor in collective bargaining on wages and conditions of employment. It has been pointed out that such a law would unionize every industrial worker in the country regardless of his wishes.

Sees Bar to Recovery.

"Such a bill would be an insurmountable bar to national recovery," Mr. Donnelly declared. "It will encourage strikes, violence, rioting and general lawlessness. It will cause widespread unemployment by tying up industry where attempts to force recognition of unions are made regardless of the rights or the will of employés."

Public confidence in industrial and business investments would be destroyed if the provisions of the bill were attempted to be carried out, Mr. Donnelly asserted.

"It would creat a labor dictatorship more powerful than any oligarchy existing in the world today," he pointed out.

In an interview supplementing these views, Mr. Donnelly expressed the opinion that the bill would not be passed by congress.

Calls it "Vicious Legislation."

"It is so obviously a vicious piece of legislation that I believe even the most radical congressman will balk at it," he declared. "What we are apprehensive of is that it will result in other legislation giving more authority to labor boards. We fear the establishment of a burocracy here in Washington which will have supreme authority over all industrial disputes."

More than twenty-five manufacturers and employers were in the Illinois delegation. Among those who presented arguments against the bill, in addition to Mr. Donnelly, were S. C. Hodgson, Great Lakes Forge company; C. S. Craigmile, Belden Manufacturing company; D. W. Kimball, W. W. Kimball company; Arthur Johnson, Johnson Chair company; Preston B. Heller, B. Heller & Co.; Charles Oliff, W. F. Hall Printing company, all of Chicago and a number of downstate business men.

JOHNSON ASKS INDUSTRY TO SHORTEN HOURS

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—With most of the country's important industries agreeing to raise wages, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA taskmaster, today started urging business to meet another of President Roosevelt's requests, the shortening of hours and the employment of additional men.

Gen. Johnson dispatched a letter today to all code authorities asking them how many men their industries could reëmploy and, if they could employ no more, why.

"In order to help determine promptly," the general wrote to the code authorities, "whether your industry has the ability to meet the President's request of reducing hours by 10 per cent without reduction of weekly pay, I would like you to advise me whether your industry is in a position to do this, and if not, why not."

Johnson dispatched his letter after he had received from two industrial advisory committees reports showing that it would be unwise to require a flat 10 per cent cut in hours and additional employment in all industries. He immediately set about finding which industries could stand the increase.

The commission of inquiry on national policy in international economic relations will begin discussions at the Palmer house on Monday.

Tarifs, foreign trade, foreign investments, and monetary policies will be principal subjects. Among the speakers will be Silas H. Strawn, Peter B. Carey, James L. Donnelly, Prof. Harry D. Giddeonse, George R. Meyercord, and Gen. Robert E. Wood.

The commission is headed by President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago and was appointed by the Social Science Research council to study the trend of opinions prevailing on international economic policies in various cities.

STARTS 30 DAYS IN JAIL; WORKED MEN OVERTIME

Birmingham, Ala., March 30.—(AP)—A United States government contractor today began serving a thirty day jail sentence imposed for violating the hours of service act on a federal construction project.

The contractor, James D. Abel, entered a plea of guilty before Judge W. I. Grubb in United States District court and immediately began serving his sentence.

United States District Attorney James Smith said he preferred charges against Abel of having worked his employés more than eight hours a day while making plumbing repairs to the federal building.

HOW IS BUSINESS? IS FARLEY'S GREETING TO POSTAL EMPLOYE

New York, March 30.—(AP)—A slim little postal employé, carrying a bag of mail, looked up a little startled tonight as a tall individual, wearing a derby hat and a broad smile, grabbed his arm and asked:

"How's business? Are we picking up any?"

The carrier seemed to recognize the inquisitor's face:

"Gee, boss, I guess it's about the same."

"In spite of that we're going to save $100,000,000 this year," commented Postmaster General James A. Farley as he continued his stroll up Madison avenue toward home.

SON TESTIFIES FOR DEFENDANT IN RACKET TRIAL

Webster Crowley took the witness stand yesterday in Judge Philip J. Finnegan's court to aid in the defense of his father, Walter Crowley, president of the City Dye Works, who is one of the 18 defendants on trial in the racket conspiracy case. The elder Crowley formerly was president of the Master Cleaners and Dyers' association. This group was the predecessor of the Cleaners and Dyers' institute, which was headed by Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, University of Chicago economist, who is one of the defendants.

Prosecution witnesses had previously testified that Crowley threatened to smash windows of retail cleaners who cut the prices fixed by the association. Young Crowley, general manager of his father's concern, testified that he attended the meeting where his father was alleged to have made the statement. He said his father made no such remark, but instead made a speech asking that the cleaners and dyers unite to keep hoodlums out of the industry.

Washington Rabbits Are Tough; Chase the Dogs

Ferndale, Wash., March 30.—(AP)—Friends of Walter Powell, rancher, today told about the rabbit that chases his dog. A shepherd pup and a rabbit often drink at the same spring, then apparently become angry. The rabbit nips the young dog on the leg, then tries to bite his nose. Yipping and howling, the dog runs for a hole, with the rabbit in pursuit. The dog stays holed up until the bunny leaves.

JOB INSURANCE CALLED 'UNSOUND AND RUINOUS'

Bar, Industry Declare It Work of Theorists.

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(AP)—Unsound, ruinous, and the product of theorists were appellations applied to the administration indorsed unemployment insurance bill today by representatives of industry and of the American Bar association.

They brought to the house ways and means subcommittee the views of the National Publishers' association, the American Transit association, National Editorial association, and the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

They Deal with Theories.

"The social legislation workers, whose views are represented in this bill, are more accustomed to dealing with theories than facts," said George C. Lucas of New York, of the Publishers' association.

"On paper, a 5 per cent tax on pay rolls may be ideal, but in practice it would result in the definite retarding of business recovery.

"Publishers of small town newspapers have difficulty in providing cash necessary to meet weekly pay rolls without being obliged to put aside another 5 per cent in order to pay this excise tax.

"The newspapers, which we represent, cannot absorb this new tax.

See Employment Reduced.

"It will hasten mechanization of all processes and thus permanently reduce employment. It will force employers to keep wage rates at the lowest possible minimum and thus reduce the amount of the tax.

"This bill will cause further migration from the farm areas to the industrial areas and will invite the transfer from the class of those not gainfully employed, in order to share in the unemployment benefits.

"Unemployment insurance, which in many instances places a premium on indolence, would unquestionably defeat this proposed plan of the administration to place workers in the areas of lower living costs and keep them gainfully employed."

SMALL INTERESTS GET HEARING ON NRA COMPLAINTS

Small merchants, manufactuers and wholesalers yesterday had their first opportunity in Chicago to recite their grievances against the National Recovery administration. Fred T. Mann, member of the national recovery review board and himself a small merchant at Devil's Lake, N. D., held an informal complaint hearing in the board of directors' room of the Chicago Association of Commerce at 1 North La Salle street.

Not all the complainants in this area could be heard. Only one day was alotted for the hearing, which was not official. Mr. Mann, who is on his way to his home, had a day layover in Chicago and decided to devote it to business.

Plans Hearings En Route.

"As long as I am on the federal pay roll I decided to give my best to the government," Mr. Mann explained. "The government is paying my way home. Because I felt that I should properly earn my compensation I suggested that an informal hearing be held here. I shall hold further informal hearings in St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Kansas City."

All those who appeared before Mann yesterday complained that the NRA codes were drawn by representatives of big business and were therefore prejudicial to the small business man. The higher wages under the code, they said, worked no hardship on big business because additional costs could be more readily absorbed. They added that big business had taken advantage of the codes to squeeze out smaller interests by various provisions.

File Vigorous Protests.

The most vigorous protests were entered by representatives of the Western Ladies' Neckwear Manufacturers' association and the Chicago Dress Manufacturers' association. Spokesmen for these organizations said the codes for their industries were drawn by bigger interests in New York and were so designed that western manufacturers will be forced to close their plants unless the codes are so adjusted as to enable them to compete profitably with their rivals.

Other complainants were representatives of the Chicago Retail Coal Dealers' association, the Chicago Retail Drug association, the Waste Material Dealers, the Chicago District Retail association, and the Marking Devices Industry and independent lumber dealers.

Mr. Mann advised the various representatives to lodge their complaints with national code authorities or the national recovery review board. He asserted the administrator is anxious to correct errors of the NRA and will act promptly to do so.

Jury Frees Doctor of Murder in Six Hours

Dr. Louis S. Lippman, 55 years old, was acquitted of a charge of murder by abortion yesterday by a jury in Judge Donald S. McKinlay's Criminal court after a debate of six hours. He was accused of performing an operation on Mrs. Stella Pappas, 19 years old, 721 East 75th street, who died April 1, 1933. Nick Pappas, the husband, testified against the physician. Dr. Lippman, when placed on the witness stand by Defense Attorney Samuel A. Hoffman, denied he aborted Mrs. Pappas, but said she died from an infection for which no one was responsible.

AUTO CHAMBER JOINS ATTACK ON SECURITIES ACT

Says It Sets Up a Prying Burocracy.

Detroit, Mich., March 30.—[Special.]—Every corporation in the United States whose securities are listed on the exchanges would be subject to a prying government burocracy under the terms of the proposed national securities exchange act, according to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber's view will be submitted to congress in a brief in the next few days.

The following is a synopsis of the sections of the bill most detrimental to business, in the chamber's opinion:

"The proposed national securities exchange act of 1934 was originally introduced in the house of representatives and simultaneously in the senate on Feb. 9, 1934.

"The bill, in addition to regulating national security exchanges, seriously affects all corporations the stock of which are listed on exchanges; their officers, directors, and principal stockholders.

"Section 11 [a] would impose on all companies affected a new government burocracy whose function would be to pry into business and subject it to the molestation of government agents, without, in our opinion, any warant for so doing.

Registration Requirements.

"This section of the bill in its present form requires corporations which are listed upon an exchange to file with the exchange and with the federal trade commission a registration statement. This section also requires filing with the exchange and with the commission, and undertaking by the corporation so far as is within its powers to enforce compliance by its officers, directors, and stockholders with the provisions of the act and any amendments thereto, and with the rules and regulations made or to be made thereunder, and not to lend any funds at the money post of any exchange, or to any member of the exchange or to any broker or dealer who transacts a business in securities through the medium of any such member except in accordance with such rules and regulations as the federal reserve board may prescribe.

"The section also requires the filing of such information as to the issuer and affiliates as the commission may by rules and regulations require as necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors in respect of:

"(1) The organization, financial structure, nature, and operations of the business;

"(2) The terms, position, rights, and privileges of the different classes of securities outstanding;

"(3) Terms on which securities have been or are to be offered to the public;

"(4) The directors, officers, and principal security holders and underwriters, their remuneration, and their interests in the securities of and material contracts with the issuer and affiliates;

"(5) Remuneration to others than directors and officers exceeding $20,000 per annum;

Bonus Arrangements.

"(6) Bonus and profit-sharing arrangements;

"(7) Management and service contracts;

"(8) Options in respect of securities existing or to be created;

"(9) Material contracts not made in the ordinary course of business, and material patents;

"(10) Balance sheets for preceding years, certified by independent public accountants or otherwise as the commission may prescribe;

"(11) Profit and loss statements for preceding years certified by independent public accountants or otherwise as commission may prescribe; and

"(12) Any similar matters, information regarding which the commission deems necessary, to insure the proper protection of investors and fair dealing in the security.

"The section also requires the filing of articles of incorporation by-laws, trust idenitures and other documents of the issuer and affiliates which the commission by rules and regulations may require.

"Section 12 provides that the commission may require every issuer of a security registered on an exchange to file with the exchange and with the commission such information and documents as the commission may require to keep reasonably current the information and documents filed under section 11, together with such annual, quarterly and/or other reports as the commission may prescribe. It will readily be seen from the above that the character of the reports which may be required under these sections is unlimited.

"Section 13 would make it very difficult, if not practically impossible, to arrange for meetings of stockholders.

"Other sections of the bill would make the federal trade commission a czar over industry and empower it to reveal to the merely curious facts and relationship in business the disclosures of which would only harm business and serve no public good whatsoever."

New Automobile Labor Board Studies Nash Company Strike

Detroit, Mich., March 30.—(AP)—Created to avert a walkout that threatened to tie up the automotive industry, the automobile labor board today turned its attention toward a settlement of the strike actually existing in the plants of the Nash Motors company in Kenosha, Racine, and Milwaukee, Wis.

The board, which met for the first time yesterday, conferred today with C. W. Nash, chairman of the board of his company; E. H. McCarty, president of the Nash company, and H. H. Seaman, head of the Seaman Body corporation of Milwaukee. None of the conferees, who met in closed session, would discuss the initial conferences in the Nash case. Representatives of the strikers, said by the company head to number between four and five thousand, have been invited to appear before the board, but were not present today.

Wolman Tells of Plans.

Dr. Leo Wolman, Columbia university authority on economics, who is chairman of the three man "peace board," indicated the hearings in the Nash case would be completed before the board turns again to consideration of charges by union workers that they had been discriminated against because of their union affiliation.

Dr. Wolman expressed disappointment that representatives of the workers did not arrive today, but said they would be heard Monday if they appear. There will be no session of the board tomorrow.

Already 50 discrimination complaints have been placed in the board's hands, and William Collins, American Federation of Labor organizer here, said that was only the "opening salvo." Several hundred other similar charges will be submitted, he said.

No Statement Made.

Nash's appearance before the board was not announced as part of the agenda until this forenoon. With Seaman and McCarty, he appeared at the board offices at 2:15 p. m. and went immediately into the hearing. After the hearing, which took up practically all of the afternoon session, Dr. Wolman said there would be no settlement until the workers' side of the dispute had been heard.

The dispute in the Nash plants differs from that involving the Michigan plants in that the principal issue involves wages rather than charges of discrimination against union workers.

Printers Return to Work, New Haven Register Prints

New Haven, Conn., March 30.—(AP)—The New Haven Register printed its regular editions today, after failing to publish yesterday because of a strike of compositors.

The men returned to work while conferences proceeded between John Day Jackson, publisher of the Register, and Leo Green of Boston, New England organizer of the International Typographical union. Jackson said the strike was called without notice, and therefore illegal under agreement with the union.

The strikers say they seek restoration of the 10 per cent cut in day wages and a 12 per cent cut in night wages, made in 1932.

EASTMAN AWAITS ROOSEVELT FOR RAIL WAGE TRUCE

Possibility of Appeal Is Reason for Delay.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation, virtually dropped the railroad wage controversy late today.

In a formal statement outlining the issues between the railroad managements and their employés, the coordinator said it was probable that a settlement would have to await the return of President Roosevelt.

"While I would not say that the present differences of opinion are irreconcilable," he said, "it is clear to me that I cannot compose them as long as there is possibility of appeal to higher authority."

Retains Mediator Rôle.

Coördinator Eastman said, however, he would not abandon the rôle of mediator and would be glad to consider any suggestions which either side might wish to proffer.

"The fact should be emphasized," he said, "that there is no present prospect of a strike, and that if further effort at settlement fails, the controversy must proceed in accordance with the orderly procedure provided by the railway labor act. In his letter of March 20 the President indicated that if no agreement is reached, and in default of arbitration, it might be necessary for him, 'with due regard to the protection of the general public interest, to appoint a commission to examine thoroughly into the labor controversy, covering all classes of railroad employment in order that the country may be fully advised of the merits.'"

Reviews Wage Controversy.

Coördinator Eastman reviewed the controversy resulting from the refusal of the Railway Labor Executives' association to agree to continuation for at least six months from July 1 of the arrangement under which 10 per cent has been deducted from the pay of railroad employés since Jan. 31, 1932.

"The labor representatives appear unwilling to entertain any proposal which would continue the 10 per cent deduction until the end of the year," Mr. Eastman said. "On the other hand, the railroad representatives appear unwilling to entertain any proposal which would not so continue it, unless earnings and trafic reach a condition which in their opinion would justify restoration."

PRESIDING JUDGE OF N. Y. COURT IS KILLED BY FALL

New York, March 30.—[Special.]—Presiding Justice William Chilvers, 57, of the New York Municipal court fell to his death today from the roof of the Hotel Ludy near the boardwalk in Atlantic City, where he was recovering from a nervous breakdown and an operation. The police reported his death as suicide, but his brother-in-law, William Duke, who has been staying with him since he went to Atlantic City on March 21, said he believed that the fall was accidental.

Justice Chilvers had been a justice in the Municipal court since 1923, and in the first week of his administration Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia made him presiding justice. Previously he had held various positions under Gov. Charles A. Whitman and in the Mitchell administration.

Overwork in the courts, where he was trying to develop a system for speeding up the handling of cases, and illness brought him to the verge of a breakdown several weeks ago and he called on Mayor La Guardia and submitted his resignation, the mayor said today. Unwilling to lose a man he considered exceptionally well fitted for the post, Mayor La Guardia refused to accept the resignation, and advised him to consult a doctor and to take a long rest.

ROOSEVELT SAILS FROM NASSAU TO CATCH BONEFISH

Pauses at Capital of British Bahamas.

NASSAU, New Providence iland, Bahamas, March 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt sailed out of this harbor early this afternoon with an expert fisherman to help him find the fishing grounds of the Bahamas.

With all the ceremonies attendant on a visit by the President of the United States to a foreign territory, Mr. Roosevelt anchored here for a few hours today, but he did not leave the yacht Nourmahal.

He was still on vacation, and reporters stood aside as the President paid a very informal call to Nassau, the capital of the British Bahamas.

Gets 21 Gun Salute.

Tonight he was cruising off Rocky point, in Great Abaco, trolling for his favorite fish, the bonefish, gamest of the finny tribe.

In this quaint harbor the presidential yacht was given a 21 gun salute from the British cruiser Danae. The Danae remained outside the reef protecting the harbor as the Nourmahal, trailed by the U. S. S. Ellis, slipped into port for a four hour stay.

The men of the destroyer manned the rail and dipped the presidential flag in response to the salute from the Danae.

"Pete the Sponger" Arrives.

So today, unknown to Kernochan, a dilapidated and leaky ship drew by the presidential yacht, manned by "Pete the Sponger."

With the highest formality "Pete the Sponger" came on board with a scrolled certificate, and with utmost ceremony presented it to Kernochan—the only man on the Nourmahal who did not know about the plan.

The President, already burned by sun and wind of the southern waters, helped put over the affair. Last year when he was here Mr. Roosevelt was busy selecting his cabinet, and thus the fictitious title for Kernochan, a very intimate friend.

Early in the morning the President received Sir Bede Clifford, governor of the Bahamas, who boarded the Nourmahal with Lady Clifford, a daughter of J. B. Gundery of Cleveland, O. They remained aboard for lunch.

Holds to Vacation Schedule.

The President insisted on holding to the vacation schedule, and from his yacht tonight there was no official news as he again sailed the high seas.

Newspaper men who followed the President to this old British port were somewhat surprised today to learn that their copy had gone through the approving eye of a censor.

Sir George Johnson, president of the legislative council, assured the men who cover the White House that what they had written had been duly approved by the proper authorities.

HOLDUP VICTIMS SAVE $1,600 OF A $2,273 PAY ROLL

Holding up one man and one woman employé of the Collins & Alexander, Inc., engravers, 65 East South Water street, in an elevator of the building, a gunman escaped yesterday with $673 of a $2,273 pay roll.

Mrs. Marie Bartholomie, bookkeeper for the concern, and James Maxwell, a clerk, had just returned from the Boulevard Bridge bank with the pay roll, and the robber followed them into the elevator. Between the 20th and 21st floors he suddenly whipped out a gun.

Forcing the elevator operator to halt the car, he demanded the pay roll. Mrs. Bartholomie turned over $600 and Maxwell $73. The latter saved $1,600 he had in an inside pocket. The bandit then drove the elevator to the 16th floor, forced the trio out, and drove down and escaped.

HALL OF SCIENCE IS REVAMPED FOR THIS YEAR'S FAIR

Every Exhibit to Answer Public's Questions.

FAIR TICKET BOOKS.

Souvenir ticket books for the 1934 Century of Progress Exposition are now on sale at The Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 South Dearborn street and the Tribune Tower. Each book contains five tickets, each ticket combining one general admission and one ticket to a concession. The books have a total value of $3.75 and are sold for $2.50.

BY EARL MULLIN.

The Hall of Science, showing the advance made by men in material things, will be basically the same, but vastly changed in detail when it reopens for the 1934 World's Fair. Science for the public rather than for the scientists will be the object of the exhibits, according to the program announced yesterday by officials of the Fair.

"Last year we kept a record of the questions asked by visitors," C. H. Menger, assistant to C. W. Fitch, supervisor of the basic science division, said. "This year we are attempting to answer many of the questions by means of exhibits.

"Most visitors took the science exhibit seriously last year, and more pencils and notebooks were seen in the great hall than in any other part of the Fair. The entire hall is being remarked so that the signs will be understood by every one. It is our purpose to show the public what the scientists are doing, and not primarily to inform scientists about developments in their own profession."

New Exhibits Planned.

Individual exhibits in many cases have been rebuilt to conform with the new plan. Exhibits have been added, and a few have been removed, either for scientific reasons or because new developments replace them. The entire show has been so renovated that it will operate to full capacity this year. Last year working models were in operation, due to failure of mechanical part, only an estimated 60 per cent of the time.

One exhibit that will be missing is the Beebe bathosphere, which occupied a prominent place in the great hall. This will be used by a scientist who will make an attempt to descend one mile into the ocean for the National Geographical society. If successful he will return the bathosphere to the science exhibit sometime in July. The cost of the device precludes its duplication.

In place of the bathosphere an exhibit showing the working of a stratosphere gondola will occupy the center space. Many persons have seen the outside of August Picard's gondola, but the working of the instruments has been a mystery to most of them. One instrument will show the measuring of cosmic rays. Maj. Chester Fordney, who with Commander T. G. W. Settle made a successful flight last year, will assist at the exhibit.

Another exhibit will show the everyday uses of geometrical principles. A new group of exhibits in mathematics will demonstrate the fourth dimension and the impossibility of perpetual motion.

Plan Mechanical Motion Exhibits.

Scientific knowledge acquired since man first discovered the wheel, the axle, and the inclined plane will be shown in the new mechanical motion panel, all the exhibits of which will be animated.

A new exhibit instaled largely as a result of questions asked by visitors will deal with sea and aerial navigation. Sextants and other devices, the stars, and mathematics, and their place in navigation calculation, will be shown and explained.

The 1934 Century of Progress Exposition is not going to be a vaudeville show characaterized by obscenity or lewd exhibitions, it was announced yesterday by the executive committee after one concessionaire had reported the signing of a fan dancer and the reopening of eight peep shows.

"Immoral and offensive shows are strictly out," Maj. Lohr said. "Last year the Fair to many people was characterized by lewd exhibitions. This problem is up to the management, and this year we will close at once any show which in the opinion of the management is offensive. Our contracts this year give us that right and we will use it. There are 700 concessions, and we can't police them all, so we ask for the help of the public to keep the Fair clean. This year there will be no appeal from our decisions."

Bridges Built from 1893 Fair Steel Still in Use

Valparaiso, Ind., March 30.—[Special.]—Two large bridges and about a dozen smaller structures, built from steel taken from buildings at 1893 World's Fair in Chicago, are still doing service in Porter county. More than 40 bridges were built from the steel.

DR. WYNEKOOP IN BED AS FIRST DAY IN JAIL PASSES

Dwight, Ill., March 30.—[Special.]—Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop spent the first full day of her incarceration in the state reformatory for women near here resting in a hospital bed. Like all new inmates, she is "in quarantine" in the hospital wing of the institution's new building, where she will be kept for at least two weeks. She is in a small but sunny room with barred windows, one of the choice corner rooms of the wing. The disappearing steel door is kept locked throughout the day and night while she is isolated.

During the day she met Miss Helen H. Hazard, superintendent of the model penal institution known as Oakdale for the first time. Asked later if Dr. Wynekoop appeared cheerful, Miss Hazard replied:

"I couldn't tell, but I hardly think that this is a very cheerful place to come to. She naturally wouldn't feel pleased at what has happened to her. However, I think she is as comfortable as possible."

TUGWELL'S BOOK STATES THESIS OF 'SOCIAL CONTROL'

Dr. Wirt Culls Pages to Fortify 'Stalin' Charges.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Americans have an "unreasoning, almost hysterical attachment" to the constitution of the United States and this is one obstacle to "social control" of industry, according to one of the recent books from the camp of the New Dealers from which Dr. William A. Wirt of Gary is culling quotations to fortify his charges that Washington "brain trusters" seek to destroy the American social and economic order and to supplant it with a "planned economy."

The book in question is entitled "Our Economic Society and Its Problems," and Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture and one of the heads of the brain trust at the national capital, is one of its co-authors. His collaborator is Howard C. Hill of the University High school, Chicago.

Plans Examination of Book.

If Dr. Wirt testifies before a congressional committee at Washington he expects to urge that utterances in the book be examined, especially its chapters on "social planning in Russian industry," as the book terms communism in soviet Russia, and on proposals for economic planning in the United States.

As to what the phrase "economic planning" may imply in its finality, one of the quotations from the book says: "Complete economic planning is possible only when there is public ownership and control of the means of production."

In dwelling upon the significance of soviet Russia, the Tugwell-Hill book says:

"So long as levels of living in Russia are much lower than those in America, the soviet economy will offer no serious challenge to us. Men are not greatly influenced by speculations as to which economic system does more with the materials at its disposal so long as they are living better than the other fellow.

"But if the levels of living in Russia approach our own, the challenge will be a serious one. For with equal levels of living, the greater economic democracy and equality of the Russian system will make a tremendous appeal to the masses of intelligent men. It is certainly not impossible for the levels in Russia to equal ours. The recurrent depressions to which we seem subject may retard our progress.

Subtle Hint of Dangers.

"When production has been speeded up in Russia, as it is almost certain to be, the coördinated discipline and enthusiasm of sovietism is certain to raise levels of living immeasurably.

"If we have done nothing in the meantime to remedy the obvious defects in our own system, we shall be subject to real dangers. One danger is that of a sudden change to a socialistic economy, bringing with it all the bloodshed, terror, and suppression which existed in Russia for many years after the revolution there.

"Or there is the equally real possibility of a series of trade wars or military wars between two world systems of equal power that are fundamentally incompatible. Just as it was impossible for our union to exist half slave and half free, so it may become impossible for the world to exist half socialistic and half capitalistic.

"And there are many who believe that capitalism in its nineteenth century and present form would prove a weaker system than the system being developed in the soviet union."

Pays Tribute to Soviet.

After thus remarking that American capitalism, with its traditional individualism and its profits incentive for the development of private enterprise and consequent employment, may succumb to communism, in the opinion of many, the book lauds Russia as follows:

"Russia has silenced forever the notion that economic affairs are governed by adamant natural laws. She has demonstrated that men have it in their power to set up the system they want and to make it obedient to their wishes. The idea of laissez faire in Russia seems to be dead.

"Our own system has many defects. We need not agree with Russia's philosophy to see that she has proved that society is capable of setting up plans for its own welfare, basing these plans upon the goals it desires and the materials with which it is familiar. With Russia as an example, intelligent people in America will become less and less willing to seek remedies for economic ills in inactivity. They will want to plan and to act.

"Their plans may range from a mild modification of the existing order to violent revolution. But they will all differ in quality from laissez faire."

Social control as against traditional individualism, the profit motive, and freedom of business enterprise, is the subject matter of one chapter in the book.

The Laissez Faire Idea.

"The philosophy of laissez faire," it says, "is that freedom from government restrictions and regulations is a guarantee of a successful economy. This theory worked well in our country in the nineteenth century, when the chief economic need was the rapid development of our resources and when economic enterprises were in the hands of small adventurers, business men, and farmers.

"In our own times, with business organized on a huge scale and burdened with great social responsibilities, the need for public control is predominant. . . . Laissez faire, which developed when the greatest need was for freedom of business enterprise, stresses the liberty of business at the expense of other kinds of liberty. Now other liberties are of greater importance, and can be secured only by social control."

In its final chapter, headed "Proposals for Economic Planning in the United States," the Tugwell book sets forth that the communist party in America is for forcible overthrow of the present system and the establishment of a "dictatorship of the proletariat," while the Socialist seeks to bring about changes by slow, orderly processes.

Suggest an Alternative.

"One comment upon Socialism may be made," it says. "It proposes such sweeping changes in law and property rights that it has aroused extreme opposition. If we desire socialization, we must consider the further question: Can it be attained in an orderly way within a reasonable time, or are the communists correct when they say it can only be attained by force?

"If we believe that the communists are correct on this point, we are not forced into their camp, but may choose some other plan less radical in character, because we believe it more practical to fulfill reasonably soon."

Discusses Alternative Plans.

The Tugwell book discusses the Soule plan for a national economic board, the Beard plan for a national economic council, the Swope plan for stabilizing industry and employment, as presented by Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, the United States Chamber of Commerce plan for an economic council, and the La Follette plan for a council to formulate proposals for solution of economic problems.

The book takes up the National Industrial Recovery act, and in its critique says the act "attempts no remedy" for "private profit seeking."

"The worth of the act," it says, "may be tested partially by examining it in relation to the problems of coördinating industry. In so far as lack of coördination is due to concealment of information and typical trade practices by unscrupulous minorities, the act is likely to serve a useful function.

"But for the evil that the most economical utilization of industrial capacities for the welfare of the people as a whole is inconsistent with private profit seeking, the act (NIRA) attempts no remedy.

Profits No Social Index.

"Successful economic planning involves the encouragement of industrial development along socially useful lines, based on the recognition that the social utility of an industry cannot always be determined by its ability to yield private profits.

"Thus, planning involves public participation through government in the distribution of capital among industries, by means of taxation, regulation of profits, and in various other ways. Aside from the public works program, the NIRA does not attempt these."

The experimental legislation passed by congress last year to deal with economic problems, are only "worthwhile beginnings." The Tugwell book says "They are not economic planning, but they afford new opportunities for working out plans."

Social control of industry, the book argues, will depend upon the New Deal experimentalists, and how far they take advantage of opportunities.

"The NIRA," it says, "provides mechanisms for social control, but the fruitful exercise of control depends upon the ideals of the people in whose hands it lies. We have not a plan, but rather opportunities to plan.

Suggests Social Control.

"How we utilize these opportunities depends upon the extent to which we discard laissez faire and embark upon policies of social control. It is a great mistake to regard recent legislation as in itself economic planning. For if it is so regarded and then this legislation fails, many people would consider the planning idea a mistake, without raising the pertinent preliminary question as to whether planning had been tried.

Among the obstacles to "economic planning," is the "emotional attachment" of Americans to the constitution of the United States. Says the Tugwell book:

"For many years the technical task of devising plans for regulating our complex economic interests was too difficult to attempt. But today we know that this is no longer true, for Russia has shown that planning is practicable.

"The real obstacle to economic planning is the set of ideals that we have carried over from an early day and which developed to fit a totally different economic situation. We continue to think in terms of individualism and competitive profit seeking long after the conditions favorable to that economic philosophy have passed away.

Cites Emotional Inflexibility.

"The difficulty in attaining the experimental habit of mind towards social or economic arrangements arises largely from a confusion of ends with means and from an emotional attachment to the instruments of social life.

"An illustration of such feeling is the unreasoning, almost hysterical, attachment of certain Americans to the constitution."

"An experimental attitude would conceive of the constitution as an instrument prepared to meet the needs of the American people and would want the document revised as changes made revision desirable. A refusal to consider revising the constitution as conditions and ideas change might result in a rising pressure of popular indignation that would explode with terrific force and with disastrous social consequences to all the people of the United States."

Congress Trying to Put Him on the Spot Says Dr. Wirt

Intimating that the Democratic leaders in congress are attempting to put him "on the spot" by narrowing the scope of the investigation into his charges that members of the administration brain trust are plotting a revolution, Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary educator, insisted yesterday that he would refuse to limit his testimony in any way.

He said that he will not be satisfied with merely answering questions propounded to him by the members of the congressional committee, but will elaborate in his own way on the motives and machinations of the brain trust.

With references to published material, his own analyses of the situation and the corroborative testimony of volunteer witnesses, Dr. Wirt said he will try to impress on the committee the havoc that may result if the brain trust's influence is not curtailed and it is allowed to deprive congress of the power of legislation—"it's birthright."

Putting Him on the Spot.

"Apparently the committee is trying the put me on the spot," Dr. Wirt declared, "by just allowing me to appear before them and mention names of brain trusters who have boasted of their influence with the administration and their steering of the course of events toward a revolution. The committee will just allow me to give direct evidence.

"Then, after names have been mentioned, there is nothing to prevent the committee from just calling these people and allowing them to deny categorically the charges. I will have no opportunity for introducing contributory and collateral evidence. However, I will insist on airing the whole matter."

Dr. Wirt said that as soon as he is officially notified to appear before the committee he will engage the services of an eastern lawyer to counsel him as to his method of procedure at the hearing and just what evidence he is empowered to present. Dr. Wirt estimated that he would need a week to coördinate his material after receiving the summons from the committee before going to Washington.

Plans to Be Careful.

"I realize that I must be careful how I go about this," he continued, "because the worst thing that could be done would be to accuse people and have them become martyrs in the public eye by denying my charges. The quickest way to breed a million communists in this country is to give people the idea that those I name are being persecuted."

Questioned concerning a statement made in the house of representatives by Congressman Harold McGugin [Rep., Kas.] that many bills urged upon congress by President Roosevelt and his advisers had not even been read by the President and in some instances not even printed before enactment, Dr. Wirt said that he had no first hand knowledge of such a situation but that "it is very significant." He said that he would ask the committee to consider the charge.

Dr. Wirt said that he had "filed in a safe place" the names and details of conferences with the members of the trust and that the information would not be revealed "until necessary for the welfare of the nation."

He said that in reply to a telegram from Representative George Foulkes [Dem., Mich.], proposing a debate between them at the Washington open forum he had mentioned a statement by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace that the situation should be debated in congress.

BROOKHART, AAA, DECLARES FAITH IN COMMUNISM

Brain Truster Stirs Up Scene at Banquet.

It was true that the Russians had no money, he admitted, but there was plenty for everybody, no misery; all had jobs and meal tickets.

Clew to Wirt Charges.

Then, it is related, Mr. Brookhart proposed that the United States ought to emulate Russia and sovietize all industry, sovietize the land. The diners' jaws dropped, excepting those who knew Mr. Brookhart quite well and were used to his loud speeches in the old days when the senate had little business to attend to.

The industrial friends of the guest of honor, however, were agast at such talk from an official of the government. Mr. Brookhart is not a professor; that is, he has not qualified formally as a pedagog, but he has been placed in many lists compiled of members of the Roosevelt brain trust, and this produced the deductions in some minds that here at last was the brain truster accused by Dr. Wirt.

The next speaker was Senator Bailey, and for 13 minutes by the clock he lashed at his former colleague. Poking his finger almost into Brookhart's nose, the southern senator shouted that America would never adopt the methods which had reduced Russia to worse serfdom than under the czars and had produced famine and misery instead of the plenty portrayed by Mr. Brookhart.

Denies Urging Sovietization.

It was the most unusual and, doubtless the most interesting, dinner put on during the present social season.

Mr. Brookhart was asked today about the matter and he denied that he had advocated a soviet form of government for the United States.

"As for being the man who told Dr. Wirt about the revolution," he said, "all I have to say is that I never heard about Dr. Wirt till I read about him in the newspapers this week.

"I am not proposing a soviet form of government for America. The Russians are doing a lot of things better than we are and we might profitably emulate them in a lot of respects, but we don't need to change our form of government to do it. They have copied our public school and public roads systems and we might well copy their economic setup which provides every man with a job. They have no depression in Russia and we have. That tells the story."

Brookhart, who is a $6,600 adviser to the administrator of the AAA on Russian trade, admitted that Senator Bailey read him the riot act at the dinner because of the speech he had made.

"He called me the ambassador of Russia," said Brookhart, "and I called him the ambassador of hell—all in fun, you know."

FISH CHARGES RADICALS GIVEN KEY POSITIONS

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—The furore occasioned by the charges of Dr. William A. Wirt of Gary, Ind., that the Roosevelt brain trust plans a communistic régime was further enlivened today by a statement from Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. [Rep., N. Y.] that hundreds of radicals with Red leanings have been given key positions in the government.

Meanwhile Speaker Rainey proceeded with the selection of a special committee to investigate the Indiana educator's charges. The committee will be named Monday when the house convenes again.

REVEAL SPREAD OF PACIFISM IN U. S. COLLEGES

Propaganda Organization Reports Surveys.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—A rapid growth of pacifism in American colleges was disclosed here today by the National Council for the Prevention of War, a pacifist organization which is waging a bitter fight on compulsory military training in state universities.

Propagandizing the protest now being made before federal officials by a group of Ohio State university students, who were recently expelled for refusing military instruction, the council revealed the results of several recent polls conducted at leading colleges throughout the country.

Results from Questionnaires.

At Harvard, within the last week, it was reported, 229 students declared that they would refuse to bear arms in any war in which the United States might become involved; 515 stated they would fight only in case of an attempted invasion by a foreign power, and 326 were willing to bear arms at any time on the call of congress.

A nation-wide survey conducted recently by an intercollegiate pacifist organization, according to the council's statement, showed that out of a total of 21,725 students voting, 8,415 took a definite and uncompromising stand against war and the conduct of arms; 7,221 asserted that they would fight only in case of invasion, while 6,889 were ready to bear arms whenever this country became involved in war.

See Rapid Swing.

The nation-wide poll, it was said, included 65 institutions in 27 states. It was understood to be the first time any survey of such scope has disclosed more college students unwilling to fight than are ready to bear arms.

Charles Hart, leader of the group of Ohio State students now in the capital protesting their expulsion, predicted that the rapid growth in the number of students opposed to military instruction "will necessitate a change in the policy of compulsory drill in schools and colleges."

REVEALS WIRT LETTER; TO FACE ANTI-TRUST SUIT

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—Prosecution of the government's anti-trust suit against the International Business Machine company and its subsidiary, the Tabulating Machine company, and Remington-Rand and its subsidiary, Remington-Rand Business Service, Inc., is scheduled to start soon in the federal court in New York, the department of justice said today.

This action, instituted in 1932 under the Hoover administration, has been delayed because of the heavy docket in the New York court, according to officials. They denied that it had political significance.

Recently James H. Rand Jr., an official of the companies, presented to the house interstate commerce commission the letter from Dr. William I. Wirt, superintendent of schools at Gary, Ind., which caused a sensation by its declaration that the administration "br in trust" had in it members who were aiming at revolution.

Mr. Rand also appeared for the committee of the nation, in opposition to the stock market regulation bill. Reference was made by Mr. Rand to the "radical young lawyers" who had drafted this legislation. Previously the committee of the nation had supported monetary policies of the Roosevelt administration. Attorney General Cummings said the suit had been filed before he took office and he was not familiar with the details.

According to the justice department the companies involved enjoy a monopoly in the United States in the production of tabulating and statistical machines.

Price fixing and restriction of interstate commerce are among the charges preferred by the government. Minimum rentals were agreed upon among the companies for tabulating machines, while agreements were made not to sell but only to rent the tabulating machines, according to the complaint.

The United States public printer filed a complaint with the justice department which resulted in the government's action. Officials said the government is one of the largest users of machines produced by the defendant companies.

DR. WIRT CALLED 'TRUE AMERICAN' BY SILAS STRAWN

Attorney Silas H. Strawn, speaking yesterday in the Mid Day club, declared that Prof. William A. Wirt of Gary, educator who has attacked "brain trusters" as enemies of the present social order, is "a true American of the type needed to save this country from intellectual jackasses in Washington."

Strawn's remarks were made to members of the American Genealogical society, of which he is president.

"Wirt is correct," he said. "This country hasn't all gone to the dogs yet and I'm not willing to admit we are licked in the battle to preserve the old ideals for which our forefathers fought."

Sanity Theme Well Handled in This Novel

'Private Worlds' Has Setting in Mental Hospital.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Private Worlds," by Phyllis Bottome. [Houghton-Mifflin.] Published on Wednesday.

"The Reckoning," by Leane Zugsmith. [Smith-Hass.]

WITH a theme as unusual as that of any novel of the year, "Private Worlds" comes to us this week, and with, I might say, a most supremely apt title.

The scene of the highly tense emotional drama is a hospital for the insane in Wales. The inmates are a sort of silent Greek chorus whose actions rarely intrude upon the plot, but whose mere presence influences subtly the whole course of the lives of the characters.

The principal characters are a newly appointed superintendent, his two assistants [both doctors and psychiatrists], the wife of one of the doctors and the sister of the superintendent. The fact that one of the doctors is a woman, that she is an intensely close friend of the other doctor causes the snarled knots of psychoses which make the sane characters as introverted dwellers in their own private spiritual worlds as are some of the insane patients . . . it is only a question of degree of maladjustment.

One of the sane characters falls over the border line into active insanity when she is called upon to understand her husband's infidelity during her pregnancy, and the solution of her insanity is found in the untying of another psychological knot.

As one talks thus about it the whole idea seems almost madness itself, but in the hands of a skilled craftsman, and as is obvious also a skilled psychologist, the intricate and delicate interplay of the emotions of the characters is a subtle super-sanity. "Private Worlds" was the most difficult theme that one could conceive of but one for which Phyllis Bottome is well equipped.

As a sort of sub-theme to that of the delicate relationship between sanity and insanity, and the tacit assertion that under the compulsion of jealousy [of achievement as well as of love] sane people do all sorts of insane things, there is a fictional statement of the three most powerful relationships between man and woman, love, lust, and friendship.

Miss Bottome has, with a sure pen, outlined those three relationships in their complicated spiritual interrelationship and as clearly as I remember having seen it done in a novel, stated the satisfactions, the compulsions, and the weaknesses of each of those major emotional reactions.

"Private Worlds" is not, I think, one of the great novels of the year, but it is a tour de force which should bring the author the respect of her fellow craftsmen and it is not inconceivable that it might become one of those darlings of the public, a best seller.

"The Reckoning" is the second novel of a young New York woman who lives her daytimes in a publishing house helping to interest the public in other people's novels and for relaxation acts exactly like the fireman who spends his day off going to fires. One might think that reading and writing about other people's books all day would put out any possible fires of creation in one [it does in me!], but Miss Zugsmith is a born novelist and she may well remember that it wasn't much more than twenty years ago that Sinclair Lewis had exactly the same sort of job she has.

Anyway, "The Reckoning," like its predecessor, "Never Enough," shows what associating with the best people does for one, for it is without any of the gaucheries of the commonplace novel. It is not a masterpiece but it proclaims its author as a sharp eyed observer, a smart collator and editor of her impressions, and a gifted craftsman.

The novel isn't about very much—a school teacher who interested herself in the life of one of her pupils, the victim of a city slum, but never found happiness, a young lawyer who tried to play the game of the city and failed, a middle aged woman whose romance never lost its glory because time never had a chance to tarnish it . . . futility, really, all through.

Yet there is a strangely alive quality about the book . . . the characters are not at all ideas with which the author makes a preconceived pattern of life, but life simply observed.

New Book by Freud Gives Outline of His Theories

Phyllis Bentley's declaration in her lecture about the "Modern Novel" that the discoveries of Dr. Sigmund Freud have had a profound influence on the modern novel in giving writers the springs as well as the surface of the rivers of consciousness as material has urged many readers to ask for help in finding out about Freud's theories. Luckily Freud himself gave to the world lately "A New Series of Introductory Lectures to Psychoanalysis," which is published in this country in English translation by W. W. Norton.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

For sheer cussedness the murderer in Father Ronald Knox's "Settled Out of Court" [Dutton] bears off the palm, but the book itself is full of engaging qualities. I do not know whether Father Knox has ever before written a murder mystery, but he is the friend and adviser of that galaxy which includes Dorothy Sayers, Anthony Berkeley, John Rohde, and a dozen others who write so busily and brightly of English crime and punishment. The very skilful book which he now presents proves that in teaching he has learned, for it moves so smoothly and convincingly to a horrid but inevitable conclusion that, though you have been completely mystified in its course, at the end you wonder why.

The book has all the essentials of a good detective story; every clew is in its proper place, each episode contributes to the sum total of evidence, the point of view from which it is told never deviates, and the detective who holds a watching brief spoofs and is spoofed in a very human manner.

There is a great deal of amusing conversation and many a witty quip and crank, and the young husband and wife who might be said to play Nemesis are thoroughly likable and entertaining. There is also an odd and British love affair, which puts you slightly off the scent (as it does the inquiring detective), but which takes a useful place in the fabric of the tale.

One virtue the book has that is quite new and which should be made obligatory. When the recapitulation and exposition of the crime begins Father Knox, in footnotes, refers to the page upon which each particular clew may be found, so if you have read carelessly or have forgotten a point that at the moment seemed unimportant you have neither to rack your memory nor search through the early chapters of the book. I hope, and so will you, that this is the beginning of a long and frequent series. The crime devised is a little fantastic, but the book clothes it in a sanity that is truly refreshing in the midst of all the gruesome multimurder books that come snorting off the presses.

And if sometimes clews seem far fetched and coincidences strained read "Famous Feats of Detection and Deduction" [Doubleday-Doran], by Leonard R. Gribble. It gives pleasantly written accounts of historic cases in France, England, and America, and demonstrates that no indication is too trivial, or development too far fetched, to be of value to the honest-to-goodness detective. You would be shocked at some of the incidents if they crept into fiction and declare them absurd, yet here they are, authentic and authenticated. The book will be interesting to the confirmed mystery fan as a sample of what may happen outside the pages of a book.

Will James Scores Again in Story of Western Life

Will James, cowboy-author-artist, has added another sure-fire hit to his already justly popular ten volumes of western life. His "The Three Mustangeers" [Scribners] is as delightful as anything this unique writing horseman has so far written. And its illustrations by the author are as intriguing as his naive simplicity in writing.

England's Radio Station Is Scene of Good Mystery

Members of Staf Authors of Puzzling Tale.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—A good new detective mystery novel, the title of which may strike American readers as puzzling, is "Death at Broadcasting House" [Rich & Cowan]. Broadcasting house is the name of the headquarters of the British radio system, and the novel deals with a murder committed during the performance of a radio play.

The authors are Val Gielgud and Holt Marvell, the former of whom is a very experienced and excellent writer of adventure stories, brother of John Gielgud the actor, and director of radio drama; the latter a librettist who is in charge of the light entertainment [variety] at Broadcasting house.

Gielgud is the son of a Pole who married one of the famous Terry sisters, famous all the world over as the greatest of all nineteenth century actresses, and Holt Marvell, whose real name is Eric Maschwitz, is also a Pole by birth. The two are known at Broadcasting house as the "two wireless poles," and their collaboration is an admirable example of what such collaboration should be.

All the details of the radio system are exact, the narrative is thrilling, the mystery is baffling, and the book is one which will please and amuse all who enjoy what Val Gielgud, in the dedication to his fine story, "Imperial Treasure," described as "yarns interesting but steep."

Edward Arnold, the London publisher, soon will have ready a biographical and critical work of much more than ordinary importance. This is the study of Goldsworthy Lowes Dickinson which E. M. Forster has written. Lowes Dickinson was a great force at Cambridge university during many years of his long life as philosopher and teacher [he is best known to the ordinary public as the author of a dialog, "The Meaning of God," and a poetic work in prose called "The Greek View of Life," but all his writings were marked by beauty, wisdom, and the love of peace between men], and Mr. Forster, whose first extensive publication this is since the collected lectures entitled "Aspects of the Novel," was greatly influenced by him as a young man.

The two became friends and Mr. Forster was made Lowes Dickinson's literary executor. The present book is a consequence of that friendship and executorship, and it is sure to set forth the nature of Lowes Dickinson's strong and delicacy of Mr. Forster's remarkable talent.

Lowes Dickinson was the son of an artist and the brother of a financier, Sir Arthur Lowes Dickinson, who is as much of a genius in his field as Goldsworthy Lowes Dickinson was in the field of philosophy, different as the two men were in character, appearance, and outlook.

So interesting a subject, and one so fit for Mr. Forster's sympathy, promises a valuable book, to which all who care for the history of thought should pay heed.

Meetings and Lectures

At the luncheon of the Society of Midland Authors this noon at the Hotel Sherman Ethel Colson Brazelton will talk on "Adjusting the Literary Waistline."

On Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the meeting of the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street, Henry James Forman, former editor-in-chief of the North American Review, will discuss "Keeping Up with the Twentieth Century."

Public Library Drive for Books Continues; Your Help Is Sought

The Chicago public library's campaign for additions to its shelves, depleted by the wear and tear of three years when there have been no appropriations for the purchase of new books, and the increased borrowing of a depression period, is going on apace.

Already more than 30,000 volumes have been donated to the library. Book shelves and attics which have been perfunctorily dusted for months are offering up treasures and incidentally giving their owners space for those new books that couldn't be bought because there was no place to put them.

Let's all of us do a little housecleaning! Books are accepted at the main library or any of the branches. Heigh-ho for a hundred thousand volumes . . . what? F. B.

A Man's Book—Adventures in Booze, Love and War

The first ribald paragraph of "Adventure's a Wench" [Morrow] will suggest to the average man that here's a book he probably will like, but certainly one he shouldn't buy for a feminine member of the family. And his hunch will be right. This "Autobiography of Charles Veil, Thirty-six Year Old American Soldier of Fortune, as Told to Howard Marsh," is definitly a man's book—the fast moving cinemalike career of a hard-drinking, loving, and fighting adventurer, who has packed more liquor, love, and battles into his tumultuous career than a hero of the most sensational fiction. It's a riotous panorama of booze, sex, and war. We only wish that Veil had written it himself.

OFFICIALS SEE LONG TAX DELAY AFTER 15% CUT

Seek Ways to Carry Out Jarecki Order.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday, including those for 1932, were $708,975, making a total of $126,240,647 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
March 30.....$	6,775	$ 45,548
Uncollected	14,767,933	39,728,365
	1930.	1931.
March 30.....$	88,555	$ 98,135
Uncollected	63,991,947	59,004,539

The day's collection of 1932 real estate taxes totaled $469,964; of 1931 personal property taxes, $350; and of 1932 personal property taxes, $168,656.

Conferences yesterday between county officials on the methods of carrying out County Judge Jarecki's order granting a 15 per cent cut in 1931 building assessments to 318,000 owners of residences and small flat buildings brought home to some of the conferees the enormous amount of work involved.

Only preliminary discussions of methods were possible yesterday, as Judge Jarecki had not at the time drawn up the formal order based upon his decision of Wednesday. The form of that order was fixed later in the day, however, and it will be entered today.

The order will call for a 15 per cent reduction in the building valuation of the properties involved. It will not, however, include any cut in the assessments on garages or other detached buildings. Attorney Daniel S. Wentworth, counsel for the Chicago Real Estate board in the case in which the cut was ordered, tried to convince Judge Jarecki that detached buildings should be included, but was overruled.

Applies Only to 1931.

Judge Jarecki also made plain that his order applies only to 1931 taxes. He pointed out that the assessment and tax rolls for 1932 and subsequent years of the 1931-'34 quadrennial assessment period are not before him, and that until they do come before him, after the penalty date on payments has fallen, he has no jurisdiction over them.

The amount of time required to make the changes in the tax books and collect the corrected bills is still indefinite. One executive of a county office, who is a technical and not a political appointee, estimated that it would take six months. The work involved is greater than that necessary to make a complete annual assessment in any Illinois county other than Cook, he said.

The same official pointed out that if taxpayers who receive the cut do not pay the remainder of their taxes immediately, they will lose in tax penalties far more than they will gain through the assessment cut. The penalty date on the second instalment of 1931 taxes was Sept. 1, 1933. Already 7 per cent in penalties has accumulated on unpaid bills.

Losing Hope of Rebate.

Meanwhile those taxpayers who paid their 1931 bills in full and those owners of residences and small flat buildings who did not join the real estate board objection were losing hopes that they might share in the tax cut. Only a special legislative act can give them a rebate.

Utilities Pay 6 Millions

Tax payments for 1932 aggregating $6,793,248 were made yesterday at the office of County Treasurer McDonough by three large utility companies, the Commonwealth Edison company, People's Gas Light and Coke company, and Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

More than half of the payments, a total of $3,643,147, were made in tax warrants and the remainder in cash. The payments were the capital stock tax of all three companies, the personal property tax and first instalment of real estate taxes for the Commonwealth Edison and People's Gas companies, and the first instalment of real estate taxes on the Edison and Marquette buildings.

Marshall Field & Co. paid $1,609,747 during the day, the payment consisting of personal property taxes and first instalment of real estate taxes on the wholesale and retail stores of the company and other properties. Of this payment $887,068 was in tax warrants.

YALE PRESIDENT HITS PROPAGANDA IN THE SCHOOLS

Los Angeles, Cal., March 30.—(AP)—Dr. James Rowland Angell, president of Yale university, today warned against what he described as the present tendency in this country to control education.

Speaking before a group of educators and civic leaders in the University club, Dr. Angell said:

"The schoolroom must not be used by the government or factions within governmental scope as agencies of propaganda. The duties of the university are to bring to bear on vital questions the accumulated experience of the race and the deep insight which comes only from profound learning, cultivated taste, and disciplined intelligence. The destruction of its power to do these things would be tragic human loss."

Political propaganda, he warned, must be recognized and opposed in positive fashion when an attempt is made to inject it into the schoolroom.

He cited schools in Germany, Russia, and Austria, declaring they have been turned from the ideals upon which they were founded into agencies of propaganda, irreparably damaging those institutions.

100 LOS ANGELES RED RIOTERS ARE ROUTED BY POLICE

Los Angeles, Cal., March 30.—(AP)—Heads were battered and bodies bruised as police battled for nearly an hour with more than 100 asserted communists who gathered about a building tonight where officers and the crew of the German cruiser Karlsruhe were guests at a banquet.

The rioters, carrying red banners and displaying red streamers on their automobiles, attempted to storm the building, police said. Capt. William Hynes of the police "Red" squad and 15 men were unable to route the rioters until they were reinforced by 35 detectives. No arrests were made.

The German sailors, who arrived today from San Diego where their ship is at anchor, gathered in the front ranks of the spectators and cheered as they watched the mêlée.

ALL CLEVELAND POLICE, FIREMEN GO ON HALF PAY

Cleveland, O., March 30.—[Special.]—All police and firemen are going on half pay immediately, it was announced by Mayor Harry L. Davis tonight.

They are promised the other half of their pay if and when a deficiency bond issue is approved by the voters. If the bond issue is turned down, they will be out their half time. Then they will have the choice of working only half time for their half pay.

The campaign for the $4,850,000 deficiency bond issue will be conducted by a nonpartisan citizens committee, and the special election will be held about the middle of May if the Ohio tax commission approves the city's request for permission to issue that much.

Hundreds of city employés have been discharged and other hundreds will be dismissed in the next few weeks, according to Mayor Davis. Lights on many city streets will remain dark, ash and garbage collections will cease, and parks will not be opened until the issue is settled.

The mayor also warned that the city will continue to default on its bond principal.

The first actual default comes Monday when a sixty day period of grace from the $1,199,000 issue due Feb. 1 expires.

Work on Wheeler Home Still Delayed by Union

Work on the new $125,000 home of Leslie Wheeler at 20 South Mayflower road, Lake Forest, was still held up yesterday as the Lake County Laborers' union continued its demands that 75 per cent of the workers be from their group. Chicago workmen employed by the contractors, the Dahl-Stedman company, were forced from the job Wednesday by a delegation from the Lake county organization. Anthony Rossi, business agent of the latter group, said last night that on Monday he would ask the contracting firm to submit the question of employment to Vern Corley of Waukegan, president of the local building trades council, for arbitration.

Miller.

Marvin Mart, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Salvatore Nitti and Fred Franzone, robbery sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Maurice Barad, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

Paul Patacky, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Daniel P. Trude.

After a hearing at which she frequently burst into tears, Mrs. Mayme O'Boyle, 28 years old, 5457 South Elizabeth street, was held to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of slaying her husband, Frank, a city fireman, who was shot during a quarrel in their home last Sunday.

Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court denied a defense motion to discharge the defendant, but granted the request of Attorney James M. Burke for low bond. He fixed $5,000 bail and it was immediately furnished by a professional bondsman.

Evidence of Struggle.

Mrs. O'Boyle, who was charged with the murder after a coroner's jury failed to place the blame for the slaying, testified she had been married for five years. Recently she came to believe her husband was going with another woman, she said. When he came home at 2:15 a. m. Sunday he had been drinking, she testified.

In a quarrelsome mood, he berated her because the house was cold, and told her, "You've got something in your craw—now, what is it?" according to her testimony. She said she had heard that in an automobile accident at Harvey a week ago, when he was injured, a woman was seen to walk away from the car. Mrs. O'Boyle then told her husband to pack up and leave, she testified, and went to sleep.

Tells of Shooting.

She was awakened later by the touch of a revolver against her head, she testified, and fled into the dining room. There was a struggle for the weapon, and suddenly he shot himself in the body and then shot her in the right arm, she declared.

Frank O'Boyle Sr. testified his wife had told the younger Mrs. O'Boyle: "You told me you'd kill him and now you've done it."

"That's a lie!" screamed the defendant.

"It's the truth," said the mother-in-law, standing up.

The widow sobbed aloud when the elder Mrs. O'Boyle testified to threats made by her daughter-in-law against the city fireman.

VOTE TO AMEND LIQUOR FEE LAW FOR DRUG STORES

The city council license committee yesterday voted to amend the liquor ordinance to exempt drug stores from paying liquor license fees if they restrict use of alcoholic beverages to the compounding of prescriptions. The full fee will be charged, however, if there is sale by the bottle. In addition it is provided that a food dispenser's license must be taken out if drug stores sell liquor to be consumed on the premises.

Ald. Terence F. Moran [16th], chairman of the committee, will submit the proposed amendment to the city council on Monday.

Three new rulings were announced yesterday by the state department of finance and the Illinois liquor control commission. The gallonage tax on imports hereafter will apply only to liquor sold within the state and not to shipments for other states, even though stored in Illinois. A second ruling defines the bottler as a manufacturer and exempts the bulk importers to liability for a manufacturer's license. The other decision requires the state stamp to be affixed to the cap or cork and not to the bottle iself.

A group of manufacturers of flavoring extracts and allied products voiced a protest against a liquor gallonage tax on their products in a meeting at the Palmer house yesterday. John S. Hall, chairman, said an attempt will be made to obtain refund of taxes paid since Feb. 1.

INDIANA YOUTH CONFESSES HE KILLED GIRL, 17

Washington, Ind., March 30.—[Special.]—Melodramatic efforts to persuade Miss Annavieve France, 17, of Petersburg, Ind., to marry him resulted in her death at the hands of her 18 year old high school sweetheart, it was revealed today by Daviess county authorities, who declared that Ward Davis, son of a CWA worker, had confessed the shooting, but had maintained that the tragedy was accidental.

Davis, a star athlete in his recent high school days, told a chum today that he was trying to force the girl to consent to marry him when the gun he was holding was accidentally discharged.

It is believed that a defense of accidental shooting will be built around the boy's confession.

Judge Ends 40 Year Plan; Limits Call to 23.

Compliance with a new amendment to the state grand jury law, which directs the selection of 23 men for the grand jury by the county board and terminates the Cook county method, which has been followed for 40 years, was ordered yesterday by Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court. He vacated his order of March 9 directing adherence to the old practice, thus leaving the county without a grand jury until April 23.

Judge Finnegan's order of March 9 said that 60 men should be summoned by the jury commissioners, and that from this number the commissioners should pick 23 for actual grand jury service, excusing the remainder. This method was declared illegal in the recent ruling of the Illinois Supreme court in the Lieber case, the high court declaring that no more than 23 men should be called.

Conforms to New Law.

However, the chief justice was emphatic in his statement that his order had "nothing to do" with the Lieber case and was merely in conformance with the new amendment to the jury act, which became law last Jan. 1. This provides that 23 grand jurors be selected by the county commissioners instead of by the jury commissioners.

Because the act provides that an order for a new grand jury must be entered at least 20 days before the appearance of the jury, and three days were allowed the county board to perform its new duty, Cook county will not have another grand jury until April 23. The March jury completed its term yesterday.

"I have recently studied the law as it relates to grand jury selection," Chief Justice Finnegan said. "I decided on this step only after due consideration of all the factors involved."

Order Not Retroactive.

The new order will not invalidate the work done by grand juries since Jan. 1, he said. There will be no halt in trials on account of the lack of a jury, because more than 700 cases in which indictments have been returned are still awaiting court hearings.

The county commissioners may go anywhere in the county and choose any one not legally exempt, tendering the full jury to the chief justice. President Emmett Whealan of the county board said he was undecided what method of selection would be employed, but that a device used in the Criminal court for drawing names would probably be borrowed. A special meeting of the county board will be held Monday morning to decide a course of action.

Courtney Prepares Bill.

Under the direction of State's Attorney Courtney a new bill has already been prepared which would invalidate the amendment putting the county board in control of the jury. It was feared that the power might be used for political purposes at some future date.

The retiring grand jury yesterday expressed high praise for State's Attorney Courtney and his staf and Chicago police for their "honest, courageous, and intelligent efforts as the protectors of society." "We are convinced," the report also said, "that prompt trial and speedy justice are of great advantage to the community. We therefore highly commend the action of the Criminal court judges in the new arrangement of two calendar calls each day."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

March 30, 1934.

THE house rats which are running wild in the horse barn here on the farm are going to get a big free meal today. This meal is the first step in the campaign to trick them into taking poisoned baits. Late this afternoon two kinds of unpoisoned baits will be distributed in the barn. Firstly, there will be small amounts of ground hamburger wrapped in paper. Secondly, thin slices of apple will be fixed the same way and scattered around the barn.

Rats are mighty suspicious of anything new in the way of food placed near their holes. Therefore it is a good idea to use a variety of baits and also to place these baits either in tiny paper sacks or wrap them in small pieces of paper. By wrapping food items in paper you play to one trick of the house rat that is well known. He likes to grab food and then carry it behind some object or into his hole rather than eat it in the open. Therefore by wrapping baits in paper you make it easy for them to pick up the bit of food and carry it away.

After distributing the free meal to the rats today a check-up will be made on all the baits in the morning. If they have taken everything offered we'll skip one day on the food and then put out another string of unpoisoned baits. After that free meal will come the poisoned baits.

There was a big riot in the sheepfold yesterday morning. A turkey hen started all the excitement. Shortly after daylight this hen which had roosted in a big tree in the barnyard flew down from her perch. Instead of landing outside of the sheepfold the bird dropped right in the sheepfold in front of the big lambing tent where every square inch of space is crowded with ewes and their lambs.

She had no more than put her feet on the ground than the riot started. Every ewe in the sheepfold took after this surprised turkey. As soon as they started running after the bird the lambs decided they had better join in the fun, so they took up the chase just like a pack of foxhounds on the trail. In a couple of seconds the sheepfold was as lively as the arena at a rodeo because every animal was trying to get at the poor hen turkey. As soon as Rawlings saw what was causing this stampede he rushed into the sheepfold and caught the turkey. Then he picked her up and carried her out in the wide open places where no ewes and lambs could reach her.

There is a real atmosphere and spirit of Easter here on the farm. So much new life in the sheepfold where 186 lambs can be seen, and a few lambs being born every day, too. Meadowlarks are in the fields hailing the new season with their gay songs. Bluebirds calling their plaintive notes in the woods. And the bright green of the ryefield next to sheepfold sort of symbolizes the new life that spring is bringing to the farm and the country at this Easter time.

MILK PRODUCERS ASSERT CONTROL WILL NOT WORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—Continuing its bitter fight against the milk production control program suggested by the AAA, the National Cooperative Milk Producers' federation charged today that dairy producers who cooperate in the program will not realize added income, despite the distribution of some 150 million dollars in cash government benefit payments.

"According to AAA figures, it is planned that 150 million dollars will be used for benefit payments," said Charles Holman, secretary of the dairy federation.

"If sales are reduced by 10 per cent under 1932, as is proposed, a processing tax of five cents per pound of butter fat content will not yield revenue sufficient to carry out the program. At five cents per pound the revenue would be only $133,299,000.

"The dairymen themselves will be forced to pay the tax," Holman explained, "because consumers will not pay a higher price without reducing their purchases in the same proportion."

NAME 2 SPECIAL PROSECUTORS FOR MILK CODE CASES

Francis X. Busch, former corporation counsel, and John S. Miller, both well known lawyers with offices at 231 South La Salle street, have been appointed special assistants to United States Attorney Dwight Green to handle the prosecution of violators of the federal milk marketing pact in Chicago.

Announcement of their appointment was made in Washington yesterday by the Agricultural Adjustment administration. Mr. Busch and Mr. Miller, previously advised of the appointment, have been working on milk prosecution matters for several days and expect to begin the first court action Monday.

The AAA is opening an intensive drive to enforce the provisions of the milk pact in the Chicago area. Two dairies have lost licenses this week and three others are under fire.

SPANIARDS FORGET COMMUNISM FOR DAY; CHEER VIRGIN MARY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SEVILLE, Spain, March 30.—The lay republic of Spain stepped aside today and made way for the revival of the most magnificent celebration of holy week in the Christian world.

Countless thousands thronged the streets of "Red Seville" to see statues of the Virgin, marvels of sculpture richly dressed and borne past on wonderfully decorated floats, for the first time since the fall of the monarchy. And a cabinet minister who has twice expelled a primate of Spain, driven out the Jesuits and separated the church and state, stood bareheaded in a pouring rain at 5 a. m. to preside over the spectacle.

Thousands forgot they were communists and anarchists. They cheered and sang themselves hoarse with the centuries old chant of the virgin. From early morning until midnight processions moved slowly through the crowded, narrow streets of the Andalusian capital. Not a single incident marred the celebration.

EMIL EITEL AND WIFE ASK $60,000 IN DAMAGE SUITS

Two damage suits, totaling $60,000, were filed yesterday by Emil Eitel, head of the Bismarck Hotel company, and his wife, Emma, against Rhein Brothers, Inc., 6011 South State street, a mattress manufacturing concern.

According to Mrs. Eitel's bill, which asks $50,000, a truck owned by the Rhein company, driven by Abraham H. Rhein, ran past a red light at Ashland and Addison streets, and struck the automobile in which she was riding.

She suffered a broken hip and is now in St. Elizabeth's hospital. Mr. Eitel's suit asks $10,000 and alleges that he suffered "both financially and mentally" by reason of his wife's injury.

ROME SILENCED; NATION MOURNS DEATH OF CHRIST

Pope Attends Services with Prelates.

ROME, March 30.—(AP)—A pall of mournful silence, punctuated only by prayers and picturesque processions, hung over Italy tonight as grief for the death of Christ gripped the nation in solemn Good Friday ceremonies.

In St. Peter's, Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state and high priest of the basilica, presided over the "Miserere" and "Tenebrae" mourning services.

The confusion of nature at the death of Christ was signified at the end of these services by the clergy. They struck their prayer books on the kneeling benches.

Passion Play Presented.

Sermons on the sorrows of the Virgin Mother when she stood before her martyred son, hymns, and the rosary, marked sunset ceremonies of the "Desolata," or that hour devoted to the Virgin in all Roman churches bearing her name, including the titular churches of Cardinal Hayes of New York and Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago—Santa Maria del Popolo and Santa Maria in Via, respectively.

A passion play was presented this evening in the little town of Grassina, near Florence, before tens of thousands of pilgrims.

The "Gesu Morto," which means "Jesus dead," began with a huge procession representing Christ's tragic journey to Calvary. The procession wound up a nearby hill, led by nine peasants upon whose sturdy shoulders was borne the figure of Christ lying upon a bier under a black canopy.

At the top of the hill the throng knelt before three tall crosses which rose among the cypresses, and said their prayers for the martyred Jesus.

Priests Bless Animals.

After the procession the peasants led their horses, oxen, and sheep into the village chapels. There the animals were blessed by priests using holy water.

The part of Judas was an unsavory one during the "Gesu Morto" processions of the middle ages. Devout peasants of those days often set upon and beat severely the person acting the part of the treacherous disciple. The pageant was taken so seriously that the people removed shoes from the horses for fear they would trample the ground over which the effigy of the dead Jesus had passed.

Men of Merano, near the northeastern frontier, carried large wooden crosses in the procession there tonight. Their womenfolk bore flowers, and buildings on the line of march were illuminated.

The mourning period will end tomorrow—holy Saturday—when church bells will ring out tidings of the resurrection. The bells throughout Rome have been silent since holy Thursday.

Kindle New Flames Today.

New fire struck by flint and steel to replace the flames ritualistically extinguished on holy, or Maundy, Thursday will be kindled in the basilicas tomorrow and the paschal candles lit.

Homes will be blessed, the sacred images which have been swathed in mourning drapes since Thursday will be uncovered, and the "Gloria in Excelsis" sung to prepare the faithful for the great event of Easter Sunday resurrection.

GIANT FLYING BOAT'S TEST FLIGHTS PROVE SHIP IS AIRWORTHY

Bridgeport, Conn., March 30.—(AP)—The giant flying boat S-42, built by Sikorsky for Pan-American Airways, proved itself airworthy today in its first test flights.

Taking off for the first time with Capt. Boris Sergievsky at the controls, the new plane rose from the waters of Long Island sound, near the mouth of the Housatonic, in eight seconds.

After a flight of ten minutes' duration the plane came down gracefully near the river mouth. Later a second and longer trip was made.

Igor Sikorsky, designer of the plane, and Frederick W. Neilson, president of the company, who watched the flights, expressed satisfaction with the tests.

The plane, built on specifications by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, was planned as America's largest passenger plane with the greatest range. It has four engines, capable of flying 2,500 miles nonstop with a mail load and crew. Two sister ships are being built by Sikorsky. The ship is 76 feet long and its span is 114 feet 2 inches. The gross weight is 38,000 pounds.

For the South American service it will be fitted with 32 passenger seats and its nonstop range, with a full passenger list, 1,000 pounds of mail, and five members of the crew, will be 1,200 miles.

Young Wife Says Husband Treats Her Like Servant

Mrs. Jesse Conway, 1424 Adams street, who was married six years ago when she was 15 years old, yesterday filed suit for separate maintenance from Robert Conway, a traveling salesman. According to the suit, filed by Attorney Norman Becker, Conway treated his wife "like a servant," and only spoke to her to order her about. She asks custody of the one child.

CITY FACES GOOD CHANCE OF FAIR EASTER WEATHER

Cloudy Day Is Forecast; Flowers in Demand.

Those who plan to display Easter finery tomorrow are informed that the chances of favorable weather are a little better than even.

"The day probably will dawn cloudy," said C. A. Donnel, official forecaster, "with the temperature near the freezing mark. During the day, however, there should be increasing warmth, with a maximum temperature in the afternoon around 50."

Rain a Possibility.

It was Mr. Donnel's opinion that cloudy or partly cloudy conditions would prevail through the day. Rain in the afternoon, he added, would be a possibility, although precipitation is unlikely if the wind is from the southwest. For today lower temperatures and rain or snow are forecast.

Among the pre-Easter activities today will be the opening of the annual spring flower show in the Garfield park conservatory. There will be a special display of lilies, pink and blue hyacinths, tulips and narcissi.

Florists reported a good demand for Easter flowers. More than a half ton of lilies, gardenias and daffodils were shipped in yesterday by planes from California. Planes going out carried an equal amount, by weight, of millinery and Easter garments demanded in rush orders from western cities.

Cardinal Officiates.

The period of Lenten solemnity in the churches reached its climax yesterday, when thousands of worshipers attended Good Friday observances. At the Holy Name cathedral, Cardinal Mundelein officiated at the "Tenebrae" darkness] service.

Beginning at noon there was a three hour service in the Chicago Temple under the auspices of the Chicago Church federation. About 5,000 attended.

By a calendar coincidence the observance of the Jewish Feast of the Passover begins this evening. The Passover falls always on the 14th day of the month Nisam in the Hebrew chronology, but as the year is made up of lunar months and contains only 355 days, the date of observance varies under the commonly used calendar.

AUTHOR REVEALS PLOT TO KILL LINDBERGH AFTER FAMOUS FLIGHT

New York, March 30.—(AP)—A purported plot to cause strained relations between the United States and France by slaying Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at the conclusion of his flight across the Atlantic ocean is related in a book by Georg du Parcq, published this week, and titled "Crime Reporter."

Du Parq, a Paris police reporter, writes that the sûreté of Paris received a tip the day after Lindbergh landed. The American embassy was warned, he said, and a cordon of secret service men was thrown about the embassy building.

Two days later, the author relates, two men were arrested, a French apache and an alleged Russian anarchist. The apache is said by Du Parcq to have confessed that he agreed, for a sum of 10,000 francs, to snipe the flyer from the room of the embassy with a specially constructed airgun.

196 FISHERMEN RESCUED FROM FLOATING ICE

LENINGRAD, U. S. S. R., March 30.—(AP)—The icebreaker Truvor today rescued 196 fishermen and 65 horses from an ice pack in the Finnish gulf.

The pack, about one and one-half miles square, broke away from the mainland and carried 250 men toward the open sea, along with 65 horses. Two icebreakers rescued 54 of the fishermen. A dense fog draped the gulf and rescue parties were unable to locate the drifting pack.

Rescue Plane Forced Down.

NOME, Alaska, March 30.—(AP)—The missing Russian rescue plane piloted by F. A. Levanevsky was forced down in a snowstorm 40 miles from Cape Van Karen, Siberia, official advices received here late today said. A safe landing was made. Wireless stations had vainly tried to contact the plane since yesterday afternoon. The plane, carrying Prof. George Yushakoff and Clyde Armistead, a mechanic, left here at noon yesterday for the Bering sea ice floes 350 miles to the northwest to rescue 82 Russians marooned there.

YOUTH SHOT DEAD BY COMPANION AS HE EXAMINES GUN

Lardine Cullato, 18 years old, 6516 South Talman avenue, was shot through the heart and killed last night in a third floor flat at 1056 West Grand avenue.

It was believed at first that he was a murder victim. Later, however, police arrested Arthur Rossi, 17 years old, who lives at the Grand avenue address. Rossi, police said, confessed that he killed Cullato.

Rossi asserted the shooting was accidental while he was showing Cullato a gun. Rossi became panicky, according to his story, and carried Cullato's body out of the flat to the stairway, and then fled.

ANTI-CRUELTY SOCIETY'S PLANS AWAIT RICHES

The Anti-Cruelty society, which is to receive 40 per cent of a $2,235,000 estate left for the benefit of cats and dogs by Mrs. Marion E. McConnell, widow of a Chicago real estate operator, had made no plans for the disposition of the inheritance, John J. Roberts, president of the society, said yesterday. The seven first cousins who contested the will dismissed their action before Judge Harry A. Lewis in the Superior court Thursday. Under the terms of the decree they will divide $284,000.

Mr. Roberts said it was his opinion the amount left the society will not be as great as is thought.

Rockford's Population Shows Loss of 8,000

Rockford, Ill., March 30.—[Special.]—A drop in population here of approximately 8,000 persons since 1930 was estimated today by W. R. Gardner, director of public school attendance, on the basis of a CWA school survey just completed.

MORE CREDIT.

Money loathes idleness. Large accumulations of lendable funds in the past have been followed by business expansion or rising prices. A report showing that banks had a half billion dollars to put to work was the signal five years ago for a fresh upswing in stocks.

At present banks are in a position to increase their loans by 15 billion dollars, thirty times as much as it took to produce a 1929 boom. The danger of the wildest of all speculative sprees with the usual sequel lies in the unprecedented excess credit facilities now at hand.

Bankers are at their wits' ends to find work for this money to do. Commercial borrowers are especially sought after, but in vain. Commercial credit in use is the smallest in years. Frantic to get something out of their funds, the bankers are even loaning at a fraction of one per cent to the government for short intervals.

With many millions of people undernourished, the government last year destroyed food. And with equal consistence now, with a worrisome plethora of credit, the government is preparing to create more credit.

A bill has been introduced in congress providing for the creation of twelve credit banks for industry. The purpose of the new banks is to make loans with maturities up to five years to replenish depleted funds of smaller industries. Capital for these institutions is to be provided by the government out of its profit on devaluing the dollar, although there is a sleight of hand trick which makes it appear that it is really the federal reserve banks which are putting up the money. The latter are to be excused of their obligation to contribute 140 millions to the federal bank deposit insurance fund and to subscribe the identical amount to the credit banks for industry.

It is further provided that the new banks may issue debentures for approximately 700 million dollars. Further funds could be provided by the sale of preferred stock to the world's champion buyer of bank preferred stock—the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The new banks are to work in coöperation with the federal reserve banks under rules set by the federal reserve board.

What the new banking system amounts to will be determined by these regulations and the attitude of the management. Previous efforts of a somewhat similar nature should discourage any high hopes for the new enterprise. Under an amendment to the federal reserve act in 1932 reserve banks were empowered to make loans direct to individuals. Acting under that provision, the New York banks managed to make 14 loans for a little over a million dollars. Two of the borrowers have become bankrupt and difficulties are being experienced in collecting half of the total loaned.

If there are enterprises which require funds which cannot be repaid in less than five years what is needed is new investments of a permanent character. There are tremendous funds awaiting investment in sound businesses and when the prospects for business revival become sufficiently bright new capital investment will be freely made in enterprises offering a promise of success.

If because the capital funds came from revaluing the dollar the government reasons easy come, easy go, borrowers will be found willing to promise to pay back a total of 700 million dollars five years from now. The prospect, therefore, is that the banks will amount to very little or that the money will be put out in unsound loans.

There is a more fundamental objection to the bill. The liquidation of inefficient firms during a depression creates opportunities for the efficient firms to expand their business and so to promote general business recovery. If the new loans are substantial and serve to keep in business submarginal firms, permanent business recovery is likely to be postponed. It was the seed, intermediate and other loans to farmers and the farm board's artificially maintained prices which delayed liquidation of sub-marginal farmers and created much of the present farm problem. Is the farm blunder to be repeated in industry?

UNCLE SAM, A MORAL MORALIST.

One of Mr. Farley's liberal ideas as postmaster general was that a cardinal sin was not contained in newspaper publication of the Irish hospital, or other, sweepstakes winning. Mr. Farley must have been able to unbend thus far without dislocating many vertebrae. He had been active on the New York prize fight commission and Mae West would not be the only one to admit that the commission was no angel. In consequence of Mr. Farley's unbending, newspaper readers learn that Mrs. Margaret Merringer, wife of a New York chef, has won $150,000 to the great joy of the family even if to the possible moral undoing of the rest of the country.

Most of the country is now chasing less reliable things than sweepstake winnings and may not be much impaired by other illusions of wealth in that direction. The government will take a chunk out of the family windfall in taxes. It will be enough to pay the salaries of a group of Brain Trusters and several administrators. The government as a corporate morality does not countenance money getting of this fashion. It is not certain what kind of money making the government does approve. Many people would like to find out. It is estimated that before the Merringers get away from the tax collectors they will have lost $58,300 of their new wealth.

The federal government, moral in its precepts and laws, becomes strictly amoral when the internal revenue department spies a piece of change. That was revealed when the bootleggers were guaranteed protection from the department of justice if they told the tax collector just how much they made by illegal operations, and again when the same government which prohibited the making of home brew taxed the sale of its ingredients. Uncle Sam is a scourge of sin and a partner in the receipts. You can understand why Hollywood thought that this was the time to produce "Alice in Wonderland."

THE NEGLECT OF OUR FOREIGN TRADE.

The administration's bill to give the President extraordinary power to negotiate trade agreements with other nations has passed the house, but is expected to encounter much more serious opposition and delay in the senate. Meanwhile little is being done to stimulate America's foreign trade. Any benefits which farmers and other potential exporters might have received from the devaluation of the dollar have been largely negatived by the imposition of higher costs and restrictions on output through NRA and other governmental agencies, with the result that our exports are not increasing as rapidly as they should to bring about a substantial recovery. Every day brings a new report of further restrictions placed on our exports by foreign nations.

The administration's position is anomalous. It has asked for extraordinary powers without by any means exhausting the powers which it unquestionably has under the constitution. There seems to be pretty general agreement among economists and those engaged in international trade that foreign business will not be restored until there has been a considerable modification of tariffs and quotas here and abroad. If the government has taken steps to negotiate such arrangements on a substantial scale, the facts have been pretty well concealed from congress and the people. No trade treaties of consequence have been submitted to the senate for approval and there is, therefore, no reason to suspect that the senate would reject them if proffered. No general tariff revision has been undertaken, although the party in power is committed by its tradition as well as its platform to tarif changes and can count upon a considerable Republican support for measures calculated to encourage the international exchange of goods.

The basic fact is that we have the land and tools to produce goods which people in other nations want and there are many things produced abroad which we want. The exchange would be mutually profitable. It would go a long way toward the restoration of American prosperity. Our government has talked much but done little to hasten the revival of our export business. As the new French decree aimed at our exports of meat products plainly shows, our government has not taken full advantage of its control over wine imports to force favorable consideration for our exports.

CO-OPERATIVE POLITICS.

After laying out a program for the "complete reorganization of our social structure into a co-operative commonwealth" the Farmer-Labor party of Minnesota approved Gov. Olson for re-election, but at this writing is hesitating over the indorsement of Senator Shipstead, the sole representative of the Farmer-Labor party in congress. The ambitious program of the party for the transformation of the social structure of Minnesota, says a St. Paul dispatch, proposes government ownership and operation of all natural resources, the machinery of production, transportation and communication facilities. It is not reported that government ownership and operation of farms are demanded, although agriculture is the chief natural resource and private farms the chief machinery of production in Minnesota. But the farmer was by no means a forgotten man in this convention. Far from ignoring him in its scheme for a Marxian Utopia, legislation is demanded to insure the farmer's tenure of his land, lower his taxes, and exempt homesteads up to the value of $4,000 from any taxation.

It will be noted, however, by any one who has followed events in Minnesota that the convention was not interested, pending the arrival of the coöperative commonwealth, in conditions which have seemed worthy of immediate attention in any political program for Minnesota. As, for example, the alliance of politics and crime and the singular failure under their approved gubernatorial candidate's administration to deal competently with so flagrant a crime as kidnaping. That failure has thrown a bright light on the notorious Minnesota press gag statute. No doubt these are matters of no concern to architects of a plan to turn all the property and enterprise, except, of course, farming, of Minnesota over to politicians disguised as the state.

ANOTHER PROSPERITY SIGN.

[Logan, Ia., Observer.]

Real facts are revealed by scrutiny.

Recently the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, one of the nation's greatest chain store corporations, issued a statement to the effect that for the four weeks ending Feb. 24, 1934, its sales advanced 5.13 per cent over the corresponding period of 1933.

That sounds fine, doesn't it?

BUT, with the same statement was this revealing fact: The volume of sales was estimated at 377,782 tons this year against 409,632 tons last year. A decrease in the merchandise actually sold of 31,850 tons or 7.78 per cent.

That means what? Only that by reason of higher prices forced by the NRA this chain store outfit sold a much smaller amount of goods for a much higher sum. The volume of business was up 5.13 per cent in dollars. The quantity sold was off 7.78 per cent. The consumer paid the difference in much higher prices for what he bought. The retailer sold less and charged more for it.

If such manipulation of prices to the consumer is the way to create a real prosperity then we're a whiskered angora.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

LOST, STRAYED, OR STOLEN

A lovely, charming lady
Has strangely disappeared;
She was due here on a visit,
But she hasn't yet appeared.

We're offering a big reward
For news about this dame;
We've simply got to get her back
And we're going to do that same.

So we'll pay coin to any one
Who will any tidings bring;
Inquire of every one you meet
If they have seen Miss Spring.

We're afraid that she's been kidnaped,
That's a common thing right now,
And we know a couple of ugly crooks
Who'd steal that girl—and how!

Now one is that Old Man Winter—
Don't ask him, for he lies.
So will his partner, that Jack Frost;
They're both mean, ornery guys.

They've been a-hangin' around these parts
Since the middle of last November,
And neither has done a lick of work
That any one can remember.

We wish the cops would hustle 'round
And hunt both day and night,
And if they run across these crooks
They'd pinch 'em both at sight.

They want to keep Miss Spring away,
And we freely will assert
If she's not seen in a day or two
These birds have done her dirt.

They hate to see this little girl
Come anywhere around;
She makes 'em stop their silly tricks
And clear right out of town.

We've had two messages from her,
And each filled us with glee—
A violet hiding by a brook
And a robin in a tree.

They both said that most any time
We'd probably hear her sing;
So every one turn out and help,
We've got to find Miss Spring.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

A TEST FOR RINGWORM OF THE SCALP.

THERE is a new way of examining the head and other hairy parts of the body for ringworm and some other parasitic diseases. A new idea has grown out of this new method of diagnosis. It is that when the affected person is being examined any kittens, cats, dogs, and other companionate animals be included in the examination.

The method consists in examining the head and other hairy parts by means of ultraviolet light passed through a filter of Wood's glass. When examined in this way any diseased hairs will become fluorescent and will be easily observed. If such hairs be plucked and examined microscopically the parasites that cause the disease will be found in the shaft and on the root.

It is a well known fact that in ringworm of hairy parts, if the hairs are removed by X-rays or otherwise, the cause of the disease goes with it and cure follows—usually with no further treatment. The new suggestion is that the light be turned on any animals that have been in close association with the patient. Since most of the cases of ringworm of the scalp are in children, suspicion attaches to the animals with which children play.

If these animals are put under the light not infrequently fluorescent hairs will be found. It is possible that in some cases the animal has been infected by the child and it is also possible, or more than possible, that in some cases the infection has been passed the other way. Whichever was at fault primarily, if the child is cured and the animal is not, and the close association between the two be continued, the child will eventually have a recurrence of the disease.

It is possible that favus and some other skin diseases as well as ringworm can be conveyed from animals to man. Most of the skin diseases in dogs and cats that are suspected of being contagious to man go by the group name of mange and are due to parasites. The parasite of each of these diseases greatly prefers the dog or the cat, as the case might be, to man and is very loath to quit the greater love for the lesser one. In consequence, there is very little danger in associating with a mangy dog, although there may be esthetic reasons against it. However, occasionally parasites of this group have been known to take up their abode in man. I presume the lesson is to love thy cat as thyself; if the lower animal gets a disease to have it cured.

In the case of ringworm and related infections that cause fluorescent hairs, the disease in the lower animal can be located by the light test in areas where there is as yet no eruption. These fluorescent hairs can cause reinfection of the child. Therefore, the rule should be extended. Not only see that the skin disorders visible in companionate animals are cured, but when making the light test of the affected person, extend it to include his domestic animals, even though they may seem healthy.

TOO CAREFUL FEEDING.

Mrs. J. E. M. writes: Feeding my two children, ages 3 and 1½ years, occupies a good deal of my time and thought. Ever since they were infants I have prepared their food apart from my husband's and mine, according to the latest information I could get on child feeding. Some of my friends have recently been trying to convince me that my children would be greatly benefited by a daily serving of beef broth mixed with tomato juice. What value if any would this mixture have and would you recommend it?

REPLY.

The chances are that you are too careful. The older child would get along better if he ate at the family table and was given considerable leeway. Both of them need both meat and vegetables. Consider egg as a meat.

THEY HAVE SIMPLER NAME.

A. L. M. writes: Will you print a cure for pediculosis? My work takes me to different towns and some places I stay in are not as sanitary as they should be.

REPLY.

Curing pediculosis is very easy. Washing the hair with kerosene will do it. Larkspur is good. There are other efficient remedies. To remove eggs wash the hair with warm vinegar and then use a fine tooth comb. Kerosene kills the adult insect in a few minutes. When the parasite smells the oil he tries to leave the hair and hides in the clothing or anywhere. If he escapes he will try to get back into the hair when the danger has passed. This must be borne in mind in treating the infestation.

At one time I squeezed out a whitish substance with a fetid odor. It lies partly on the surface, there being an opening on the skin which is plugged with a hard substance? How can it be removed? Is there any danger of cancer?

REPLY.

You appear to have a small retention cyst. It is not related to cancer. It can be cut out if that is desirable.

PREFERRED CLAIMS.

Chicago Heights, Ill., March 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Some few months ago a court decision was rendered regarding estates in Probate court, whereby money from unsettled estates held in closed banks was a preferred account. Does this cover all estates, whether the court designated the depositing bank or not? I was told by the bank receiver it was not a preferred account, as the court did not name any particular bank.

J. R.

In the Zuehls receivership case decided by our Appellate court Nov. 21, 1933, opinion No. 36411, it was held that section 2 of the trust companies act in authorizing deposit under court order by an "assignee, receiver, executor, administrator, guardian, conservator or other trustee" is limited to trust companies, that the acceptance of such a deposit by a bank which is not qualified as a trust company is unlawful and that "where a deposit itself is unlawful it constitutes a trust and not a general deposit, and upon insolvency of the bank a preferred claim will be allowed." The court further said that in case of acceptance by a bank qualified as a trust company "such bank accepts the deposit as a trust company and not as a bank."

The holding does not cover deposits by parents or relatives who are not acting in one of the official capacities above listed. The holding cannot be considered final until a point has been passed upon by the Supreme court, but the fact that the Appellate court judges acting on the case have agreed with the trial court judge may be taken as significant of the probable holding of the Supreme court.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—First details of the performance of the D. H. 86 biplane, the extraordinary British four motored air liner that recently completed its air ministry tests at Martlesham Heath, are now available.

So far these details have been kept a secret. So has the fact that the plane was built specially to comply with conditions laid down by the Australian government for the air fleet it proposes to use for communication with Singapore. This is the last link in the England-Australia trunk line. A tender for the service has been submitted to the commonwealth government by Quantas Empire Airways, an associate of Imperial Airways, and the plane offered is the new De Haviland.

Critics of British civil aviation have for a long time declared that British airplanes are too slow. This new biplane, however, is far and away ahead of anything yet produced in America.

Other high speed British air liners are being constructed. A new struggle for supremacy is beginning.

The conditions of tender were only issued in September. The D. H. 86 then existed only as a drawing. Work was started immediately. The builders were told the objective in confidence. They worked day and night and on Jan. 14 the plane was ready.

The first flight took place at Stag-lane airdrome. There was a sigh of relief when H. S. Broad, the chief test pilot, brought the great liner down. No airplane of comparable size had hitherto been designed and built in so short a time. Relief turned to delight when the performance figures became known.

The biplane has a speed of 170 miles an hour at a height of 1,000 feet. Its cruising speed, quoted to conform with the Australian contract terms of 85 per cent of maximum speed, is over 145 miles an hour. It can climb in one minute to 1,200 feet, in two minutes to 2,300 feet, and in three minutes to 3,250 feet. Its ceiling is 19,000 feet.

The plane's motors are each 200 horse power. On any three motors the plane's ceiling is 15,000 feet. With two engines on one side cut out it can fly at a height of 3,600 feet. Its power reserve is such that a forced landing away from an airdrome is an extremely unlikely happening.

It carries the same number of passengers as the twin motored air liners placed in service in the United States within the last few months at practically the same speed. But it uses only just over half the horse power and costs between one-third and one-half less.

The air liner's safety margin is higher because of the four motored power plant, and its landing speed is lower.

POSTAL DEFICITS AND POSTAL RATES.

Chicago, March 27.—An article in this morning's TRIBUNE states that Postmaster General Farley will attempt to balance the postal budget again at the expense of the postal employés. If the administration and Mr. Farley were or are really in earnest about balancing the budget, there is only one way it can be accomplished. That is to adjust the rate of postage on second class and fourth class matter, which includes newspapers, magazines and publications of all sorts, and parcel post, so that they will at least pay for the handling, which certainly isn't done now.

Of course I realize that the big publication interests and big mail order houses and other large users of second class and parcel post are not going to let anything like that happen, not as long as there is anything political power can do to stop it.

There is another major problem to be adjusted. That is the question of franked mail. As long as this practice is permitted the balancing is going to be a pretty precarious stunt. Franked mail is all government mail handled free and charged to the expense of the postoffice department. J. C. GRAHAM.

MR. BORAH'S SPEECH.

Chicago, March 28.—In reading this morning's TRIBUNE I note the following statements made by Senator William E. Borah in his speech over the radio March 22:

"The purchasing power is steadily diminishing instead of decreasing."

One has only to think of the increased production of the automobile industry, the textile industries, the steel industry and countless others to realize how the purchasing power has increased. These industries would not be increasing their production if they did not have the orders. They learned above overproduction from the Republicans.

He also stated in his speech, "You may impose upon a tired, worried and distressed people almost any policy for a time."

Who made the people tired, worried and distressed? Surely it hasn't been the policies of President Roosevelt since he has been in office! It seems to me it was the policies of a group of Senator Borah's own kind over a period of years that made the people tired, worried and distressed.

His speech was so flimsy you could tear it to pieces. DORA SCHOOLER.

MOTHER'S DAY.

Chicago, March 23.—We are only writing a few lines to tell you that we, the children of the Kosciuszko school, think that it would be a very good idea if Mother's day would be celebrated about a week before Easter. This is because our mothers work so hard trying to get us all dressed up for Easter and also with the house cleaning. We ourselves are trying to help with the cleaning and we even obey more.

IRENE PURALEWSKI.

THE PARENTAL SCHOOL.

Chicago, March 24.—So they recommended closing the Parental school! Boys and girls come from overcrowded homes where there are no parents, only one overburdened parent, one or two parents physically or mentally unfit, homes of poverty, sickness, disease, illiteracy, drunkenness, idiocy, where children are ill fed, ill clothed, seldom washed, never taught, sent out to go to schools where they do not appear, to roam the streets, form poor associations, sleep in vacant houses. If eventually they are fortunate enough to find their way through the court to the Parental school they are given a bath, clean clothes, sufficient meals of clean food, put to bed, for some it is the first time, in clean comfortable beds. They attend classes, often making remarkable progress, have plenty of clean, healthy play, and establish a good routine. They leave the Parental school improved in health, steadier in nerves, advanced in school work, clean and better equipped to handle the problems which arise in the home environment.

They advocate using the Montefiore and Moseley schools as truant schools—leaving the children in the home which is failing in its duty—paying for carfare and lunches for children who come from untold distances, some changing cars many times. These schools are being used now as truant schools, and children are now truant from the truant schools—and yet they advocate closing the Parental school! HAZEL SMITH KERR.

TENNESSEE VALLEY CUSTOMS.

Gilbertville, Ky., March 23.—I am a Tennessee valley farm woman. I live on a farm two miles from the river in the lower valley, not far from the proposed Aurora dam site.

Mr. Lilienthal has not quite gotten to us yet with his electric ranges. The Aurora power dam is receiving much discussion, but it has not been started yet.

The Tennessee valley farm woman hates debt worse than the devil, and it will not be she who borrows money to buy an electric stove. She has never had any difficulty cooking the food her husband provided. The food grows on the farm, the cooking utensils are simple, and if the lower Tennessee valley farm woman had an electric stove in her kitchen she would probably go out and gather sticks from the woods near by, build a fire in the yard, and cook after the same fashion of her great-grandmother. LYDA TRAVIS.

FIND EVIDENCE THAT DEMOCRAT TIDE IS EBBING

BY PARKE BROWN.

County Judge Jarecki and the election board issued special instructions to judges and clerks of election yesterday, instructions dwelling particularly on the question of the right of the voter to change parties in the primary on April 10.

Behind that simple action lies a real story—the story of some 250,000 Cook county Republicans who joined in the stampede to the Democratic party in 1932. They had the right to change parties in the primary that year. Now many of them want to change back again. And they can't. The required two calendar years have not elapsed between the two primaries.

More than local significance is attached to this development. Some of the experts say it may be interpreted on a national scale. They go so far as to contend that it is definite proof of the ebb of the tidal wave that swept Franklin D. Roosevelt into the White House.

Party Change a Live Question.

The ruling of the election authorities is not new law. It is consistent with rulings on the same point made for the last quarter of a century. But the principal reason for the special, carefully detailed instructions at this time was that the election board and other authorities were being swamped with calls on the question of party change.

The rush of inquiries of this sort at the city hall, the county building, the political headquarters and the offices of newspapers has been unprecedented. Information that the Democrat of two years ago is a Democrat this year frequently has evoked indignation. The conclusion was that the angry ones were Republicans until 1932.

These are the dates involved. The primary of 1930 was on April 8. The primary of 1932 fell on April 12, more than two years later. But the period between April 12, 1932, and April 10, 1934, is two days less than two calendar years. The board's position that there can be no party switching this time has been sustained by Judge John P. Barnes of the United States District court.

What the Instructions Are.

The instructions now sent to the polls officials of every precinct under the jurisdiction of the election board—and the same rule concerning changing of parties will be observed throughout the county—were explicit interpretations of the general primary act.

"No person," the instructions say, "shall be entitled to vote a Democratic or a Republican primary ballot—

"1. Unless he declares his party affiliations as required by the general primary act.

"2. Who shall have signed the petition for nomination of a candidate of any party with which he does not affiliate when such candidate is to be voted for at the primary; or

"3. Who shall have signed the nominating papers [petition] of an independent candidate for any office for which office candidates for nomination are to be voted for at such primary; or

"4. If he shall have voted at a primary of another political party within a period of two years next preceding the primary of April 10, 1934."

Restrictions on Polls Officials.

The instructions then inform the judges and clerks that a primary voter who wishes to do so may vote on propositions alone without disclosing his party affiliations. Then they warn against a judge's asking a question concerning party affiliations "in a manner that will suggest to such voter the party primary ballot which the judge might appear anxious to have the voter cast."

"Don't say, 'Do you want a Democratic ballot?'

"Don't say, 'Do you want a Republican ballot?'

"Don't say, 'You belong to the Democratic party, don't you?'

"Don't say, 'You belong to the Republican party, don't you?'

"'To which political party do you belong?'

CHARGE LAWYER, 2 OTHERS WITH A MURDER PLOT

Boston, Mass., March 30.—(AP)—Charged with conspiracy to kill Frank W. Vaughn, retired Medford lether manufacturer, at his Daytona, Fla., winter home, three men, one of them his son-in-law, were held today in $5,000 bail each for hearing April 30.

Marshall L. Cross, 24, Boston lawyer and husband of Vaughn's daughter, Mabel; Ernest W. Pollister, 19, and Thomas Karydis, 27, both of Lynn, all pleaded not guilty in Municipal court to the conspiracy charges.

Cross allegedly paid Pollister $330 to go to Florida to kill Vaughn in what was to have been a fake holdup. Karydis, police said, told them he was asked by Cross to trail the latter's wife to Florida. Karydis declined the assignment because he was on parole from a reformatory, he was quoted as having told police, but arranged for a meeting between Cross and Pollister that resulted in the latter's participation in the reputed plot.

Vaughn and his daughter, who has not been living with her husband, are in Florida. The April 30 date was set for the hearing after the court was told that Vaughn would not come north for several weeks.

Since his arrest yesterday, Cross, who was an honor student at Boston University Law school, has protested his innocence. He is the son of a Northfield, Vt., quarry operator.

Police said Cross hoped to be reconciled with his wife after her father was out of the way, according to the stories told by Pollister and Karydis.

RELIEF WORKER CHARGED WITH FRAUD VANISHES

Fails to Appear in Court.

Hector Pena, 35 years old, former head checker at the Lawndale station of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, who is under indictment on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the state, became a fugitive from justice yesterday when he failed to appear in the Felony court on a charge of embezzlement growing out of his alleged relief frauds.

Pena's $5,000 bond was forfeited by Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden and a bench warant for his arrest was issued. Prosecutors, representing the relief commission, said Pena apparently had fled when he learned that Martin A. Anklan, first assistant accountant for the relief commission, who confessed to taking part in the forging and cashing of relief orders, would appear to testify against him.

Confession from Auditor.

Anklan, who was seized on Thursday after investigators had begun an audit of the accounts of the Lawndale station, which were under his supervision, confessed that he had conspired with Pena, Matthew Mertz, 29 years old, formerly head clerk at the Lawndale station, and Mrs. Mary Bartuska, 46 years old, owner of a grocery at 2268 South St. Louis avenue, to defraud the relief agency. Their activities are believed to have netted them more than $15,000 in a two year period.

Both Mrs. Bartuska and Mertz were held to the grand jury on charges of conspiracy on Thursday. Anklan has not yet been brought to trial, pending the completion of the audit of his books, which will not be completed for another week.

Hired After Examinations.

An investigation of the relief commission records yesterday disclosed that both Pena and Mertz were hired by relief officials after they had satisfactorily passed an examination for social service work. Anklan was once employed by the original governor's emergency relief commission, which was organized in 1930. When the old organization was taken over by the present emergency relief commission he was employed by the new organization.

In the Women's court yesterday Mrs. Agnes Zito, 40 years old, 2026 West Harrison street, was fined $50 by Municipal Judge Harold P. O'Connell on charges of selling liquor without a license. The police testified that she had been selling liquor to relief clients and accepting groceries and canned goods from them in payment. More than 300 cans of vegetables and fruits were found in her home, the police asserted.

GANG WAR RAGES IN SCHOOL; FIND PUPIL WITH GUN

Police, school officials and Negro civic leaders yesterday were investigating a gang war between colored pupils of Englewood and Hyde Park High schools. Some of the pupils, it was charged, have been carrying guns and razors to classes, with several instances reported in which pupils have been seriously wounded.

Disclosure of the factional fight came in the court of Judge Lambert K. Hayes when Daniel F. O'Hearn, principal of Englewood High school, testified against a pupil charged with carrying a concealed weapon. He is Joseph McCafferty, 19 years old, 4805 Forrestville avenue. He was arrested in a candy store near the school while carrying a pistol in a book. The interior of the book had been carved out to make a place for the weapon.

O'Hearn told of one fight last week in which sixty pupils invaded the building and one boy was severely slashed with a razor. He termed the McCafferty boy a trouble maker, who has been a truant and a member of one of the gangs. Board of education officials withheld comment pending further investigation.

POLICE SEIZE 9 AS SHOPLIFTING RING MEMBERS

Nine men and women were arrested yesterday and held as members of a shoplifting gang which has preyed upon city and suburban department stores and extended its activities as far as Milwaukee. In the homes of various of the suspects police found goods valued at $500.

The nine arrests were brought about when police, acting upon the information of a special agent of an Oak Park store who recognized the pair as alleged shoplifters, seized Miss Mary Stalf, 35 years old, 3900 West 66th place, and Louis Vikocel, same address. They are said to have implicated the others, all of whom are reported to have police records.

The other prisoners are Frank Cup, 2214 West 51st street; his wife, 37 years old, Alice; Mrs. Mary Pok, 41 years old, 5158 South Lincoln street; Gus Androvic, 2214 West 51st street; his brother, John, 2129 West 49th street; Mrs. Mary Tetryolek, 2238 West 50th street, and Robert Vilin, 5353 South Talman avenue. Police said Vilin was the "fence" for the rest of the gang.

JAILED ON CHECK CHARGE.

Lewis Benson, 47 years old, 5544 Magnolia avenue was sentenced yesterday to three months in the Bridewell on a charge that he cashed a number of worthless checks for small amounts while posing as an employé of a newspaper.

SEE DILLINGER'S HAND IN NAVAL YARD ROBBERY

Norfolk, Va., March 30.—(AP)—Bandits who struck Lieut. T. C. Edrington, S. G., U. S. N. yard crafts pay officer at the Norfolk navy yard and locked him in a vault for several hours last night, escaped with approximately $3,000 of government money, it was learned today.

Lieut. Edrington was in the vault counting his funds yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock when he was struck over the head by an unidentified intruder, naval officers said. The man, or men, then swept up all cash in sight, locked the door with the officer inside and escaped.

The robbery coincided with reports that John Dillinger, midwestern jail breaker, had been in Virginia. Police were instructed to be on the lookout for a car bearing an Illinois license, said to have been operated by Dillinger.

Lieut. Edrington was found by Chief Machinist Thomas and was released. When Lieut. Edrington failed to return home at the usual time last night his wife became alarmed and called the yard. Thomas went to Lieut. Edrington's office, saw the vault closed and started a search elsewhere. Later he returned to the pay office and saw a slip of paper sticking from under the vault door. It was the combination of the safe. Chief Pay Clerk Palmer arrived about this time and opened the safe.

DILLINGER QUIZ "NOT NEAR END," LUTZ DECLARES

Attorney General Philip Lutz Jr. of Indiana announced yesterday that, contrary to common belief, the grand jury at Crown Point is not near completion of its investigation of the jail break of John Dillinger on March 3, and other related and partly related facts.

"The investigation is just beginning," he declared.

He declined to discuss the probe further, adding developments would be made known in due time at Crown Point.

Dillinger, who fled while awaiting trial for the murder of Patrick O'Malley, an East Chicago policeman, is still sought over the country. One report had it he was again in the vicinity of Tucson, Ariz., where he was arrested in January, seeking to recover a large sum of money he secreted there.

ELMORE ASSAILS CANAL CONTRACT DELAYS BY PWA

Withdrawn Nash Bid Inspires Attack.

The attitude of the federal administration which forced Nash Brothers, construction contractors, to withdraw their low bid for the construction of a downtown sewer project for the Sanitary district was assailed yesterday by Trustee Howard W. Elmore, Republican member of the district board.

The construction firm announced the surrender of its contract on Thursday, stating in a letter to the Sanitary district commissioners that this action was the result of delays in the approval of the contract by Public Works Administrator Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior. Action on the contract had been pending since Feb. 8. Nash Brothers had been awarded the contract on a low bid of $1,124,024, subject to approval of the federal public works administration.

Points to Added Costs.

The government's attitude, which already has held up work on the sewer for six weeks and may mean another month's delay, blocks the purposes of the emergency public works act and is likely to mean increased costs to the taxpayers, Mr. Elmore charged.

"Nearly 600 unemployed men, who would have been given work directly or indirectly by the Nash contract, are kept from jobs because political grievancer are being avenged," Mr. Elmore said. "Mr. Ickes recently criticised the Sanitary district trustees for delaying action on these projects, and now he has held up this job six weeks and there will be at least another month's delay before work can get started.

"Nash Brothers is an old, reputable and reliable concern and it offered to do the work nearly 15 per cent lower than the next bid submitted. If the contracts are let to the next lowest bidder, it will mean an increase of $158,141 in the taxpayers' bill, and if new bids are sought it will mean that the unemployed, supposed to be aided by the federal program, will be without help for another month. And all of this is because of purely political maneuvering."

Doubtful on Next Move.

Public works administration officials in charge of work financed with federal aid, said yesterday that it is not known whether the contract surrendered by Nash Brothers will go to the Underground Construction company, the next low bidder, or a call issued for new bids. The decision rests with PWA heads in Washington, they said.

Elmore declared that he will fight for a new call for bids. "Such action may mean delay, but it will also mean that the taxpayers may not be forced to pay an extra $150,000 for the contract," he said. "There is at least a possibility that another contractor may approach the low estimate offered by Nash Brothers."

IDENTIFY SLAIN GUNMAN.

The body of a gunman slain Thursday night during an attempted holdup of an Indiana Harbor store was identified by police yesterday as that of Kenneth Johnston, 26 years old, 3508 Main street, Indiana Harbor. Johnston was shot to death by George Rozos, 60 years old in Rozos' store.

Alleged Bandit Who Got Tired Held to Grand Jury

Paul Dewpen, 22 years old, of 1129 South Ashland avenue, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 yesterday on a charge of robbery. According to the testimony, Dewpen held up a collector for the Illinois Bell Telephone company last Tuesday and made off with a sack containing $110 in nickels, dimes, and quarters. But the bag of money was so heavy that Dewpen stopped a block away to rest. Policemen, who trailed him through the snow, caught him there.

Hold 3 Youths in Theft of Steam Shovel Parts

The theft of parts from a steam shovel was charged yesterday in complaints against three youths who will be arraigned before Police Magistrate Carl J. Carlson in Blue Island today. The defendants are Joseph Orlik, 20 years old, 5028 South Damen avenue; Steve Sanyat, 22 years old, 2112 West 51st place, and Paul Hepka, 4959 West 50th street. After their arrest in the yard of the Illinois Brick company in Blue Island, the yard superintendent identified articles found in Orlik's truck as having been stolen from the company's steam shovel.

CHARGE BRIBERY IN CITY SELLING OF POWER PLANT

U. S. Ownership Urged by Senator Norris.

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(AP)—A new proposal for government ownership of power plants came from Senator Norris of Nebraska today at the same time the trade commission was receiving fresh testimony that public officials had been bribed by a power company.

The Nebraska senator said public ownership appeared to be the only ray of hope for combatting "the universality of activities of the power trust that exists in nearly every locality in the United States."

"Regulations will not cure the evil," he said. "We have tried that long enough to know that the power trust regulates the regulators."

A. M. McDermott, an examiner for the commission, testified that the Paris, Tenn., municipal power plant had been bought by the Kentucky-Tennessee Light and Power company through the bribery of George L. Fryer, the Paris city attorney. The Kentucky-Tennessee company is a subsidiary of the Associated Gas and Electric company.

District Court Overruled.

A District court decision which reported Fryer had been bribed was later overruled on the ground that the city had waited too long about seeking redress on the sale contract. The court said it did not consider the other questions involved.

In a statement in New York the Associated Gas and Electric company pointed to the decision as showing that the "charge of fraud was not sustained." It said the negotiations were conducted by a man, not an employé of the company, who bought the plant and resold it to the Kentucky-Tennessee company.

Norris was discussing testimony given the trade commission yesterday that State Senator Warren T. Thayer of New York has asked Associated Gas and Electric company for election expenses and expressed the hope that his work "during the past session was satisfactory to your company."

Thayer Welcomes Inquiry.

At his home at Chateugay, N. Y., Thayer said he would welcome any investigation.

In Albany there was talk of a legislative investigation. The Albany Evening News said State Senator John J. McNaboe of New York City planned to seek impeachment proceedings against Thayer. Norris said he hoped the trade commission would summon Thayer to Washington.

Another statement from Associated Gas and Electric said there was nothing secret or sinister about the payments one of its subsidiaries had made to Thayer, but that he had sold control of a small electric company to the subsidiary with the contractural agreement that the company had good franchises. It added that one of these franchises had expired and he sought to secure a new one for the company.

In its study of the Paris, Tenn., transaction, the commission also was told that the Kentucky-Tennessee company had set up severe competition in the ice business against a city councilman who opposed sale of the city's light plant.

TRAIN-AUTO CRASH IS FATAL.

East St. Louis, Ill., March 30.—(AP)—Reginald H. Coley, 34, agent for the St Louis Live Stock exchange, died here today as a result of injuries suffered yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding collided with an Illinois Terminal Railroad company train.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: What Would You Do?

AUTHOR BACK IN U. S. AFTER VISITING WITH EX-KAISER WILHELM

New York, March 30.—[Special.]—Poultney Bigelow, author and journalist and for more than half a century a close friend and confidant of former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, was among the passengers arriving today aboard the Bremen of the North German Lloyd line.

Mr. Bigelow returned to his home at Malden-on-Hudson after visiting the former German emperor at his retreat in Doorn, Holland, and making a 5,000 mile tour of Germany.

The former German ruler is well and in excellent spirits, and takes an active interest in world affairs, Mr. Bigelow said. The writer went on several wood chopping excursions with him in the forests at Doorn and talked with him of old times and new events.

The ex-kaiser, Mr. Bigelow said, "sent his best regards to President Roosevelt but I won't be able to deliver the message in person at Washington as I haven't the railroad fare." The former emperor was grateful to the President for receiving his two grandsons on their visit here, Mr. Bigelow said. President Hoover, he added, would not receive them.

ACCUSE BOARD OF NEGLIGENCE IN BOY'S DEATH

Negligence on the part of the Cook county bureau of public welfare was charged yesterday at an investigation into the death of Raymond Kotrba, 3 years old, of 2008 South Allport avenue, from the effects of a poisonous rubbing lotion. The charge was made by James Benes of 1833 South Throop street, uncle of the baby. He said the bureau was tardy in sending medical aid after it had been notified the child was dangerously ill.

The child was stricken in his home Thursday afternoon. The father notified the field service office of the bureau at 1655 Blue Island avenue and a county physician was ordered to go to the home. Early yesterday the child's condition grew worse and he was rushed to the hospital, where he died at 5 a. m.

Benes complained that the physician, Dr. Theresa Felicetti, did not arrive at the Kotrba home until five hours after the bureau had been notified. Fred Goetz, district supervisor for the bureau, said the child's father neglected to make clear the seriousness of the boy's condition. Dr. Felicetti, who has offices at 947 Taylor street, declared she received the message about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and reached the Kotrba home fifteen minutes later.

FIND LINCOLN 1860 CAMPAIGN BOOK IN GERMAN, LONG LOST

Springfield, Ill., March 30.—(AP)—A book that helped make Abraham Lincoln President has been discovered after 74 years.

It is a biography, published in Chicago in German for distribution in the campaign of 1860. The book was added today to the Illinois Historical library, Secretary Paul M. Angle announced, by purchase from a Chicago dealer in rare books.

Hitherto, he said, it has not been listed in any library.

"A number of campaign biographies are in existence and bring high prices, but this one is unique," Angle declared.

CANADIANS ASK LENIENCY FOR U. S. FUGITIVE

JASPER, Alta., March 30.—(AP)—Jasper citizens signed petitions today asking Prime Minister Bennett of Canada and President Roosevelt for leniency in dealing with the case of James Fahey, held in jail at Edmonton on the charge that he is a fugitive from the Leavenworth penitentiary in Kansas. Royal Canadian Mounted police officials alleged that Fahey, as Frank Grigware, escaped from the American prison in 1910. He had been sentenced on a charge of armed mail train robbery.

Two of Fahey's three children, Louise, 13, and Maxine, 9, were busy with their school examinations. They were not told their father was a prisoner. Mrs. Fahey is staying in Edmonton with friends. She reaffirmed her belief in Fahey, whom she married in 1915.

The Edmonton Bulletin, in a copyrighted story tonight, said Fahey had given legal advisers a signed statement claiming he is innocent of the charge of mail robbery. He admitted that he was Grigware.

Coroner Orders Autopsy on Child Fever Victim

A chemical analysis of the vital organs of Glen W. Lawrence, 7 years old, 4024 Nelson street, who died Thursday, 40 minutes after his nurse administered a general stimulant, was ordered yesterday by the coroner's physician. The boy had been ill with scarlet fever. Dr. Haldor Carlsen, 5148 Montrose avenue, physician in the case, prescribed a 10 per cent solution of atropine sulphate. Miss Lillian Thompson, 1040 Wesley avenue, Evanston, a nurse, applied two drops of the solution to each of the patient's nostrils. Violent convulsions followed and half an hour later the child was dead. An analysis is to be made of the medicine used.

D. Bloom, Freight Trafic Manager, Dies Suddenly

Daniel Bloom, 48 years old, 137 South 13th avenue, Maywood, died suddenly of a heart attack last night while at 12th avenue and St. Charles road, in the suburb. He was traffic manager of the Trans-Continental Freight company, 53 West Jackson street. Surviving Mr. Bloom is his mother, Mrs. Mary Bloom.

Blinded by Smoke, Dashes Into Street; Killed by Car

Dayton, O., March 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Emma Ahlers, 73, was cooking supper tonight when smoke rolled from the stove into her face. Choking and half blinded, she dashed into the street. An automobile struck her and she died two hours later in a hospital.

Henry T. Parker, Boston Drama, Music Critic, Dies

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of those little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

5 CHILDREN ARE KILLED BY AUTOS; 1934 TOLL IS 303

Two Sisters Run Down on Way from Church.

Five children were killed in automobile accidents yesterday and a sixth was probably fatally hurt. In addition a young woman and a man were killed in separate accidents involving hit and run cars and another man died of injuries suffered from a hit and run machine. Also a 16 year old girl died of injuries received in an auto crash a week ago.

These nine deaths increased the county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 303.

George Rigg, 3 years old, a son of Edgar B. Rigg, superintendent of the Gambrinus Brewing company, was fatally injured in front of his home at 334 South Clarence avenue, Oak Park, by a truck driven by Samuel Pusateri, 1129 Marengo avenue, Forest Park. The boy died in the Oak Park hospital.

Girl, 4, Is Victim.

Mary Thompson, 4 years old, 7750 Ada street, was run down in front of her home by a truck operated by Angelo Kavooros, 18, of 8206 South Racine avenue. She died in Augustana hospital.

William Horky Jr., 6 years old, 2855 South Crawford avenue, son of Policeman William Horky of the Racine avenue station, was killed instantly at 30th street and Crawford avenue by a truck driven by George Simek, 24, of 3246 South Springfield avenue.

John Didoni, 13 years old, 308 West 23d place, was killed yesterday when he fell from the tailboard of a truck on which he was stealing a ride. The accident occurred at 2342 Princeton avenue. The driver was Tony Areddio, [illegible] West 24th street.

Bernadine Childress, 7 years old, 4329 St. Lawrence avenue, colored, died last night in the Provident hospital of injuries incurred earlier in the day when she was struck by a car driven by Joseph Abrams, 17, 6058 South Racine avenue, in front of her home.

Truck Kills Girl, 23.

Miss Madeline Pankow, 23 years old, was killed and her sister Freda, 17 years old, was seriously injured last night when they were struck at Archer avenue and Cliff street, Willow Springs, not far from their home, by a truck. The driver fled after the accident without halting.

The girls were walking home from church services when the truck, going southwest, swerved from the pavement and struck them. Madeline died soon after reaching the office of Dr. R. M. Baker in Willow Springs.

James St. Lawrence, 911 West 61st street, who was following the truck, told the highway police that the driver appeared from his erratic course to be intoxicated. He added that the large vehicle had struck his car and that he was pursuing it with the intention of causing the driver's arrest. He halted to pick up the girls.

Auto Hits Safety Island.

The 16 year old girl who died was Mildred Mengrelli, 860 Orleans street. She was injured with several other persons when their car crashed into a safety island on the Ogden avenue-Goose Island bridge over Division street. She died yesterday in the Henrotin hospital.

A man believed to be Anton Bernardo, 35 years old, address unknown, was found dead last night in Lawndale avenue, near the drainage canal, in Summit. He had evidently been struck by a hit and run car.

John Clazio, 80 years old, 2347 Canal street, Blue Island, died last night in St. Francis hospital, Blue Island, of injuries suffered during the afternoon when he was struck by a hit and run automobile at Rexford avenue and Canal street, Blue Island.

Miss Catharine Noyes Engaged to R. D. Shaw

Announcement No Surprise to Their Friends.

BY JUDITH CASS.

NOT by the wildest stretch of imagination could the engagement we are announcing this morning be said to be a surprise to any one who knows lovely "Katie" Noyes and that nice young "Dick" Shaw who has been her most devoted beau for some time, but it's an announcement of great interest, nevertheless.

Both young people are so popular with their many friends that they will be overwhelmed with good wishes—and he with congratulations—this Easter week-end. The formal announcement which reads "Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Paul Noyes announce the engagement of their daughter, Catharine, to Roger Dustin Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Wilkinson Shaw of Winnetka," is being made at this time because young Mr. Shaw is here for a visit from Missouri where he is learning the ranching and farming business.

Miss Noyes, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noyes, went to the Girls' Latin school and then to Miss Walker's at Simsbury, Conn. She was graduated from Vassar in 1931 and she made her debut while she was in college in the Christmas holiday season of 1928. She is a member of the Junior league and one of its most capable and active members. Barbara King, who was one of the assistants at Miss Noyes' debut reception at the Fortnightly and has been one of her best friends since kindergarten days, will become her sister-in-law when Miss Noyes and Dick Shaw are married, for Barbara King and John Irving Shaw, the Arch Shaws' other son—they have no daughters—were married in August, 1931.

Dick Shaw prepared for college at the Milton academy and then went to Harvard where he finished with the class of 1930. His parents are motoring home from Chandler, Ariz., where they have been spending the winter—incidentally they entertained their very good friend, ex-President Hoover, there recently—and they are expected to arrive in Winnetka some time next week.

Easter Bazar at Lake Forest.

For Lake Forest mothers who must give due attention to bunnies, painted eggs, and soft fuzzy chicks, the Easter problem is answered every year by the Church of the Holy Spirit. According to custom the church guild will hold its annual Easter bazar today in the parish house, with Mrs. H. Foster Straw Jr. the master of ceremonies.

Flowers and potted plants will give the bazar a garden fair flavor, and then there will be hundreds of eggs gay with red and yellow, green and blue designs, cakes and cookies, the traditional Lake Forest Easter dessert, and knickknacks.

Mrs. Stuart A. Prosser, Mrs. Charles Garland, and Mrs. Frank Priebe have been at work for days painting the eggs. Mrs. Stanley Morrill has rounded up enough cakes for just about every Lake Forest household, and Mrs. George D. McLaughlin has assembled the novelties. Mrs. Benjamin F. Bryan is the candy chairman, and Mrs. Taylor Strawn and Mrs. Franklin G. Clement are co-chairmen of the flower pot division.

Kenwood Club Holds Large Party Today.

Easter joy will be the theme of the large spring party . . . a fashion show and tea this afternoon and a supper dance this evening . . . the members of the Kenwood Social Service club are to have today at the Drake hotel. An annual affair, it is for the support of one of the important stations of Infant Welfare.

Before the evening party the Carl Defebaughs, the Lyle Harpers, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson B. Utley, and the Philip Copenhavers will entertain at dinner at their south side homes.

Mrs. Willson Killough and Mrs. William S. Hubbard have worked together for weeks as co-chairmen of the fashion show, tea, and supper dance. Modeling the smartest in spring apparel this afternoon will be Mrs. Albert Cummins, Mrs. Kimball Burr, Mrs. Kenneth MacLellan, Mrs. Faris Chesley, Mrs. Copenhaver, Miss Alice Cooke, Miss Varyl Cummings, Miss Helen Dodd and her twin sister, Lois, Miss Lorraine Donkle, Miss Virginia Dorwart, Miss Margaret Goes, Miss Ella Jane McKillip, Miss Betty Pattersen, and Mrs. Walter Scott Trude Jr. Mrs. George B. Cross is the club president this year.

Closing Conference of Alliance Francaise.

The closing conference of the season will be given in the clubrooms of the Alliance Française at noon today by M. Jean Strauss, French vice consul,

Church Marks a Century of Easter Services

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicago's first Easter service was held just 100 years ago. On the morning of March 30, 1834, a little knot of people made their way to the tiny cabin church of St. Mary's near the Chicago river where Father John Mary Irenaeus St. Cyr was to offer the Easter mass. But now, after 100 years, what a contrast to Father St. Cyr's little group may be observed.

Tomorrow's Easter in Chicago will call hundreds of thousands to worship at shrines dedicated to the empty tomb. Finery has replaced homespun and grand choruses the plaintive notes of singers in the humble wooden church. But the constancy of Easter as witnessed by Chicago's first century is now in the triumph which assures the faithful that certain things do not really change.

The first St. Mary's church was an edifice 36 feet long, 24 feet wide and 12 feet high. It was not so much smaller than the temple that Isaiah knew in Jerusalem at that, but the little church on its borrowed canal lot was enough to carry on the sacred mysteries. Contrasted with skyscraper churches, tall steeples and limestone walls, the old frame church was a poor place, but the old shack, costing a half bushel of half dollars, was a glorious shrine for the boy priest, Father St. Cyr, as he offered his first Easter mass a century ago yesterday.

Tomorrow morning at 3 o'clock in the modern St. Mary's—still an unpretentious church as compared with Holy Name cathedral, or Fourth Presbyterian, or St. Thomas the Apostle—the missa aurora will mark the 100th Chicago Easter celebration. This will be followed by hourly masses from 6 until noon. The world famous Paulist choristers will sing the accompaniment to the noon mass.

Another contrast with Chicago's first Easter will be the great Sunrise Easter service in Soldier's field. This service, conducted principally by Protestant young people of the city, will probably call together what leaders estimate will be the largest throng ever gathered together in Chicago under Protestant auspices. Last year, the young people conducted the first outdoor sunrise service ever held in Chicago. It was conducted in the court of the hall of science at A Century of Progress and attracted about 20,000 worshippers. The second sunrise service will be called tomorrow at 6:30 o'clock.

In addition to the great Easter services scheduled for churches of every denomination, the various Knight Templar commanderies of the city plan Masonic services tomorrow afternoon. Among these, is the service under auspices of Columbia commandery, No. 63, to be held at the Church of the Epiphany, Ashland avenue and Adams street. The Rev. Canon David E. Gibson, pastor of the Cathedral shelter, will preach the sermon and the shelter choir of 75 voices will sing.

IT was on Good Friday, at breakfast. Mrs. William Grant Cook, addressing her family, said:

Confusion—Puns—Disappointment—Restaurant.

Nine year old Gordon said he knew.

"It's because of the Friday who was so good to Robinson Crusoe," he explained.

FROM the Buffalo Bulletin, Buffalo, Wyo. (relayed by W. P. Lukens):

"Mrs. Edward Burnett has returned from a most enjoyable two months' visit at her home in Rockford, Ill. She noted many marvelous changes in Rockford since leaving there, notable especially being the absence of many old friends."

BARNES McLEHMANN relays W. L. Ayers' bored comment during a long-winded and philosophical argument over the origin of algebra: "You birds aren't getting Descartes before the horse, are you?" . . . Also Joe Brennan King's friendly jeer when Tom Flynn announced he would sing a couple of sea songs. . . . "Ah, typical of the chantey Irish." . . . And Martin Clement Tuey's wisecrack when shown the latest thing in kitchen cabinets . . . a cabinet on wheels. . . . "Well, well, the cupboard wagon."

WE met him in Havana and after a few moments' desultory conversation he produced from his breast pocket a faded newspaper clipping. It was from "A Line o' Type or Two" and was a paragraph in which R. H. L. had extoled the virtues of a Havana restaurant called Los Dos Hermanos.

"I've carried this around since—well, it was during Calvin Coolidge's administration that this was printed," he said. "I've always meant to go to this café some day and this is the first time I've been able to get away that far. Somehow the idea of this faded pink stucco restaurant on the water front"—he glanced at the clipping—"appealed to me. So this year I found we could get away for a little vacation and I said to the missus that we'd just go to Cuba and hunt up this restaurant."

He hesitated and we asked him how he had liked it.

"Well, you see, we found the place all right, but it was closed," he said. "Been closed a couple of years, I guess."

He folded the clipping and put it back into his pocket.

WE'LL bet that the little Cuban restaurant we discovered in Havana called La Zaragozana is pretty permanent, as it has been operating steadily since 1830, when an ancestor of the present proprietor came over from Saragossa and opened it. You'll get such shrimps and Morro crabs as you never ate, a popular native dish called "picadillo á la criolla," and arros con pollo, a chicken fricassee served with yellow rice and sweet red peppers. Cuban lads, wandering troubadours with guitars and maracas—varnished gourds containing dry seeds—sing melting Latin songs from the sidewalk, and you'll find the neat, quiet restaurant a pleasant change from Sloppy Joe's, with its noise and crowds.

Good Morning!

One woman deserted him at the altar.

One woman married him.

But the cat came back . . . !

A nice duel of wits between two beautiful women who both love the same man—in widely differing fashions . . . occupies the continually engrossed attention of this film's observers.

Both women are clever. And the man loves both—though at the time the picture opens he feels that the passion he felt for his one time fiancée is dead.

He revels in the love he bears his wife. And the curtain rises on a scene of delightful connubial contentment.

Then Fran', the man-eater, arrives to visit her brother and sister-in-law! Bee McCrea and her husband are the Dunlaps, intimates of the smart suburban set in which both couples move, and lose no time in warning Tony that Fran' is on her way.

Nobody, you gather, has any illusions regarding the prospective visitor. Her own brother admits she's poison.

Enters the pretty peril, accompanied by a mysterious and somewhat tongue-tied young man Fran' announces she's picked up in a speakeasy the night before. . . .

"This Man Is Mine" abounds in arresting situations—cleverly developed. By that I mean that they are naturally worked out. The characters are all believable, and so are the things they say and do. Dialog is some of the smartest you've heard in a long time. Staging's splendid, and the women's gowns alluring.

Of course you may make the point—IS any man worth all that to-do? The answer is—certainly NOT.

But the answer is beside the point. Worth it or not, the male always has caused and always will cause the female of the species to act like a dodo . . . AND when the male's Ralph Bellamy . . . ? . . . !

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

If you think perfumes aren't popular this spring, listen to this. Remember the gardenia perfume we photographed for you yesterday? Three of our largest department stores report to us that they sold out their stock of that brand by midafternoon. They've got more now, though, if you should want some.

Since you're so mad about perfumes here are more tips for last minute Easter shopping:

No. 1. An English violet, considered by some experts the best violet in the world. A lot of violet scents, to our way of thinking, are just the least bit muggy. This isn't a bit. It's crisp, delicate, and as true a violet as that sweet little blossom itself. It's made in England. For filmy frocks worn for frivolous occasions we can't think of any scent more captivating.

No. 2. A mysterious, curiously provocative bouquet odor, made and bottled in France. It's fresh, but a little bit knowing, too. Not expensive, either. You can buy a smart little bottle containing about an ounce for a surprisingly low price.

No. 3. A whispering, haunting blend that women are mad about. We're not surprised. A whiff of it is a perfume treat. Even if your worst enemy were wearing it you'd have to swallow your pride and ask what it was.

No. 4. A subtle blend from Paris that brings to mind all the lush richness of luminous pearls against black velvet. It's more subtle than spicy and destined to add to the glamor of the elegant type.

No. 5. For orchids only. Don't try if you're young and fair. It's sophisticated as sin, but not vulgar. Its been a favorite for years and years; women who find it suits them are perennially faithful to it.

No. 6. From Paris, a faintly exotic blend that is a nice balance of sweet simplicity and know-it-all. It won't jar you; you'll love to live with it. It's so subtle you can use it rather lavishly and still be on the safe side.

Happy Easter!

Alpaca Brings Style Relief to Taffeta Blues

BY RHEA SEEGER.

If you have been unsettled about the taffeta situation and have hesitated about new silks you will be more than interested in the new bolts of alpaca that have just come to town. Not the slippery old fashioned stuff that made utilitarian summer coats for comfort loving old gentlemen, but some supple luxurious silk to make some of the best looking spring street suits ever sponsored by appreciative clothes hounds.

They come in fine striped effects that somehow remind you of gentlemen's dress cravats. A lovely shimmery silver effect, soft tobacco brown, and a green that looks like the under side of spring leaves are three effective patterns for simple street costumes. If you have been looking for something new in silks this is your chance.

Striped cotton blouses, exceptionally assembled, with the stripes serving as color contrast and decoration, are now ready for your Easter suit. You will find them in blue, red, and gold combines and some effective models in green, beige, and brown.

Chiffon felt is just about what it is called, amazingly soft felt that fashions some very new hats—felts that are very different from former stiff numbers that seemed only wearable with tailored street suits and sports outfits.

This very soft felt fashions some new hats that can go places with dressmaker suits of soft silks and prints or be worn with a wisp of veiling with a dinner dress.

You can see a small upturned off the forehead model that is quite the sauciest scrap you can slant across your brow and the same pliable felt adroitly bent and brimmed for the shoppers who demand hat flattery with a brim. This collection of felts is just what you have been sighing for.

Easter ensembles are smart sets this spring . . . illustrated, a dotted organdy combine of frilled gauntlet cuffs, frilled collar tied with brown grosgrain ribbon and the crown of the hat covered with the same dotted brown and beige organdy.

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda, known as Dodo Quarles, is found stabbed to death following a dinner party in her Paris apartment. Dodo, who was untrammeled by scruples or breeding, had served a drug to her guests. Helen Roderick, who was a friend of Dodo's deceased mother, was staying with Dodo. She didn't attend the dinner, but awakened early in the morning and discovered the crime and Dodo's guests lying about in deep sleep. She is able to arouse her friend. Tommy Rostetter, a journalist, Tommy's dinner partner was Dinah Blake, an American artist, whose engagement to Christopher Loughton, in the American embassy, was, according to rumor, broken on account of Dodo. Dinah is not among the sleeping guests. Tommy arouses the others and sends for the police. A doctor set the time of Dodo's death around midnight. Helen sends Tommy to break the news to Dodo's stepfather, Basil Jethro, celebrated Oxford scholar, who was her guardian and trustee and who had long since given up trying to curb his charge. Dinah can't be found. Tommy conducts a search for her and for facts to help clear her of suspicion. She paid a call on the Hubert Loughtons shortly past midnight, after leaving Dodo's party. She was in high spirits. Christopher Loughton saw Dinah on the street after 1 o'clock, but when he tried to overtake her she eluded him. Tommy calls on others who were at the fatal dinner. Mowbray, who supplied the drug, is in fear of arrest. Tommy questions Cecily Gault, who attended a reception two days before, which was also attended by Dodo, Mowbray and Dinah.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

THE FUGITIVE RETURNS.

Tommy waited for Miss Gault to go on, but she had stopped dead. He therefore inquired whether or not the subject of drugs was broached in her hearing.

"Not in so many words. Of course, we all knew about Mowbray. Who doesn't? I seem to recall Dodo dropping some pretty broad hints. She was nicely squiffed, as usual, so she wasn't exactly discreet, but Mowbray was extremely cadgy. Wouldn't commit himself."

"Is that all you've got to tell me?" Tommy asked quietly. "You can trust me to show discretion. If there's another weak spot in her defense——"

She examined her crimson nails, hesitated, and looked at him straight in the eyes.

"There is," she replied abruptly. "I rather hate mentioning it. As I was leaving I passed the men's cloakroom. I glanced in and saw Dodo holding on to Mowbray by the lapels and whispering to him. Trying hard, I thought to persuade him. I caught the words 'dope' and 'telephone.' And at that very instant——"

"Go on."

"Dinah Blake came running up, looking for some one. She peered into the cloakroom, saw those two, and joined them. I left then, so I don't know anything more."

Tommy sat very still. "But you got the impression of a three cornered conference?" he suggested after a pause.

"Well, as a matter of fact, I did, but I may be mistaken. In any case, I've said nothing about it. I don't intend to, either. . . ."

Something else caught her attention—her name—her's, in heavy print. Was there another Dinah Blake?

Tommy paid no more visits. Though till a late hour that evening he continued to roam restlessly about, he avoided contacts in order not to hear what he knew now was being said.

He clung still to his belief that Dinah's presence last night had been actuated by pride. But afterwards—what? The deed must have resulted from temporary derangement induced by the drug. No other explanation was compatible with his reading of the poor girl's character. A period of elation had followed, then reaction set in. Overpowered by the knowledge of what she had done she had taken the one way out. Very soon, now, the chapter would be closed.

Yet when two-thirds of the next day had dragged by uncertainty still prevailed. Exhausted and despairing after a fourth call at the commissariat, Tommy leant over the parapet of the Pont Neuf, just as the clocks were striking five, and gazed down, hypnotized by the lapping water below. The river was a symbol, no more. He did not feel at all certain that somewhere along these tricky bends a blue-green frock was lodged in mud and slime. He was no longer sure of anything except that he would never set eyes on Dinah again.

He was quite wrong. At the precise moment that he formulated this belief the object of his thoughts was alighting from a red taxicab outside her own entrance in the Rue Val de Grace. Her demure chignon was scarcely ruffled, her cheeks the tint of apple blossom. But there was a stealthy haste in her movements as she darted past the concierge's loge and raced up the stairs.

Inside the door of her flat she paused to listen. No one here. What a relief! She must get out of this ridiculous dress at once. Heavens, how she had slept! And way off there, too, though the funny part of it was she—oo-oo! She had not yet properly waked up, it seemed. Well, she had wanted sleep, and she had got her wish.

Within her own room, she cast her wrap on the bed, stifled another yawn, and glanced guiltily in the mirror. Then, unfastening her frock with one hand, she spread in front of her the copy of Le Soir purchased on her way home. The date of issue puzzled her. Sunday, October second? Impossible, when yesterday was Friday. Still, how could a newspaper be wrong about the date? And then those crowds of people strolling about the Luxembourg.

Something else caught her attention—her name—hers, in heavy print. Was there another Dinah Blake? But what was the meaning of this second headline:

JEUNE SOUPCONNEE PAS ENCORE TROUVEE?

She grasped the sheet in both hands, stiffening as she read. The type swam before her in a blur.

At some indefinite period after this her cousin, Hallie Pemberton, came into the flat, passed the open door of the bedroom, and saw her standing frozen in the same spot. She hardly heard the gasping cry, or felt the trembling clutch of the arms about her. Gradually, however, she became aware that the little spinster was sobbing words of frantic relief.

"Dinah—Dinah! Where have you been? Two whole days! O, you poor, poor child."

Hallie was running uncertain fingers along her rigid arms as though to make sure this was flesh and blood, not the ghost she half suspected, but still Dinah could not speak.

Poor Hallie! Petrified with fear, crushed with shame as she fancied every eye in the Quarter fixed on her with sinister meaning, she had fled from the postoffice like a criminal, trying to escape notice. At the corner dairy shop she had lowered her head, for there, haranguing the dairy woman was Irene, their daily servant. All the tradespeople gossiped and gloated, but even they were less to be shunned than the kind friends against whom Hallie had firmly shut her door. Like Dinah, she was proud.

"Dinah! Say something! O, don't stare like that, dear. Tell me where you've been, what you've been do——" She choked on the final word.

The image came alive. One stiff finger pointed at the headlines spread above two columns of print.

"Look!" whispered the girl. "Do you see what I see, or am I still dreaming?"

"Why, what do you mean? Dinah! Did . . . didn't you know?"

"How could I know anything? I've only just waked up. But wait—what's today? Saturday, isn't it?"

"Saturday!" Hallie's voice broke hysterically. "O, you poor thing! It's Sunday, of course. You've been gone two days."

Two days! Then it was true . . .

Laughing weakly, Hallie sank on to the bed and pushed back her hat from her mouse colored, net enclosed hair. O, she had tried all along to believe there was some explanation. Dinah couldn't—but what was she to think in the face of all the newspapers were saying?

"But where were you?" she insisted. "I must know all about it, quick, too. Every second is vital."

"I'll tell you what I can," answered Dinah, her teeth chattering. "But it's so little, for I simply haven't an idea how . . . you see, yesterday . . . no, I mean Friday, I suppose . . . when I was lunching at the Rotunde, I . . ."

In a whisper, the breath in her body insufficient to sustain her voice, she brought forth the halting sentences. Hallie Pemberton, dumfounded by what she heard, believed. She had never failed to believe Dinah, for Dinah always spoke the truth, or else kept silent. Dinah couldn't lie. Only this story was so preposterous. Would any outside person credit it? Above all, would it stave off what seemed inevitable—the poor child's arrest on a charge of wilful murder?

"I laugh and love and leave a trail of broken hearts . . . but even though the world calls me heartless and a flirt and my name is bandied about on two continents—I play the game. I have reached the heights of joy and plumbed the depths of despair . . . all for love. I am always ready to accept the fickleness of fate . . . take the bad with the good . . . without a whimper. Balance Child's Faults Against His Good Points

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Are you worried about your child? Is she incorrigibly slow about dressing in the morning and getting ready for school? Does she have to be prodded to practice?

Is your boy quite heedless about his share of the family chores? And are his marks at school just barely passing?

Do these or half a dozen other kinds of behavior worry you?

Put these minor considerations aside for the immediate present and ask yourself how your son or daughter measures up as far as essentials are concerned.

Is he truthful?

Is he honest? And by this I don't mean does he not steal but is he honest and open in his relations with you and with others?

Is he direct? By that I mean is he forthright—not evasive?

Can your child be reached by reason?

Is he warm hearted?

Is he kind to animals?

How does your boy or girl measure up on essentials?

Often we get so concerned or allow ourselves to be so annoyed by the small but insistent things our children do that we give them much too much importance. If your child is sound in character, be comforted and reassured. Do what you can to correct certain faults, but keep remembering that they are minor considerations.

Leslie Offers Negro Show of High Standard

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The prevalent derth of musical shows on the Chicago stage is relieved, to a certain extent, by Lew Leslie's Negro revue, "Blackbirds of 1934," which began a week's engagement at the Chicago theater yesterday. This entertainment, which runs well over an hour, is an excellent successor to Leslie's "Rhapsody in Black," and deserves high rating among the "presentations" of the year in the cinema-vaudeville houses.

The costumes and stage settings are decorative; the singing is good, the comedians are amusing, and the dancers, as usual in Afro-American theatricals, are surprising. Chicago has seen some rather terrible Negro productions this year, and this "Blackbirds" comes as a welcome return to higher standards.

Carol Chilton and Maceo Thomas are a team of brilliant young dancers. Edith Wilson, buxom singing comedienne, has several ditties of languorous Ethiopian mirth. Blue McAllister, who has been carried over from "Rhapsody in Black," is a comic participant in Miss Wilson's songs, and also in a diverting sketch which deals with Negro technique in the game of contract bridge.

The show's finale is a spectacular treatment of the "Emperor Jones" story, leading up to a furious outbreak of jungle dancing. This episode puts the entire company, about 50 in number, on display.

"Fortune Heights," a drama by John Dos Passos, received its first acting last night in the Chicago Woman's club theater. The Workers, an amateur group, gave the novelist an opportunity to see his work on the stage. The play deals with the depression from the point of view of a gasoline station owner, who sees the current of American life, bearing its many problems, drift past his door.

A short tour of the "Ziegfeld Follies," staged by the Shuberts under an arrangement with Ziegfeld's widow, Miss Billie Burke, is a probable event of the early summer.

Woman's Love of the Artistic Is Origin of Quilt

Columbine.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Feminine love of color and the longing for artistic decoration, as well as pride in skilled needlecraft, are responsible for this attractive quilt block. "Columbine" owes its origin to a young Connecticut woman. Two shades of rose, yellow, and soft green make an unusually lovely coverlet. The four inch border of delicate green leaves affords a perfect edge for this type of quilt.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt has had as a guest at the White House for several days James Bourne of Porto Rico, who left this evening for New York. Mrs. Roosevelt has had Mrs. Bourne as her guest here several times, and was entertained by the Bournes on her recent visit to Porto Rico.

Maj. Guthbert Powell Stearns, general staf, U. S. A., and Mrs. Stearns announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Peabody, to Paul Churchill Hutton of the American foreign service school. Miss Stearns is a niece of former Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. James Grafton Rogers.

Weekly Mail Brings Queries on Many Topics

BY MARY MEADE.

"O, for a farina dumpling and a soup to go with it!" yerns Mrs. M. A. R. "It's German; those dumplings are no bigger than marbles; it's not hard to make, and how good it is when it's finished!"

FARINA DUMPLING SOUP.
1 cup milk
¼ cup fine farina
1 egg, separated
1 teaspoon butter
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of nutmeg

Scald the milk and sift the farina into it, stirring constantly. Add the butter and salt. Cook for three minutes, continuing stirring. When the mass comes loose from the pot remove from the heat and mix in the beaten egg yolk.

Fold in the stiffly beaten egg white. Cool, and then form into very wee dumplings—not much larger than husky marbles. These are to be boiled 5 minutes in the bouillon which follows:

BEEF BOUILLON.
2 pounds roast beef bones
Salt to taste
2 quarts water
Bunch of soup greens

Put all these together, breaking or chopping up the bones when possible. Simmer for 2 hours over low heat, then strain. Add bouillon cubes if the soup seems to be a bit weak. Boil it five minutes more with the farina dumplings.

This business of frying peanuts is bothering Mr. J. T. Mitchell, so that's our next point of departure. Says he: "I have been preparing peanuts for my family, buying them blanched and frying them in equal parts of beef and mutton suet. I've been using a deep fat fryer for the work, with a wire basket. The nuts are delicious, really, but the oil is quite a job to render, and after a time the fat becomes a bit rancid and has to be renewed. I wonder if you could suggest some other fat for frying these peanuts."

Fact is, Mr. M., that any oil which is within limits of your pocketbook which has a fairly high smoking temperature and which has a pleasant taste may be used to fry nuts. Olive oil, salad oil, half and half lard and clarified butter, or any fat will do.

And, did you ever hear the old country name for garlic in England? They call it "Poor Man's Treacle." Which reminds me that I just discovered the presence of liquid garlic on the market. Whew! But at that it might be a good stunt to have the grand odoriferous stuff corked in instead of scenting up the closet shelves.

Then here's another something that's been up for considerable discussion lately. Is there any danger in eating or drinking from chromium plated utensils? And the answer which Richard Schneidewind, department of engineering research, Michigan university, and Dr. Willis S. Peck of the University hospital give, is this:

Chromium has a clean bill of health and is a perfectly harmless substance to come in contact with human foods. Chromium plate, being untarnishable, is not affected by chemicals in the air or in a liquid as are some of our other metals, and it is usually this tarnishing or corroding which causes the trouble in metals not safe for cooking. Sulphur, which bothers many metals badly, seems to have utterly no effect upon chromium.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

A FEW GENERAL REMARKS ON MY THEORY OF RESPONSES.

You will have remarked that while my jump responses and forcing responses [other than the one-over-one] are very definite and precise in the information conveyed, the minimum responses cover a wide range and permit the same response being made on utterly different hands—different in strength and in composition.

There are two elements to be considered—high card strength and distribution—and I find it most practical to give the message in two instalments rather than in one. That is why the opener should not take much for granted from the first response, for he can rely on being thoroughly enlightened by the next one.

This procedure provides wonderful safeguards against misfits—if the hands cannot fit anywhere, you discover it early and drop the bidding at a low contract. It also enables you to ferret out a rather obscure fit in a secondary suit while you are still in a low bidding range.

Again, these methods put the adversaries to a constant guess—they are apt to enter the bidding when they were better out of it, and to refrain from bidding when they could have done so to advantage. The early exchange of minimum responses where some other systems would require jump bids keeps the enemy in the dark until the bidding has progressed at least a round further, and makes an overcall that much more dangerous.

Obviously, this is all dependent on the soundness and resilience of the original bid. It usually contains a rebid in some form; weak forces are not needed to keep the bidding open; minimum bids are exchanged within the safety zone; if we do quicken strides, it is without strain, with strength in reserve, and without serious risk of a misfit declaration or a palpable overbid.

Penalties must be taken in contract, but under my system you should not bid yourselves blindly into one.

A Very Unusual Hand from Actual Play.

I draw attention rather often to the importance of having the more evenly held suit as trumps when there is a choice between two trump suits; for instance, if one is held 5-3 and the other 4-4. Last week is the Deal Club North held

Sp. K Q J x x	Di. J x
Hts. A K J x x x	Cl. —

and South picked up this tremendous support:

Sp. A x x x	Di. A x x x
Hts. Q 10 x	Cl. K x

The opponents, of course, never bid, and under my system the bidding was as follows:

North—1 heart.
South—2 no trumps.
North—4 spades [slam try].
South—5 diamonds [showing the ace by bidding a third suit opposite an out and out two suiter; also accepting the slam try].
North—5 hearts [confirming great length and top strength of hearts].
South—7 spades [because of the Q x x of hearts, thus foreseeing three discards on the long hearts].

Seven spades are a laydown, as South can throw his three little diamonds away on the long hearts. Only six hearts can be made unless West should lead the ace of clubs—actually he did not hold it. Yet many players would—and did—fail to see the possibility of the hand with spades as trumps, and contented themselves with the safe but far from brilliant contract of six hearts. North's slam-trying bid of four spades showed a five card spade suit, definitly marking the heart suit as of not less than six cards, since it was mentioned before the spades.

A x x x and Q x x are naturally normal support for five and six card suits on which a slam try is being made.

Yeast Is Basis of Beautifying New Facial Aid

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Announcement of the establishing of eight fellowships for 1934, in America's leading universities, for research by well known scientists to gain additional information about the action of yeast in clearing up the skin and its other beneficial effects, indicates that intelligent study is being applied to yeast as a beauty aid.

Yeast, it is claimed, is one of the oldest beauty aids known, having been prescribed for Egytian beauties some five thousand years ago. As a yeast pack it is one of the acknowledged modern ways of freshening the complexion.

The scientific claim, if you're interested, is that the small, familiar cake of compressed yeast is composed of as many live plants as seventy times the population of the world. Sounds like a lot of plants, eh? But the idea is that each one of these tiny plants goes to work on the skin when applied, removing bacteria and stimulating the normal function of the pores. The way to use the yeast pack is this:

Use two cakes of fresh yeast, breaking them up in enough sweet milk to make a creamy paste.

In applying, first cleanse the skin with cleansing cream. Or, if you use soap and water, which we think every one should, apply cold cream lightly afterward. Then wring out a towel in warm water and hold against face and neck, repeating until the skin is soft and glowing. Work cream into your face, wiping off any that remains.

Spread the yeast pack over your face, avoiding the eyes. Cover the eyes with pads of cotton wet in witch hazel or eye lotion, and lie down for ten to twenty minutes. If the skin is in rather bad condition, try massaging it lightly after the pack is applied, and before it begins to dry. Then apply more of the yeast pack, and time yourself with the second application.

Rinse off the mask with warm towels. When the yeast is all removed, examine the face thoroughly. If there are blackheads remove them with a bit of gauze about the fingers. Rinse the face in warm water. Complete with cold compresses until the skin is firm. A pinch of alum in a cup of cold water, sponged over the face as a finish, is recommended.

Easter Clothes of Other Days Put on Display

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

If this were 1887 all of the fashionable women in the Easter parade would be wearing J. W. Bradley's duplex elliptical [or double] spring skirts, according to an advertisment of that year in the files of the Chicago Historical society.

If you want to know just why this skirt would not bend or break like a "single spring," and why it preserved its perfect shape and was called the "standard skirt of the fashionable world" you must go to the new exhibit of Godey fashion prints opening today in the theatrical alcove of the Historical society.

Here may be seen trends in dressmaking from the beginning of the 19th century until 1920. The Godey fashion prints are not the only examples of clothing changes on view, for there is in addition on the 2d floor an exhibit of 100 figurines wearing authentic clothes of the 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries as they were worn in Chicago.

There is also an exhibit of real costumes that belonged to prominent Chicago women and have been lent to the society. The blue chiffon and velvet gown that the late Mrs. Potter Palmer wore to a court at Buckingham palace in 1908 is in a glass case and next to it is an elegant spring suit that the late Mrs. Eugene Pike, mother of the president of the Historical society, Charles B. Pike, wore in 1905.

Godey's fashions were printed in magazines that not only brought the latest couturier hints from Europe but also instructed miladys on the subjects of suitable music for holiday occasions, proper entertainments and amusements for parties, and how to dress and act in leap year.

According to Mr. Godey's prints the chic hat for Easter wear in 1798 was a tremendous thing sitting high on the head with a stiff brim of silk, from which a double ruffle of chiffon hung, hiding the face.

The crown, of soft material, was high and full and out of it grew imitation Easter lilies, rising straight up for several inches. A printed chiffon scarf was draped down the back of the hat. A frilly, ruffled, formal, rich, bustled gown should be worn with this. Morning dresses were cut with Grecian simplicity and small polk bonnets were suitable with them.

The correct evening attire in 1824 was not far different from that of today. With the dress, which was not too décolleté and had puffed sleeves and slim lines, was worn a hat with a huge brim, a feathered crown and flowers under the brim. Long white kid gloves and a trim fan completed the picture. The shoes had no heels and the lacings criscrossed over the instep and up the ankle.

You really should make an effort and take the children to see Walt Disney's new Silly Symphony "Funny Little Bunnies!" This delightful Technicolor short is showing in all of the B. & K. larger theaters—and you'll have as much fun as the kids watching the funny little bunnies getting ready for Easter.

DETROIT BEATS TORONTO, 1-0, FOR HOCKY TITLE

CUBS RALLY IN EIGHTH TO DEFEAT PIRATES, 13 TO 6

5 RUN ATTACK SAVES MALONE FROM BEATING

Three Homers Hit by Chicagoans.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 30.—The Cubs staged another gay march today through the ranks of the Pittsburgh Pirates. However, it wasn't quite the same as yesterday's five hit triumph over their National league rivals. This time the Chicagoans hammered the ball hard and often, the consequences being their fourth victory over the Bucs in the six spring games already played. The score was 13 to 6, and the best part of the show was that the Cubs put on their big act when faced with defeat in the eighth inning.

The top notchers in the assault against two Pirate pitchers were Gabby Hartnett, Billy Herman and George [Goldilocks] Stainback. Hartnett's most valuable contribution was a homer, giving the Cubs a temporary lead in the second. This feat paled into insignificance before young Herman and Stainback had completed their day's toil. The handsome Goldilocks broke out with a homer and two singles, personally driving in four runs in the closing innings. And Billy, after two early singles, also finished stylishly by singling to assist in the five run eighth inning rally and uncorking a homer with a pair waiting in the ninth.

Malone Is Shaky.

Pat Malone pitched the full nine innings as scheduled, but was shaky during the major portion of the afternoon. He didn't have control and the Pirates smacked him when he eased up to get the ball over. They almost nudged him out of the game in the third when they took the lead by scoring four runs. The Pirates got after him again in the sixth and scored twice to take a 6 to 3 lead. That appeared to be just about enough to assure the big right hander a beating, but happenings in the seventh put the Cubs only one shy of a tie, so Pat took a new lease on life. In the last three innings he didn't permit a man to reach base.

Hartnett hit the steel lighting post in left for a homer after two were out in the second inning, and this brought on a lot of Cub action. The homer was followed by Suhr's two base error on Malone. Galan beat out a hit to deep short. Billy Herman looped a single into right, scoring Malone and sending Galan to third. Galan counted and W. Herman moved to third on Cuyler's single to right. This brought forth Klein, but the best he could do was a pop up to Lavagetto.

Pirates Get to Malone.

Malone fanned Birkofer, the Pirates' first pitcher, to start the third, and things then began to pop in a big way. Baby Waner singled to center and Jensen walked. Paul Waner forced Jensen, but Traynor poled a hit into center to score Baby Waner. Vaughan's double to right center scored P. Waner. A pass to Suhr loaded the bases. Lavagetto drove in two of his waiting mates by singling to left. Suhr and Lavagetto advanced on a wild pitch and both would have scored if Billy Herman hadn't ended the inning by dashing back on the grass to make a one handed pickup of Grace's grounder.

Two more runs for the Pirates' cause began in the sixth, when Grace bounced a single beyond Jurges' reach. After Birkhofer had fanned Baby Waner shoved a single past Billy Herman and Grace took third. A passed ball by Tate, who had succeeded Hartnett, let Grace score and sent Baby Waner to second. The latter registered on a single by Jensen, who was doing a good job of subbing for Lindstrom. The latter was taking the day off.

Stainback Cuts Pirate Lead.

Stainback used his homer in the seventh to put the Cubs back in the game. With one out Stephenson, who had relieved Klein in left field, marked his first appearance at bat with a pass off Birkofer. A moment later Stevie had to go tearing around the bases

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Had the late Prof. Perkins been alive last night, he would doubtless have attended the world's 18.2 balkline tournament now in progress at the 131 South Wabash Avenue Recreation rooms, and there would have found himself proud of his prize pupil, Welker Cochran of San Fransico, Cal. Welker broke the four way first place tie by defeating Willie Hoppe of New York, 400 to 309, thereby taking undisputed charge of the lead.

It was Prof. Perkins, once Chicago's most famed teacher of the cue, who first scented stardom in young Cochran, who had come here before reaching his teens from Manson, Ia. A course of instructions at Prof. Perkins' hall of learning on Madison street and Welker was being hailed as the new boy wonder. Hoppe having outgrown any literal claims to that title.

Welker Proves His Skill.

Cochran and Hoppe had entered last night's contest in a tie with Eric Hagenlacher of Germany and Kinrey Matsuyama of Japan, each having won two games and lost one. Matsuyama had caused the deadlock by defeating the fifth member of the tourney's cast, Ora C. Morningstar, 400 to 300, in yesterday afternoon's game.

Matsuyama and Hagenlacher will have their opportunity to advance when they meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Hoppe and Morningstar are matched for the night game at 8 o'clock.

Cochran started as if he wished to make a runaway of the match. After Hoppe had won the bank and failed to score Welker came up in the first inning with a 56 and followed it with a 35 in the second. He was leading Willie, 91 to 8, at the end of the third frame.

Then Willie, the old master, who will always be to billiards what Ruth is to baseball and Hagen to golf, put on a show consisting of a run of 112, doubling Cochran's first inning performance.

High Run Is 120.

Hoppe, who fingers a billiard cue with the gentle touch of a fiddler stroking his pet Stradivarius, then continued to pile up point after point through the medium of harnessing the three balls until it seemed they must be on a leash. On full table shots, however, the red ball proved to be obstinate for Willie. One instance of its perfidy occurred in the seventh, where he ran 39, and then missed the scarlet one coming away from the head rail. It ran off in the eighth, also, to end a run of 32.

Cochran went into the ninth, trailing, 169 to 265. There he finally discovered the combination he had been seeking and dashed off the high run of the match, 120. He barely made his 27th point, the cue ball just coming to rest against the white object ball. In scoring his 102d point, he touched the red ball so delicately that it looked as if he had missed, and Hoppe rose from his chair prepared to go to bat, only to hear Referee Charley Peterson call it a hit. The run ended when Welker saw the cue ball curl around the red.

White Sox to Play Pasadena Team Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 30. — The White Sox this day were reduced to the point where only bad weather or acts of Providence can keep them from playing baseball every day between now and the day before the opening of the American league season.

This thought of playing every day and every day is abhorrent to some of the lads, but for the most part the steady athletic diet is welcome, even though the Sox face a dozen games with the tough Pirates after they dispose of the Pasadena Merchants tomorrow and in the camp farewell Sunday.

Gregory Gets Chance Today.

Despite debts owed other clubs in the matter of players, there were no further indications that any of the Fonseca crew will be left on the coast.

One of the prospects for the axe will be given a chance to win a reprieve in tomorrow's contest with the Merchants. Paul Gregory has been assigned to start and go as far as his strength and talents warant.

The Merchants are semi-pros of considerable ability and if big Paul makes a good showing he may be carried indefinitly.

Deals Are Pending.

Sunday's game also will see some of the younger pitchers in action, but under Fonseca's present plans the veteran pitchers, much as they hate it, will have to go to work when the tour east begins Monday at San Bernardino.

Several major league deals are said to be pending but no announcements are expected until Vice President Harry Grabiner gets back in Chicago to confer with Owner Lou Comiskey.

In the Wake of the News

CASINOS.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 30. —[Special.]—Casinos of chance in the Miami sector have not fared as well, in the wave of returning local prosperity, as hotels, apartment buildings, and restaurants.

In 1933 Dade county was "dark" except where private parties were "accommodated" on the quiet. What business there was went to resorts over the county line. This was not satisfactory to the element seeking to please tourist trade which likes a whirl at the wheel or galloping dominoes.

Apparently "reason returned" this winter. While public gambling, as such, was not tolerated, half a dozen higher grade places operated, into which it was not difficult to gain admission.

* *

The Wake talked with several operators. They were unanimous that play had been relatively light and that they just about "got by" in meeting expenses. Naturally one accepts such statements with a grain of salt because sporting gentry are not in the habit of admitting handsome profit, if made. You see, profits raise the fix, if fixing be necessary, for the following season. In this instance, however, the same information came from all sources, both inside and outside.

Few reports of heavy winnings or losses found circulation. We were told of one fish who was on the hook for $40,000, wriggled off, and got away with $6,000; also of a dice loss of $37,000 by a New York gambler. Such tales were exceptions.

* *

Frank Bruen, presiding genius at Deauville and familiar with local conditions, explains "there still are people with plenty of money, but they don't display it. In these times it's no longer good form to be seen throwing your money around carelessly. This feeling no doubt influenced those who like to gamble. From what I've heard there was a pretty steady play from people who would win or lose $20 to $100 and call it a night."

Deauville, by the way, has quite a Chicago atmosphere. Fred Breit, once on the sanitary district board, if we remember rightly, is heaviest stockholder in the reopened place. Bruen is managing director. James Hickey, remembered at the Congress hotel, is manager. Tom Kelly, who was with the late Phoce Howard when stickup men took Howard's dazzling "hoop" in a Cleveland hotel at the time of the Schmeling-Stribling fight, also is about. Deauville had capacity crowds most of the season, did well, and plans improvements for 1935 after being a lemon for several years.

"Peanuts."

"Peanuts" is the nickname for the 5 year old son of the owner of the apartment building where the Wakes are domiciled. He comes down mornings while breakfast dishes are being washed to visit and impart gossip of the building. Sometimes we wonder whether his parents would approve all the information he divulges.

This morning "Peanuts" announced that a family which had intended to stay until June 1 was moving. To the natural query of why, he said, "Because they have a dog and mother raised the rent."

"Does your mother charge extra for dogs?" he was asked.

New Experience.

The Wake has been invited to a convention banquet at Coral Gables of a national soft drink concern with headquarters at Atlanta. We always have wondered just what a soft drink concern serves in the beverage line at a banquet. Later information will be forthcoming for any one interested.

A. A. U. TOMBOY TITLE WON BY SPENCER COALS

Wichita, Kas., March 30.—(AP)—The Spencer Coal quintet, Chicago, won the tomboy championship in the women's national A. A. U. basketball tournament here tonight, defeating the Shaw-Stephens team from Maplewood, Mo., 28 to 19. The game was played under men's rules.

Rallying late, as they did last night in beating the Chicago Ricketts in the semi-finals, the Spencers tied at 12 each in the third quarter. Anna Goldstein sank two free throws five minutes before the end, giving the Spencers an 18 to 15 margin, and then collaborated with Fandell in the final drive.

Tulsa Business college won the official Women's A. A. U. basketball title with a decisive 32 to 22 triumph over the Cardinals of Oklahoma City university.

OWNER, HIS 11 HORSES BARRED ON DOPE CHARGE

H. Herendeen Accused by Tropical Park.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., March 30.—[Special.]—The Tropical Park stewards, coöperating with government narcotic agents, reached out today on the eve of Florida's last racing day and ruled off another owner-trainer and his stable of eleven horses.

The suspended turfman, H. Herendeen, known on race tracks throughout the country, is alleged to have used stimulants on Levaal, one of the most inconsistent selling platers of the Miami season. His suspension followed a saliva test made by state chemists after Levaal had won recently.

The other horses barred are Spartan Lady, Premeditate, Dozeless, Le Ministre, Babee, Nono, Teeny Weeny, Crystal Girl, Pay All, and Peace Lady Stewards Issue Statement.

"Owner and Trainer H. Herendeen and the following horses registered in his name: Levaal, Spartan Lady, Premeditate, Dozeless, Le Ministre, Babee, Nono, Teeny Weeny, Crystal Girl, Pay All, and Peace Lady are suspended under rule 328, section D of the Florida rules of racing pending action by the Florida racing commission."

The suspension marked another chapter in the fight waged by the government and racing commissions to rid American tracks of turfmen guilty of stimulating their horses.

Horsemen protested the tactics of the agents and the commission, and on the eve of the Florida Derby, closing day feature at Hialeah park, more than 100 struck and refused to enter their horses. The turfmen finally agreed to send their horses into races the next day.

Find Narcotics, Needles.

Among the first to be suspended on doping charges was Harry Cooper, owner and trainer from Vancouver, B. C., who was seized in a raid near Miami. Government agents said they found a quantity of narcotics, hypodermic needles, and other formulae for doping horses.

Two months ago Edward Haughton, Kentucky trainer, was ruled off by the Florida commission when chemists charged that one of his horses, Making Bubbles, was stimulated. Nat Ray, former steeplechase rider, also was barred, but later the commission cleared him.

Others suspended included J. Yancey Christmas and George Coburn, prominent trainer. Christmas was alleged to have stimulated Nourrice, which ran on Feb. 23, and Coburn faced charges of doping Garlic several weeks ago. Garlic won the race, but was disqualified.

DECIDE STOEFEN WILL PLAY GRANT IN TENNIS FINAL

Atlanta, Ga., March 30.—(AP)—After a series of statements, changed plans, and new statements, it appeared tonight that Lester Stoefen, tall University of Southern California tennis star, would meet Bryan [Bitsy] Grant of Atlanta tomorrow in the final of the Atlanta-Biltmore invitation tennis tournament.

The statements started today at the end of a three hour, 65 game match Stoefen and Lott were playing in the semi-finals. At the end of the 65th game Lott threw down his racket and said: "I'm getting too old for this kind of stuff when there's no more than this at stake; let Stoefen have it!" Later in his hotel Lott announced he would finish the match tomorrow. Stoefen agreed.

Talking it over later Lott and Stoefen said they decided they wouldn't go through with it, after all, and flipped a coin. Stoefen won and said he would play Grant tomorrow in the finals.

The Stoefen-Lott match went 13 to 11 in the first set before Lott won. Stoefen took the second, 6 to 4, and lost the third, 6 to 3. He won the fourth, 6 to 0. The fifth set was at 8 to 8 when Lott defaulted.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

TARZAN TAYLOR, football line coach at Marquette, tells a story about a professional football game from which you must conclude the game has moved ahead in recent years. This incident occurred ten years ago. . . . When the teams lined up for the first play after the kickoff one man was missing. . . . Looking up the field they spied Ed Garvey asleep on his feet in his kickoff position. . . . Chuck Klein doesn't care for cards, the theater or books. . . . His chief recreation is bowling. . . . Charlie Ward, Northwestern football captain in 1902, now loan director of the university, has purchased a farm near Turkey Run, Ind., where he commutes over the week-end. . . .

When Jim Peterson, pitcher who was traded to Louisville in the deal for Johnny Marcum, arrived in camp with Phil Weinert, also a Louisville pitcher, neither knew they lived only five blocks from each other in Philadelphia. . . . Barney Ross has been given the 1933 medal which is presented annually by a national magazine to the professional boxer who attracts widest attention. . . . Milt Olander, Bob Zuppke's right hand man at Illinois, is one of the few Illini athletes in the last 25 years who won four varsity football letters. . . . He was on the team in 1918 when freshmen were allowed to compete because of war conditions. . . .

The New York-Chicago intercity heavyweight Golden Glove winners from now on will concentrate on football. . . . Bob Pastor of New York was on the freshman squad at New York university last fall. . . . Max Marek of Chicago was a member of Notre Dame's yearling team. . . . It is improbable that either will reënter Golden Gloves in 1935. . . . Lieut. B. M. Bryan of the West Point coaching staf; Jim Kitts, head coach at Rice Institute, and two Texas high school gridiron instructors have been in Lincoln, Neb., the last ten days observing the practice methods of Dana X. Bible as he prepares the Cornhuskers for the 1934 season. . . .

Dale Letts, University of Chicago track star and national collegiate 880 yard champion a few years back, does not believe that modern runners are better than those of 20 years ago. . . . The fact that more men are being trained and competition is keener accounts for the better times of today, he thinks. . . . Recalling that A. Laurence Lowell, who retired as president of Harvard last year, ran the mile in 4:12.5 as an undergraduate, Letts wonders what his time would have been if any one could have finished within 100 yards of him. . . . Letts is a student in the University of Chicago Law school. . . . Michigan may have a 29 year old guard on its 1934 football team. . . . His name is Stephen Leonard Piatkowski. . . . He was a member of the Polish Olympic boxing team in 1932. . . . Ted Canty, who has been announcing track meets since memory of man runneth not to the contrary, has resigned from the jewelry firm for which he has been working the last 27 years. . . .

One of the teeth in the new Illinois racing law reads: "The commission may compel the discharge of any employé who in the opinion of the commission is guilty of incompetency. . . . John M. Seys, vice president of the Cubs, covered turf events for a Chicago newspaper when old Washington Park was the home of the American Derby. . . . Jimmy Studebaker of the automobile and wagon family, was a backfield man of the Purdue football teams of the early '90's. . . . Old time Boilermakers tell us he was one of the longest punters the school has developed. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Young Stribling beat Mike McTigue, the world's light heavyweight champion, in twelve rounds at New York. . . . Dr. Lasker of Germany was leading the field in the international chess matches with 7½ points. . . . Walter Hagen was leading the North and South open golf tournament. . . . Rogers Hornsby married Mrs. John Hines. . . . The Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Cubs, 7 to 6.

H. F. Bowbeer Wins in Florida Tourney Final

Miami, Fla., March 30.—(AP)—A new Florida year round club golf champion was crowned here today as H. F. Bowbeer of Chicago defeated the defending titleholder, T. E. Price of Miami, 4 and 3, in the 36 hole finals.

1ST PERIOD GOAL BY GOODFELLOW DECIDES SERIES

Cude Makes 15 Stops, Hainsworth 21.

Detroit, Mich., March 30.—(AP)—The Red Wings tonight brought Detroit its first National Hocky league championship and a chance at the Stanley cup by defeating Toronto's Maple Leafs, 1 to 0, in the fifth and deciding game of their title playoff series.

A goal by Ebbie Goodfellow in the first period, scored with Joe Primeau of the Leafs serving a penalty for tripping, gave the Wings the victory which had eluded them since they won two straight games on Toronto ice and then lost two straight here.

For the two remaining periods the Wings, playing inspired hocky, fought off the desperate Leafs as they tried to tie the score.

Newcomers Inspire Wings.

The Wings tonight were a different team from the one which suffered a 5 to 1 beating at the hands of Toronto Wednesday. Their play was inspired by three young players brought up from the Olympics, Detroit's minor league club, Gene Carrigan, Ron Moffatt, and Gus Marker, almost without major league experience, gave a great exhibition of aggressiveness which played a large part in the victory.

Goodfellow's goal was scored with the Wings' famous "power play." Herbie Lewis raced into a corner, passed to Johnny Sorrell, and he laid the puck on Goodfellow's stick about 6 feet out from the net. Goodfellow's shot got the high far corner perfectly and George Hainsworth, Leaf goalie, was beaten cleanly.

Cude Makes 15 Stops.

Wilf Cude in the Wing net had only fifteen stops, but all were difficult, as the Leafs swarmed around the net. Hainsworth had twenty-one saves in the clean, fast game in which only three penalties were called, all in the first two periods. The one on Primeau, however, spelled defeat for the visitors and a league title for Detroit.

HUEY HANGED IN EFFIGY FOR SLUR AT COL. BRADLEY

Louisville, Ky., March 30.—[Special.]—While a large crowd looked on Senator Huey [Kingfish] Long of Louisiana was hanged in effigy near Churchill Downs race track by a group of trainers and exercise boys last night. The "hanging" was inspired, it was said, by Long's statement recently that "Col. E. R. Bradley may be a gentleman in Kentucky, but in Louisiana he is a divekeeper."

Col. Bradley, famous as the owner of four Kentucky Derby winners and one of the most popular of Kentucky horsemen, is the operator of the Everglades club, Palm Beach gambling casino.

BRADLEY TO BE WITNESS.

Palm Beach, Fla., March 30.—(AP)—C. Barry Shannon, manager of Col. E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour farm, said today the Kentucky sportsman would appear at Washington Tuesday as a witness in Senator Huey P. Long's fight to prevent confirmation of Daniel D. Moore as collector of internal revenue for Louisiana.

Shannon told newspaper men Bradley had received the senate summons and would report in answer to it. The summons was issued at the request of Senator Harrison, chairman of the finance committee. Long had asked Harrison to bring Bradley and Frank Sullivan, brother of Col. John P. Sullivan of New Orleans, to Washington as witnesses.

On the floor of the senate Long charged Moore had been nominated on recommendation of Col. Sullivan, and the latter, with Bradley, operated a "chain of gambling dives from Florida to Louisiana."

MAX BAER ROWS, CHOPS WOOD AT TRAINING CAMP

The California heavyweight, who meets Primo Carnera in a world championship bout next June, started the day's activities with a six mile hike.

"Max is feeling better every day," his manager, Ancil Hoffman, said. "He is working hard and the mountain air is doing him a world of good."

Ross Returns from Coast Tour Today

Barney Ross, custodian of the lightweight and junior welterweight boxing championships, will return this morning from California after an absence of two months, during which he won three battles and was held to a draw in another.

Ross is to rest for about a week or 10 days before leaving for Fort Worth, Tex., where he is to defend the junior welterweight crown against Tony Herrera April 20. From Fort Worth Barney goes to Louisville, Ky., again to risk his minor title against Dominick Manceni on Derby eve, May 4.

The champion engaged in three 140 pound title matches and one nontitle contest since he entrained for California in February. On a stopover at Kansas City, Mo., he whipped Pete Nebo Feb. 7. Referee Toby Irwin called his second title contest, with Frank Klick at San Francisco March 5, a draw. He easily vanquished a welterweight, Kid Moro, at Oakland March 14. In his latest fight Ross defeated Bobby Pacho at Los Angeles Tuesday.

Freddy Miller, featherweight champion, and Jackie Sharkey will meet for the fourth time in an overweight encounter at Minneapolis, Minn., April 13. It is for 10 rounds at 127 pounds.

The six round main event between Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., heavyweight, and Johnny Pacek of Chicago at Marigold Gardens Monday may determine the ring future of both.

The stocky Wiater and Pacek, slender Lindbloom High school student, both of whom are former Golden Gloves champions, are undefeated since turning professional. The Green Bay fighter has had considerably more experience, but Pacek's superior boxing is expected to make things interesting.

King Levinsky, wild swinging Chicago heavyweight, and his sister manager, Mrs. Lena Levy, left yesterday for Los Angeles, Cal., where the Kingfish faces Lee Ramage on April 17. . . . Mickey O'Shea, north side 147 pound boxer, is matched with Iowa Joe Rivers at Eau Claire, Wis., next Friday. . . . Eddie Allen and Jimmy Cummings, middleweights, are paired for four rounds at Cicero stadium April 13. . . . Cummings also opposes Johnny Liston for six rounds at Peoria, Ill., April 30.

CARDINALS BEAT YANKEES, 3-2, IN 9TH INNING RALLY

Pitchers of Both Clubs Are Effective.

Bradenton, Fla., March 30.—(AP)—A double by Col. Butler Mills, his second of the game, with Jim Collins on base, today gave the St. Louis Cardinals a ninth inning 3 to 2 victory over the New York Yankees.

Both clubs showed midseason pitching and Vernon Gomez and Harry Smythe granted only five hits. Jess Haines, Bill Walker, and Clarence Heise yielded six to the Yankees.

Score:

New York	000	101	000	2	6	1
St. Louis	000	100	011	3	5	3

Batteries—Gomez, Smythe and Kies; Haines, Walker, Heise and Delancey.

GIANTS, 4; NASHVILLE, 3.

Dothan, Ala., March 30. — (AP) — Bill Terry, manager of the world champion New York Giants, brought his team back today to the town where he broke into professional baseball as a left handed pitcher 19 years ago, and with them defeated the Nashville club of the Southern league in an exhibition game, 4 to 3.

A crowd of 3,000 paid tribute to Terry, who lasted only a few weeks in the Georgia State league with Dothan. Here he was handed the only unconditional release he has ever received in baseball.

Score:

New York [N.]	002	000	200	4	8	3

Batteries—Parmelee, Salveson and Danning; Speece, Reid, Brillheart and McAdams, O'Malley.

DETROIT, 9; COLUMBUS, 4.

Lakeland, Fla., March 30.—(AP)—Making 15 hits, the Detroit Tigers beat the Columbus team of the American association here today, 9 to 4.

It was the first hitting spree of the season for Detroit. Greenberg and Owen hit home runs, while Owen and Gehringer made triples. Beckman pitched for the Red Birds for four innings. During his time on the mound the Tigers hit everything he threw.

The victory was dimmed, however, by the fact that Larkin and Hamlin, two right handed pitchers, were added to the casualty list. Score:

Columbus [A. A.]	000	200	020	4	11	1

BRAVES, 6; RED SOX, 2.

Sarasota, Fla., March 30.—(AP)—The revamped Boston Red Sox were unable to hit the pitching of Ed Lefty Brandt and Ben Cantwell today and the Braves won the second game of the intercity series, 6 to 2.

Brandt held the Red Sox to one hit until the fifth, when doubles by Reynolds and Seeds scored a run. Cantwell was equally effective during the last four innings. The Braves pounded Dusty Rhodes and Rube Walberg for 10 hits. Score:

Boston [A.]	000	010	001	2	6	2

MACK RELEASES WINSTON.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 30.—(AP)—Connie Mack today began setting his Philadelphia Athletics in order in preparation for the start of the return trip to Philadelphia. He released one player and signed two others. Henry Winston, right handed pitcher from Raleigh, N. C., signed last September as a free agent, was let go. Those signed are Johnny Wingfield, infielder, and Archie Martin, catcher.

Cubs' Strong Finish Beats Pirates, 13-6

in his very best form to keep from being stepped on by the swiftly moving Goldilocks, who gave the ball a ride over the left field fence. This put the Cubs in arrears by only 6 to 5.

The big blowoff that wiped out the Pirates' lead in the eighth started with a single by Tate, his first of the spring jaunt. Malone sacrificed and Galan flied to center. Billy Herman singled to score Tate.

Smith then lost directions. He walked Babe Herman and Stephenson, filling the bases. Stainback stepped into this spot with a single to left. Billy and Babe Herman scoring.

A single by Camilli scored Stephenson. Jurges singled to drive in Stainback with the fifth and last run of the rally.

Galan Held to Single.

For a suitable climax the Cubs rode Smith around the bases for three more runs in the ninth. Malone surprised himself and his mates by lining a single to left. Galan walloped a safe drive to the fence in center, but because of Malone's leisurely style of running had to restrict himself to a single. Then Billy Herman cleaned up with a homer inside the park.

Manager Grimm announced this evening that he had asked the Los Angeles club for the loan of Emmett Nelson, a large sized right hander. If there is any significance to a move of this kind it is that the Cub boss must be worrying slightly about the kind of a staff he's going to have at his command. He has seen some of his pitching stars of other seasons hit fairly hard, but it still is too early to get panicky.

Nelson Needs Experience.

Nelson will be kept around long enough to furnish Grimm with an idea of what he really can do. If he appears to have possibilities he might be purchased by handing either Dick Ward or Bud Tinning to the Angels. The drawback to Nelson, however, is that he hasn't had much experience. The Angels didn't even employ him extensively last season, but he is regarded as an outstanding prospect. He was in about 25 games last year and finished with a record of three victories and six defeats.

It will be Lon Warneke's turn tomorrow to prove he is at the nine inning stage in his spring conditioning. The Pirates will start Larry [Lefty] French and the latter also will endeavor to pitch until the finish.

NOW FOR A GALLOP AFTER WESTERN POLO TITLE

Western Polo Tournament to Start Tonight

The hopes of the Sixth Corps Area trio, which will face the 124th Field Artillery in the feature match, are built around the return to action of Capt. C. A. Wilkinson, who will line up with Lieut. Larry Smith and Lieut. John L. Hines Jr.

Offsetting that advantage, Maj. Richard G. Hunter of the artillery is counting heavily upon Lieut. William H. Nicholls Jr., who has played two hard games in Metropolitan league competition and is expected to show the national championship form he displayed last year. The third member of the threesome will be Lieut. Chris M. Schuh.

Lieut. Nicholls will be the highest rated player on the field tonight, carrying a handicap of 7 goals. Maj. Hunter is handicapped at 3 goals and Lieut. Schuh at 2, giving the team a strength of 12 goals, the maximum allowed in the newly established high goal junior division.

The Chicago Shamrocks, who will oppose the South Shore Remount association, have named Capt. Leo. B. Callahan, Capt. Leslie Ireland, and Lieut. J. S. McAnulty. The starting lineup of the Remounts will consist of Charlie Roovaart, Al Bairnsfather, and Eddie Hirsch.

Lineups:

SOUTH SHORE REMOUNT ASSN.		CHICAGO SHAMROCKS.

Circumference of Football Is Cut by New Rule

New York, March 30.—(AP)—A change in the specifications of the football for 1934, decreasing the circumference and making it easier to handle and forward pass was announced today by the national rules committee through Secretary William S. Langford.

The short axis circumference has been reduced from the old measurement range of 22 to 22½ inches to 21¼ to 21½ inches. No change was made in the other specifications as to weight, air pressure, general shape, or the long axis circumference.

There has been little real change in the ball, Langford said, since the early days of football, the first rule on the subject specifying it should be a "prolate spheroid" of leather with a rubber bladder. With the standardization of play and equipment the present specifications were evolved.

Hitch Hikers Arrive for Swim Meet

Two tired and dusty young athletes arrived in Chicago yesterday via the hitch hiking route from Minneapolis in time to get a bit of rest before entering the junior free style swimming events in the Central A. A. U. swimming and diving championship meet which opens at the Medinah Michigan Avenue club at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

The two boys, Stan and Bump Gabrielsen, students at Gustavus college, started the trip here with $5, walking most of the way.

The events will include: Senior women's high board diving, senior women's 100 yard breast stroke, junior men's 100 yard free style, invitational high school 50 yard free style, invitational high school 200 yard relay.

A highlight of the meet will be Claudia Eckert's defense of her high springboard diving title. Gordon Cornelius, C. A. A. U. breast stroke champion, will compete against a fast field.

Blackhawks Drill Today for Montreal

Manager Tommy Gorman stated after the drill that from now on till the end of the Stanley cup drive the team would indulge only in limbering up skating exercises, and that only in Chicago on days prior to a playoff game, if the Hawks defeat the Montreal Maroons tomorrow night and qualify for the finals.

The loss of Leroy Goldsworthy, lanky right winger who has been playing brilliantly in the series, was a blow to the Hawks. It is not definitly known whether the severe shoulder wrenching Goldsworthy received in a collision with Stew Evans in the first Maroon playoff game will keep him out of other than the game tomorrow.

WOLVERINES AND TROJANS LEAD IN SWIM QUALIFYING

Medica Sets 2 N.C.A.A. Records.

Columbus, O., March 30.—[Special.]—Michigan and Southern California were established as favorites in the National Collegiate Athletic association's swimming tournament at the end of tonight's qualifying competition in the Ohio State university pool. Both teams qualified eight men for the finals, which will be held tomorrow.

Individual honors went to Jack Medica of Seattle, a sophomore at the University of Washington, who broke two N. C. A. A. championship records by swimming the 1,500 meter free style event in 19:21.1 and the 440 yard free style, which he negotiated in 4:51.

The former record broke the old mark of 20:02.2 which Austin Clapp of Stanford made in 1932, and the latter bettered the mark of 4:55.6 set by Ruddy of Columbia in 1930.

The other N. C. A. A. record to fall by the wayside was in the 100 yard free style. Walter Spence of Rutgers broke his own mark of :52.4, which he set in 1933, with a :51.6 tonight. This also ties the intercollegiate record which Spence set last year.

Labor Dispute Settlements Quicken Trade

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 30.—General business during the current week has surged ahead largely as the result of the settlement of labor troubles, and buying demand is again increasing, according to the trade reviews. Consumers all over the country are increasing their demands, and plans of some magnitude are afoot for the encouragement of the capital goods industries.

Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., say in part:

"Major attention was directed to the persistent extension of consumer demand, despite unseasonal weather in many districts, volume rising as high as 70 per cent over that of last March, 20 per cent above the same week in 1932, and only slightly under the 1931 figures.

Easter Buying Exceeds Hopes.

"Early estimates of the extent of Easter buying have been exceeded, and the increases recorded for some lines would appear exaggerated, if consideration were not taken of the near cessation of merchandise movements at this time a year ago. The passing of March, however, brings to an end the period of phenomenal percentages of gain over the comparative totals of a year earlier.

"While no check to the continued elevation of the business level is discernible, starting with April the spread will be narrowed, as all business indices will be set alongside the figures recording the abruptly rising volume of both production and distribution.

Peak Seen Late in May.

"The spring upturn gives no indication of reaching its peak until the latter part of May, and may be extended well into June.

"New plans for the encouragement of capital goods, durable goods, and heavy industries now are in the making and doubtless will reach maturity late in April.

"Long delayed orders for railroad equipment now are finding their way to manufacturing centers, while building materials, machine tools, farm equipment, and large electrical installations are commencing to move out more briskly, and hardware shipments in some divisions are nearly double last year's."

MIDDLE WEST UTILITIES UNIT PAYS DIVIDENDS ON PRIOR LIEN SHARES

An indication of the increasing earnings of the operating properties of the Middle West Utilities system was seen yesterday in the action of directors of the Michigan Gas and Electric company in authorizing the payment of dividends on the company's prior lien stocks. The dividends authorized mark the first payment in a year.

Directors voted to distribute 87½ cents a share on the $7 prior lien stock and 75 cents a share on the $6 prior lien stock. After the payments are made May 1 back dividends on the 7 per cent stock will amount to $6.12½ a share and $5.25 a share on the $6 stock.

No payments can be made on the company's $6 and 6 per cent preferred stock until the accumulations on the prior lien shares are cleared up. Arrearages on the preferred shares will amount to $7.50 a share on May 1.

The company's announcement did not indicate that the dividends authorized are to be regarded as the resumption of regular payments. Further payments are contingent on the future earnings of the property. The payments are equivalent to half the cumulative dividend rate on each of the prior lien issues.

Whole Block Revamped for WholesaleUnit

BY AL CHASE.

Plans were announced yesterday for the renaming and modernization of an entire block in the wholesale district. The ten story fireproof Palmer building and the six story Walker building, together occupying the area bounded by Adams, Market, and Quincy streets and the river, have been rechristened the Union Terminal building and annex.

According to Harold H. Egan & Co., renting agents for the estate of Martin A. Ryerson, of which the Northern Trust company is trustee, negotiations are now under way which will establish this block as a center for several important wholesale industries, as well as the home of miscellaneous office lines.

Start on Larger Building.

At present the modernization program calls for the rejuvenation of the ten story Palmer building into a high grade office and display unit. Holabird & Roche were the original architects and Holabird & Root are in charge of alterations. Bulley & Andrews are the general contractors. The main entrance at 367 West Adams street is directly across from the entrance to Carson Pirie Scott & Co.'s wholesale house. Across the river is the Union station.

Doors are being cut through on several floors from the ten story unit into the six story Walker building, designed by the late Louis Sullivan, and erected in 1889 by Martin Ryerson for use by the James H. Walker company, wholesale dry goods.

Report Several Deals Closed.

The entire Ryerson properties cover 31,000 square feet, fronting 228 feet on Adams, 165 feet on the river and Market street, and 200 feet on Quincy street.

Harold Egan & Co. report having closed recently the following deals in this block: Frank R. Flynn, doing business as the Clerical Tailoring company; George Field and Walter Dierssen, textile brokers; Yeast Caps, Inc., and Home Foods, Inc., in the office unit, and the Dainty Frock company in the annex section of the Union Terminal building.

DRY GOODS.

New York, March 30.—(AP)—Textile primary markets were inactive on the whole today and prices showed little change. Print cloths were available in a few places at 6¾ cents for 38½ inch 64x60s with business also done at 6¾ cents, small lots being taken. Wash fabrics interest is broadening again and bids fair to quicken soon after the holidays. Prices on men's wear were withdrawn by some leading producers and a wage increase is expected in mill centers. Silk prints are selling moderately. Burlaps were inactive due to holidays. Rayon fabrics are selling better in the higher priced qualities.

SEARS-ROEBUCK SALES IN MARCH 57% ABOVE 1933

Volume for This Year Expands 42.3 Pct.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. did more than 57 per cent more business in the four weeks' period ended March 26 than it did in the corresponding period last year, during which the national banking moratorium occurred. This was disclosed by the monthly sales report of the mail order and chain store organization made public yesterday.

Volume for the March period was also ahead of comparable weeks in 1932, but was behind 1931. Actual sales were $22,362,353 in the period from Feb. 27 to March 26, compared with $14,215,630 last year, an expansion of 57.3 per cent.

Year's Volume Up 42.3 Per cent.

Sales in the March period, the second in the company's fiscal year, brought volume to $42,758,248 for the first two periods of 1934. The fiscal year began Jan. 30. In the first two periods last year sales were $30,042,477. This year's excess over 1933 was $12,715,771, or 42.3 per cent.

Sales in the four weeks' period ended March 26 were $28,256,770 in 1929, $25,174,531 in 1930, $23,452,767 in 1931, and $18,999,087 in 1932.

Investment Goods Sales Better.

Unlike the first sales spurts which came last year, the current figures reflect a revival in the so-called investment goods merchandise such as furniture and other heavy articles. The consuming public has reached the place now where it is purchasing such merchandise in increasing volume.

Like the other big mail order house, Montgomery Ward & Co., Sears has stimulant for its mail business in the fact that prices are on the up trend. Thus catalog prices are apt to be lower than the actual market and attract additional buying.

Brokers Continue Fight on Stock Control Bill

The La Salle Street Cashiers association, an organization of brokerage house employés, went ahead yesterday with plans for presenting opposition to the Fletcher-Rayburn bill to congress. Petitions were circulated by some of the New York exchange houses but the association will present its protests directly rather than by the petition method, it was said.

STOCK EXCHANGES TO RESUME TRADE TODAY; SOME MARKETS CLOSED

Trading will be resumed this morning on the New York Stock Exchange and other security markets and on the Chicago Board of Trade. New York commodity exchanges will remain closed until Monday morning, however, with the exception of the produce market. Leading European markets will not reopen until Tuesday morning in observance of the Easter season.

Live Stock Prices Firmer; Government Buys More Hogs

The hog market at the close yesterday slid listlessly back to Thursday's price levels after sellers had managed to bolster prices 5 to 10 cents in the best grades at the openings.

Buyers showed little interest in anything but the scattering of selected light and light butchers which are bringing the top quotations. These sold mostly during the early rounds to shippers and federal buyers at $4.40 to $4.50, the latter paid for 210 to 240 pound averages, the top price. The general average for the day also showed a 5 cent gain at $4.20.

Hog Receipts Are Small.

After directs had been deducted from the day's receipts, less than 8,000 head remained for sale. Volume handled by smaller houses and city butchers was small again, some remaining out of the trade, particularly those without government buying orders for the relief corporation.

Packers buying for the government obtained 2,050 "relief" hogs yesterday, mostly good to choice grades at $4.40 to $4.45, with occasional lots up to the top of $4.50. Most buyers lately have been showing a preference for the highly finished hogs which are acutely scarce, and the premium for quality has gone up a little.

The trade for "seconds" selling at $4 and under was on a "catch as catch can" basis. Bulk of the good grades of butchers averaging 250 to 325 pounds cashed at $4.10 to $4.35.

Cattle Prices Hold Steady.

Yesterday's meager supply of beef steers sold mostly within a range of $5.25 to $5.75, only occasional lots selling above the outside figure. One load of 948 pound yearlings topped the list at $6.50, but the trade is carrying a nominal quotation of $7.65 for prime medium and weighty stock on the strength of the last sale of such kinds here this week.

Lambs made a good showing in yesterday's session, old crop lambs advancing 10 to 15 cents to the highest point of the week, while the new crop of native spring lambs for the Easter trade held firm. Packers bought wooled lambs around $9.25 early, but shippers and city butchers later made their selections up to $9.40. The previous top this week was stopped at $9.35. Native spring lambs averaging 43 pounds sold at $12.50.

Buy Silver to Expand Money —Vanderlip

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—Purchase of silver to expand the currency was favored today by Frank A. Vanderlip before a senate agricultural subcommittee during a hearing on the Dies silver bill, which has passed the house, but he was opposed to bimetallism as a pratical expedient.

Mr. Vanderlip said that expanding the volume of currency would raise commodity prices. He favored the purchase of silver with gold in order to make possible a redistribution of gold which, he held, is necessary before the world can adopt a universal gold standard.

Doubts Help for Orient.

As far as the purchase of silver to increase purchasing power in the orient is concerned, Mr. Vanderlip testified that a raise in the price of silver would cause a lowering in commodity prices and purchasing power in the far east.

Mr. Vanderlip believed a universal bimetallic standard would be advantageous to the world, but felt certain that the world would not adopt this view and that the United States would be foolhardy to attempt to take this step alone. He also expressed the opinion that if the United States adopted bimetallism it would not result in a great outpouring of silver on the world markets.

Will Draft Silver Bill.

Senator Smith, chairman of the committee, announced that after enough witnesses were heard to get a rounded viewpoint, a silver bill, including the principal provisions of the Dies measure, would be reported by the committee.

Senator Wheeler told the committee that a general repudiation of debts was threatened unless the amount of money in circulation was increased. He urged that the mints be authorized to coin a free and unlimited amount of silver on a ratio to be established by law.

GREAT NORTHERN TO ADD MEN AS TRAFIC EXPANDS

Duluth, Minn., March 30.—(AP)—Plans to add more than 1,000 men to its present force, in anticipation of an increased movement of iron ore, were announced today by Fred D. Kelsey, division superintendent of the Great Northern railway, in Superior, Wis.

"Business conditions for the first quarter of this year," he said, "have improved materially, and, taking this as an index of the trend for the balance of the year, we have just completed plans for employment of an additional 1,050 men during April and May."

New York Central Lines Buy 38,900 Tons of Rails

New York, March 30.—(AP)—Purchase of 38,900 tons of steel rails from three steel companies was announced today by the New York Central Lines. With the exception of an order for 1,900 tons placed with the Carnegie Steel company for the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad, the purchases will be financed from the Public Works administration.

COAL MEN SPLIT ON 7 HOUR DAY AT CODE PARLEY

Strike Threats Revived Among Miners.

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(AP)—A move to place the nation's vast soft coal industry on a seven hour working day was sidetracked temporarily today at the bituminous coal code conference, leaving the issue clouded by uncertainty. Threats of strikes among the miners were revived in view of the possibility that April 1, expiration date of the code provisions fixing wages and hours, would find the question still unsettled.

A proposal to extend the shorter day throughout the industry was made to the conference by the joint wage scale committee which early today ratified the seven hour day and a new wage scale for the Appalachian region. The committee also recommended a scale of wages to be paid outside the Appalachian fields.

Majority Supports Plan.

Although the proposal had the support of the entire membership of the United Mine Workers of America and of operators who produce approximately 80 per cent of the country's soft coal, the conference adjourned until tomorrow without taking any action.

John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, appealed to the recovery administration to act at once in the matter "to protect the industry from confusion" and to prevent loss of operation after April 1. K. M. Simpson, divisional administrator in charge of the coal code, said the administration would have an announcement tomorrow concerning the policy to be followed regarding the code.

Fight Over District Wages.

The fight of operators of the Fairmont region of northern West Virginia against elimination from the Appalachian wage agreement of their 24 cent wage differential over the Pittsburgh district broke out on the floor of the conference.

F. A. Krafft, representing the Fairmont group, charged that bituminous coal operators of Pennsylvania and Ohio were making an "unjustifiable" demand that the West Virginia wage scale be changed to conform with that of the Pittsburgh district. J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal company, declared there was no difference in living costs between the two regions to justify the differential and that Pittsburgh enjoyed no competitive advantage in the markets.

Higher Steel Prices Seen as Wage Boost Result

An early advance in steel prices as a result of the 10 per cent wage advance in the industry is predicted by the Daily Metal Trade. The journal says that $2 to $3 a ton may be added to current prices in the next few months. Since most consumers have made their commitments for second quarter requirements, any advance in prices is not likely to be reflected in earnings until the third quarter, the publication adds.

Liquid Carbonic.

Investors' Guide: Would appreciate any information in regard to Liquid Carbonic, including recent earnings.—T. C. P.

Answer: Liquid Carbonic corporation was established about 1895. It is one of the largest manufacturers of soda fountains and carbonic gas. Legalization of beer and other alcoholic products stimulated 1933 earnings. After the first rush for bar equipment the demand tapered off, but the company reports steady sales of carbonic gas which is used in dispensing beer.

For the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1933, net sales were $1,547,000 and loss was $131,000. For the corresponding 1932 period sales were $988,000 and loss $384,000.

1933	$ 7,567,000	$ 367,000	$ 1.05
1932	6,814,000	*441,000	*1.29
1931	9,858,000	1,086,000	3.17
1930	13,627,000	1,786,000	5.22

*Loss.

The improvement in 1933 was somewhat offset by the decline in sales of soft drinks, but the management regards that factor as only temporary.

On Sept. 30, 1933, current assets, including cash assets of $1,350,000, totaled $8,863,000 and current liabilities were $938,000. During the year $150,000 notes payable were eliminated.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 350,000 shares of no par stock on which dividends of 25 cents a quarter are currently being paid. The stock is speculative.

Madison-Clark Bldg.

Investors' Guide: Can you give me any information as to the value of a one hundred dollar bond of Madison-Clark Building corporation? It is a 6½ per cent first mortgage leasehold and building. This bond was defaulted Aug. 5, 1930, and is due March 15, 1942. I am holding a certificate of deposit.—M. W. G.

Answer: In July, 1932, the court entered an order canceling the ground lease securing these bonds and ordered the property returned to the Leiter estate. This automatically canceled the bonds, leaving them practically worthless, as it was a leasehold bond issue and secured only by the mortgage on the leasehold estate.

The only matter not disposed of is the application of funds in the possession of the receiver. As soon as the court enters an order with respect to such funds, all interested parties will be notified.
